SOUTHAMPTON A MASS OF RUINS: FIRST EYEWITNESS DESCRIPTION

Nazi Luftwaffe Renders Thousands Homeless

Southampton lies in ruins. For fifteen hours—eight hours on Saturday, and another seven hours on Sunday—the German Luftwaffe rained down high explosive and incendiary bombs in indiscriminate fashion, smashing churches, homes, business houses, hospitals and almost every conceivable non-military objective. Thousands have been rendered homeless and unemployed, and to-day the dazed, but still calm population is undertaking an orderly evacuation. The first eyewitness story of the shocking effects of the Nazi "hate" raids on Southampton has been received by cable from Edward Beattie, the "United Press" correspondent, who secured the world-beating story of the Panay bombing for the "Telegraph," and in 1938 flew from Hongkong to Vienna when the Austrian Anschluss occurred.

POPULATION REMAINS CALM

By EDWARD BEATTIE
"United Press" Correspondent

SOUTHAMPTON, DEC. 2 (UP).—THE "ALL-OUT" NAZI ON-SLAUGHTS HAVE TURNED THE GREAT SEAPORT OF SOUTHAMPTON INTO ONE OF THE MOST SPECTACULAR SCENES OF RUIN THROUGHOUT ENGLAND.

UNTIL LAST WEEK-END THE CITY HAD BEEN ALMOST PASSED OVER BY THE WAR. THREE DAYS AGO, WHEN I WAS HERE, THIS PORT WAS SERIOUSLY ATTACKED ONLY ONCE AND THE DAMAGE WAS MAINLY SUPERFICIAL.

To-night, after an eight-hour and another seven-hour pelting of high explosives and incendiary bombs, it is a city H. G. Wells might have imagined.

For half a mile along the High Street there is nothing left but blank walls and fire-gutted interiors, with a tremendous jumble of debris. Another section of the town closer to the waterfront presents a similar picture. In dozens of parts of the town houses have been smashed and trees uprooted.

REFUGEES FLOCK FROM CITY

Homeless refugees are flocking from the city by any means available, some pushing their bedding and their remaining belongings in little handcarts and baby carriages, while loudspeakers mounted on trucks patrol the city telling the population what to do.

Troops have been moved in and are helping the local police, firemen and air raid precaution workers to keep order.

HARDLY ANYTHING WORTH SAVING

All fires have long since been brought under control, but along the main street there is hardly anything worth saving. What the explosive bombs have not smashed, the incendiaries have gutted.

Half a dozen or more big churches have gone completely with only their walls standing. Grass in the parks is pock-marked with dirty grey burns from the incendiary bombs which must have showered down like rain.

Thousands of people are with-raid shelters calmly and with no out jobs because of the numbers signs of panic.

U.S. TO STABILISE CHINA'S CURRENCY

By WILLIAM LANDER
UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UP).—The United States Congress to-day virtually gave a blanket endorsement to a strong Administration foreign policy, and at the same time opened the way to stabilise the currencies of other nations technically at peace.

"This is the beginning of a new policy regarding stabilisation," said Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Henry Morgenthau at to-day's press conference, when he revealed that the major question at the joint Committee meeting to-day was whether China is at war or at peace.

The joint session decided that since the United States has not invoked the Neutrality Law with regards the Sino-Japanese war, China is technically at peace, Mr. Morgenthau explained.

"This is part and parcel of the whole Chinese picture and the Chinese leaders have convinced the Administration that they need help," the Secretary explained further.

Buying Yuan At Fixed Rate
He added that the details of the scheme have not been worked out, but it would undoubtedly involve the buying of the Chinese yuan at a rate fixed during the negotiations.

Mr. Morgenthau said he had testified before the joint Committee meeting because he felt morally obliged to explain to Congress whether or not China was at war. Earlier in the year, he said, some members of Congress had feared that a Stabilisation Fund might be used to support France and thereby aid France at war.

Mr. Morgenthau at that time said this was not the intention of the stabilisation scheme and he had promised that if ever a doubt should arise he would testify to great scale of operations," states a joint communique by the Air Ministry and the Home Security Ministry to-day.

Planes Over Liverpool
LONDON, Dec. 2 (UP).—At 8 p.m. German raiders were reported over Liverpool. Up until 9 p.m. there had been no night alarm in the London area, perhaps due to the dense fog and low unbroken clouds blanketing the Straits of Dover.

Savagery Renewed
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Dec. 2 (UP).—A west England town which was bombed several times recently was again bombed with flames, incendiary bombs and high explosive for several hours early this morning and reports showed that several districts were damaged.

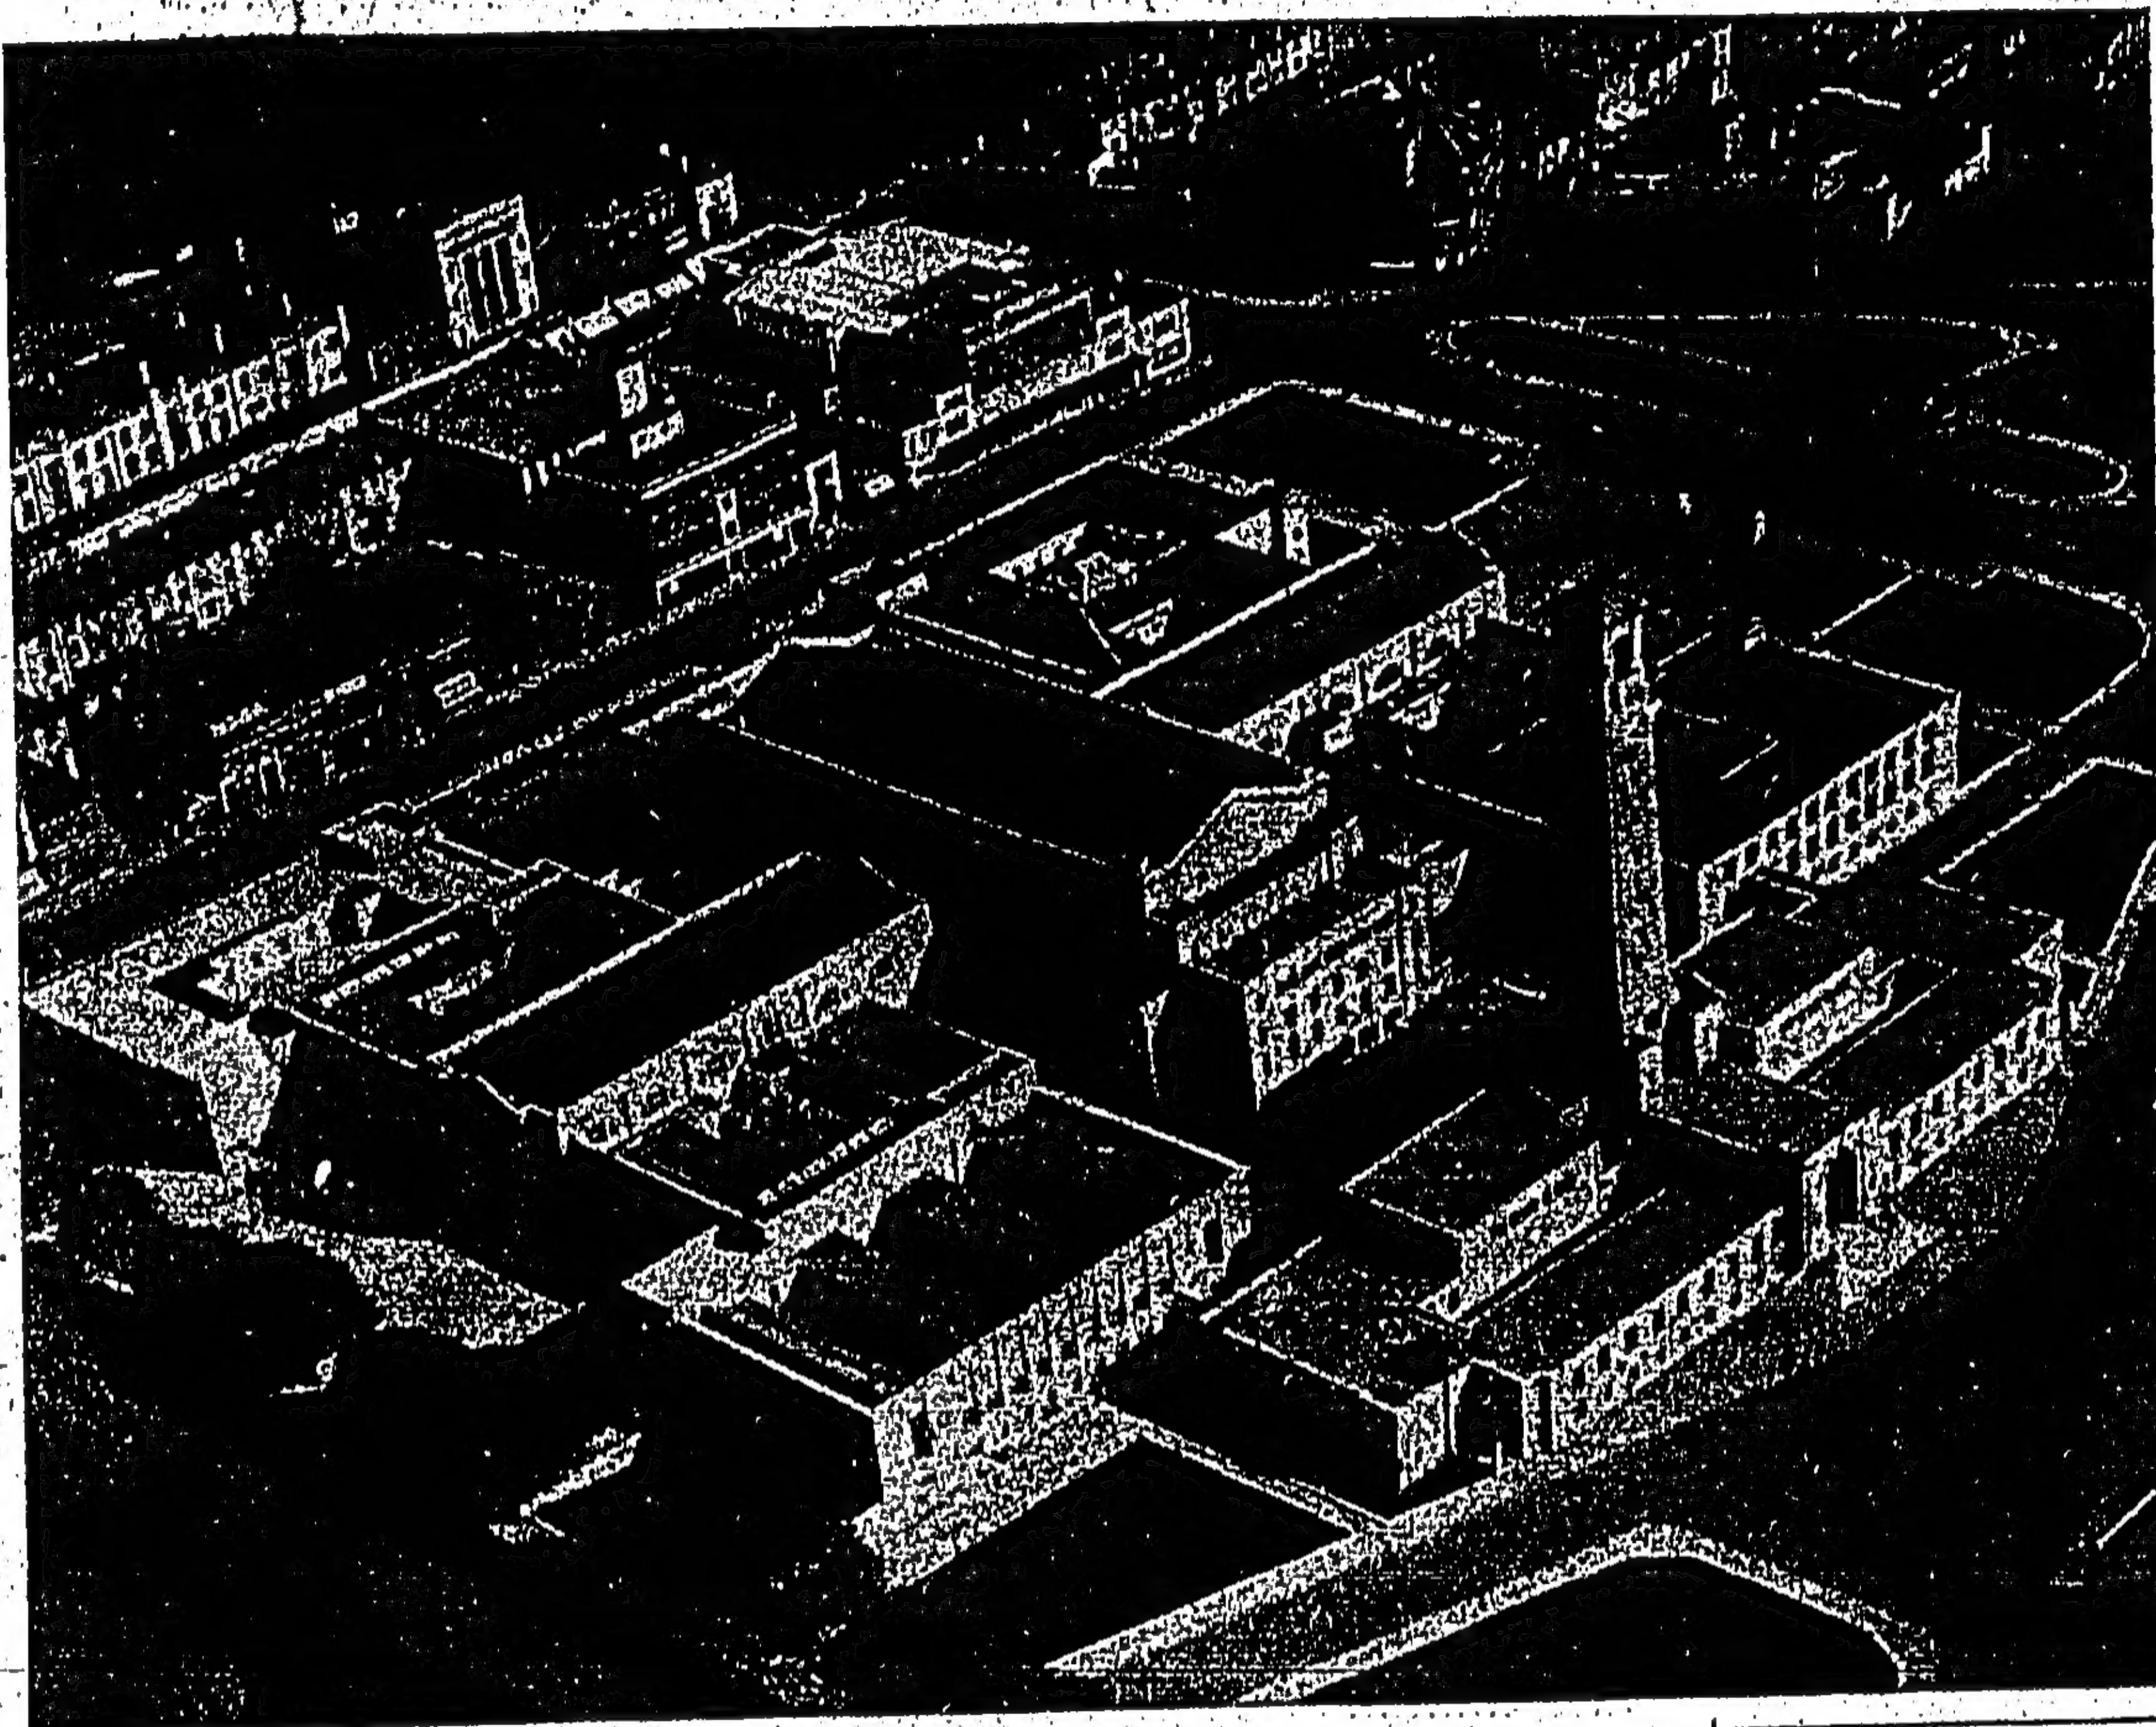

A south-western town was attacked for the seventh successive night but an intense barrage held off the raiders who for the third night running did not penetrate the town itself and no bombs were dropped.

The air activity elsewhere is slight although raiders were reported on the south coast area, East Angles, south Wales and Liverpool.

For the second night in a week, no warning was sounded in the London area up to midnight.

West Country & Wales
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Dec. 2 (UP).—Incendiary bombs were showered over a west country town and the west country town was again bombed this morning but no reports of damage were received.

Canadian Premier's Armageddon Warning

Special to the "Telegraph"

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (UP).—Germany is still largely intact and presents "an appalling menace," warned the Canadian Premier Mr. Mackenzie King in the House of Commons here to-day.

"It is going to take all that all of us can do and give to beat Germany. No one can say even now that the world is not headed for Armageddon," the Premier asserted.

However, the Premier dissociated himself from the statement made by Mr. Robert H. Jackson, the Conservative leader, who alleged that the war situation is now unprecedentedly grave. Further, he deprecated the report that Birmingham, Bristol and Southampton have been destroyed.

Angry Woman Struck K'loon Bus Conductor

Mrs. A. J. Mann of 4 Fuk Lo Tsun Road, first floor, Kowloon City was summoned before Mr. E. Himsforth at Kowloon Magistracy this morning for (a) unlawfully travelling on a Kowloon motor bus on November 5 without paying the fare, and with intent to avoid such payment and (b) unlawfully assaulting Wong Yu, bus conductor, at or near Hau Wong Road on November 5.

Mrs. Mann pleaded not guilty. Mr. E. S. C. Brooks who appeared for the Kowloon Motor Bus Company Ltd., said that on November 5, the bus left Kowloon City at 8.32 p.m. for Tsimshui and at about 8.40 p.m. the defendant boarded it at the bus stop in Hau Wong Road and sat in the first class compartment. The conductor went up to the defendant intending to sell her a ticket but she did not attempt to buy one or give any indication that she had a monthly ticket.

Became Angry
The conductor, continued Mr. Brooks, made several attempts to sell a ticket to the defendant with no results and then, the defendant eventually became rather angry and said that the conductor was not an Inspector and that he had no right to ask her for her ticket. The defendant continued to grumble and eventually struck the conductor on the face, said Mr. Brooks.

There were two other employees of the Bus Company present, and they helped the conductor and one of them was struck by the defendant. The bus was driven to a Police Station and there a Police Inspector asked the defendant for her season ticket, but she said she could not produce one. In fact, the defendant had a monthly ticket for the month of October. That ticket had expired. On the day after this incident, the defendant applied and obtained a ticket for November.

Struck Conductor
Evidence for the prosecution was then given by Wong Yu, the conductor involved, by Fung Chiu and Chan Fu, employees of the Bus Company who were present at the alleged incident, and by Chung Sing-kwan and So Ying, two women, and Li Sing-yat, a dentist, who were passengers on the bus that night. They all averred that it was the defendant who struck the conductor first. They had not seen the conductor striking the defendant.

Referring to the first charge, the defendant said that she had not bought a bus ticket at the beginning of November because she had intended moving from her present address in Kowloon City to a place closer to the Star Ferry. She had intended to pay her fare every time she boarded a bus.

Wanted To Alight
On the night of November 5, said the defendant, when she boarded the bus she told the conductor to stop the vehicle at once because she had forgotten to take her money with her. The conductor replied that he could not stop the bus and she answered that she would alight at the next stopping place. When the bus stopped she intended leaving it but two Chinese stopped her and the conductor struck her on the chest.

The defendant also said that every night she had scolded this particular conductor because he used to stand beside her and she said to him "Why do you have to stand next to me and peep at me?" "I notice that this bus conductor does not like me. I scold him every night. He is very abusive. The other conductors do not stand next to me and peep at me," said the defendant.

Earlier in the proceedings, the defendant stated that when she was about to leave the bus, two men who were standing at the entrance prevented her from doing so by embracing her. The conductor struck her chest. "I lost my temper and kicked him out," said the defendant.

Mrs. Garcia's Evidence
The conductor denied the allegations made against him. Mrs. D. Garcia said that she was not on the bus on the night of November 5.

Mr. Himsforth said the defendant says that this conductor has the habit of leaning over her on the bus. Is that so?

Witness—I don't know. Mr. Himsforth then told the defendant that he did not think that the story she had told was the correct version of what had happened. He found her guilty on both counts.

Mrs. Mann was cautioned for the first offence and fined $10 for the assault charge. Mr. Himsforth said to defendant, "Your conduct in striking this conductor is indefensible in my opinion. Do you understand?"

A total of 3.67 inches of rain was recorded by the Botanical Gardens during November. Rain fell on eight days, the heaviest being on November 1, when 1.31 inches were registered.

Greeks In Syria May Not Leave Country

CAIRO, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—Exit permits for about 3,000 Greeks of military age in Syria have been reported as being withheld on representation of the Italian Armistice Commission.

This, together with other reports from Beirut, indicates the embarrassment which is being caused to the French authorities in Syria by the Greek and British success against the Italians.

Turkey's defence measures and resistance to Axis pressure have also made a profound impression.

The French High Commissioner in Syria has issued an appeal to the population for loyalty to the Petain Government.

It says: "We all preserve in our hearts the memory of aggression which caused French blood to flow, but to-day, as yesterday, we shall not take up arms except to defend our lives."

WHAT MAKES AN EXPLOSION

MUCH-BOMBED citizens may gain small consolation in learning that their troubles are caused by waves of high-pressure air, lasting about 1-10,000th of a second and created by the combustion of trinitrotoluene and ammonium nitrate. But a knowledge of high-explosives is certainly topical nowadays and may be useful.

There are hundreds of explosives, with varying powers and qualities, but "work" roughly the same way. A mixture, or compound, of chemicals which is stable enough in the ordinary way is either ignited by fire or "shocked" by a blow or minor explosion. The result is a violent reaction, producing great quantities of gas which burst the container and compress the surrounding air into an expanding steel-hard wall moving at a speed of miles a second which pushes buildings and people before it.

Following this wave of pressure comes one of low pressure—a virtual vacuum. Walls and windows damaged by the first blast are dragged outwards into the street. It has saved many in basements: killed some on the pavements.

The first explosive really dates back to the thirteenth century when Roger Bacon's experiments produced the first pure nitre which, mixed with charcoal and sulphur, makes gunpowder (The earlier Chinese "explosives" were comparative toys.) The first guns arrived early in the next century and for years could throw only iron or stone cannon-balls. The first explosive "shells"—metal balls filled with gunpowder and exploded by a fuse consisting of a tube filled with powder—were used in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. They were not successful and did not supersede cannon-balls.

The perfection of percussion devices, which would explode on contact and set off the main charge, came only in the early nineteenth century. They made possible the modern rifle, shell and bomb, but it was mid-century before the time fuse was ready for barrage warfare.

For hundreds of years gunpowder was virtually the only explosive. This did not suit nineteenth century war experts. They wanted vastly more power. And they wanted different types of explosives—for filling bombs and shells which developed all their force in an instantaneous, shattering blast; for propelling shells out of their guns they needed slow-burning explosives, which would not shatter the barrels but would exert a steady growing pressure on the shells. In 1846 nitro-glycerine was produced. By spraying glycerine into a mixture of nitric and sulphuric acids, the scientists found that a thick, oily substance with dangerous habits was produced. If dropped, hit, shaken violently, it exploded with vast force. Some kinds went off if a fly was rash enough to alight on the surface.

No use as a commercial or war explosive, this. Until Nobel in 1867 mixed the temperamental nitro-glycerine with wood flour and produced a fairly stable, easily handled plastic mass which he called dynamite. A few years earlier other experimenters had treated cotton and wood pulp with nitric acid and produced another fairly safe (if absolutely pure) explosive—ideal for filling torpedoes when they arrived later on—which was called gun-cotton. Other explosives followed. Modern warfare was about to quicken its tempo.

Form combinations of oily nitro-glycerine and solid gun-cotton came the first cordites—slow-burning, safe explosives, suitable for propelling bullets and shells. Improved cordites are used to-day (it takes an 80 lb. charge to sling a medium-sized shell). Uncompressed and lit, they just burnt fiercely. But compressed and sent off by a percussion cap's small burst, they developed great explosive force.

Much later, but in time for the last war, came the first "super" high-explosive.

Named trinitrotoluene, T.N.T. for short, it had a tremendous blasting effect as a filler for shells and bombs. It is still being used as such to-day—despite the rumours of newer and more devastating agents.

It was not hard to make. Toluene, a liquid derived from coal, was mixed with nitric and sulphuric acids, and after a process of agitation and temperature regulation, an oil which solidified when poured into water, was produced. One of the safest—except for the enemy—of explosives.

Bombs and shells to-day are filled with T.N.T. or with an explosive called Amatol, which is a mixture of T.N.T. and ammonium nitrate, and nearly smokeless. Amatol does not explode on slight provocation so the modern bomb contains a "booster" charge of ordinary powder, which is set off by a small "percussion" charge of fulminate of mercury as the bomb hits the ground, and in turn starts off the main explosive charge.

A bomb loaded into a plane will not go off however much you belabour it. But, as it falls through the air, a tiny propeller-spinner twists off in the rush of wind, and renders the bomb "alive." The weight of steel casing, nose-cap, fins, fuses and "booster" charge is such that the actual explosive is not more than half the total weight of the bomb and—in armour-piercing bombs—is only about one-tenth.

The time-bomb, intended to crash through buildings and pavements, is stronger but molds less explosive than the contact bomb which goes off directly it hits and causes a little crater. Acid, eating slowly through a metal container of any desired thickness, provides the "time fuse," actuates the detonator.

Though scores of war explosives exist, cordites, T.N.T. and Amatol are about the most important. There have been rumours of a "new" liquid-air bomb, tried out with "unexampled devastation" on Barcelona. This explosive is not new and probably unsuitable for warfare. For long miners have used a cartridge of carbon, which is soaked in cold new and probably unsuitable liquid air or oxygen immediately before it is needed, and explodes violently when detonated. No dangerous fumes are caused, but the liquid air evaporates rapidly at ordinary temperatures, and the cartridge soon goes dead.

Bombs filled with this explosive would be difficult to handle and, experts say, no more devastating than T.N.T. or Amatol. Most possible explosive mixtures and compounds have already been tried out and a new "super-super" filling for bombs is not likely.

Killed By Disease
He Fought

SIR HENRY HEAD, one of the world's greatest neurologists, devoted most of his life to finding out more about paralysis.

He risked getting the disease by experimenting on himself.

He even cut the nerves of his legs, arm, near the elbow, to study "deep sensibility," and recorded his reactions day by day.

Eventually he fell a victim to Parkinson's disease, the form of paralysis which had occupied most of his studies.

Recently his death, at the age of 79, was announced.

Specialists learned from this experiment how messages are transmitted from the nerves to the brain.

Nobody knew more than Sir Henry about Parkinson's disease, which is also known as trembling palsy. Trembling movements in certain parts tend to become widely diffused throughout the body.

Sir Henry became afflicted years ago. With the development of the disease, he became a cripple.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION GOES AHEAD

The large scale air raids on London have necessitated big calls on the blood transfusion services. Regular deliveries of blood are now being made to the hospitals, often during raids and hundreds of lives have been saved. On one day alone some 300 pints of blood were given by donors, while S.O.S. calls have met with a magnificent response.

CANADIAN PROBLEM

ALARM has recently been voiced by representatives of British Columbia at the presence in that rich province of Canada of some 30,000 Japanese, the suggestion being that they constitute a menace increasing in proportion to the strained relations between Japan and Britain in the Far East. There can be no doubt that the position certainly needs watching because fifth columnist activities have played an enormous part in this present war—and the Japanese, whose use of this potent method has been illustrated only in China so far—and then in the more obvious forms of propaganda and espionage—have proved themselves willing to study Axis styles in warfare. The suggestion is that they will insinuate themselves into the vital machinery of the foreign countries in which they are accommodated in order to assist Japan should she ever go to war with the Democracies.

The Japanese community in British Columbia have repeatedly expressed their loyalty to Canada and have subscribed liberally to non-active war funds, such as the Red Cross. It would be a pity if hostile classification of alien peoples abroad were to become general. The feeling against Asiatics in British Columbia is based more on economic grounds than any other, the political aspect only giving it point. Many Japanese have lived there for decades, have raised families there, and regard British Columbia as their home.

By virtue of the wide differences in customs and creeds of the white race and Asiatics the Japanese have never mingled intimately with their Canadian neighbours, but that can scarcely be counted against them, since the whites have been equally remiss in finding a common ground of understanding. Such an understanding ought to be found in the development of the country but the lower standard of living of the Japanese is harboured as a grudge against them while they, on the other hand, feel indignant at the withholding of political freedom from Japanese born and bred in Canada. The problem is made more difficult because the Japanese propagate rapidly, the Chinese, on the other hand, seldom bring out their wives from China and often return to their country of origin instead of making Canada their home.

Admitting that the problem cannot be solved easily, it does seem reasonable to avoid taking the initiative in alienating a large and

THE PILOT WHO WAS "SAVED"

I WANT to know what I could truthfully have said to the man sitting next to me in a train.

By
Dudley Barker

He was a tall, grey haired man, obviously not very well off. He wore an old blue suit, and his hands that fidgeted nervously with an unlit pipe were hardened by work.

In the opposite corner sat his wife, trying carefully not to show the grief she was feeling. She was middle-aged, plump, kindly-looking.

Once, as she powdered her nose from a cheap enamel flap-jack, a single tear escaped from her eye—a tear which she hastily dried with her powder puff.

HIS SON

The man and I talked desultorily of air raids, and suddenly he blurted it out. He had to tell someone.

"My son is a Spitfire pilot," he said, "and last night we had some bad news. His wife came round to tell us she had just heard he was taken to a hospital in the South-East."

"We do not know what happened to him. The girl was driven down by her father last night, and we are on our way. We heard last night that they had to amputate an arm, and that his face is badly burned. That's all we know."

I tried hard to think of something to say that would not intrude too far into his sorrow. All I could think of saying, though I knew it to be inadequate, was that perhaps, there might be some comfort in the thought that the fighter pilots are the men who have saved England.

"There's the Navy, too," replied the pilot's father. "There are some fine men in the Navy." The pilot's mother was looking from the window at a little house we happened to be passing. It had been shattered and charred by a bomb, and she said, "How terrible for the people who lived in that house."

"That was all the pilot's mother said."

But the man felt the need to go on talking.

Industrious community, and incidentally furthering the decline of rampant nationalism being nurtured in Japan to-day. We cannot act against the Japanese because they are Oriental; we should only act against them when they become our enemies. And that action, when the time comes to take it, should be of a nature which will allow us to take up the lines of free intercourse with all people so that we do not go backwards along the path of freedom.

"He is our only child," he said, "and he was doing so well before the war started. He was a ground engineer at a civil aerodrome, but he was always keen to fly, so he put his name down for the Volunteer Reserve."

"He did a good job before this happened to him. He had five German planes to his credit."

He put a match to his pipe and listlessly let it go out again.

"What sort of a life is he going to have after this?" he asked. "A man with one arm and perhaps with his face disfigured. Do you think he will be able to hold down a civilian job after the war?"

They got out soon to change into the train that would take them to the hospital where their son lies—a Spitfire pilot with five German planes to his credit—with one arm amputated and the marks of fire on his face.

I glanced at my newspaper and read, "Fifteen of our planes are missing, but eleven pilots are safe."

His son, then, was one of the eleven who were safe.

"I WANT TO KNOW"

But I want to know what we mean by that word "safe." Do we just mean "still alive"? Or do we mean safe not only from guns of the raiders but safe ever after from any fear of poverty and distress and the shortness of peace-time memories?

I want to know whether I could have said to that man in the train: "Your son is one of the few thousand young men who have saved England, and, indirectly, the whole world, from slavery. Because of his gallantry he has been maimed."

"But he will not be rewarded, as some men of the last war were, with the tiny official pension, a rousing homecoming, and then forgetfulness and a job selling something from suburban door to door."

WILL IT BE?

"No, in gratitude for what your son has done for us we will see to it that he never suffers want or distress throughout the rest of his life. We will see to it that he and his wife live in comfort and honour and his children get the finest education this country can offer."

"And, because we know that human memories are short when danger has passed, we are already making watertight plans to carry these promises out, and we are already putting aside the funds needed to do so, before we forget."

"We cannot presume to comfort the grief that you, your wife and your son's wife, suffer now. But we can relieve you of any fear of the future."

I DID NOT SAY THOSE THINGS TO THE MAN I CHANGED TO MEET IN THE TRAIN YESTERDAY. I HAVE HEARD NOTHING SO FAR TO MAKE ME BELIEVE THAT, HAD I SAID THEM, I SHOULD HAVE SPOKEN TRUTHFULLY.

Old Bailey Trial Goes On Despite Air Raid

During recent air raid warnings three of the four Courts at the Central Criminal Court adjourned. Sir Gerald Dodson, Recorder of London, presiding over Court 2, carried on as usual. He asked the jurors in waiting to sit at the back of the court because there was a possible danger of glass splinters falling from the glass-domed roof.

"Anybody who desires to retire—I was going to say retreat," said the RECORDER, "is at complete liberty to do so, but I have arranged to be informed if gunfire is heard, in which case I think it would be wise to adjourn."

Later, when the anti-aircraft guns began to boom, Sir Gerald Dodson adjourned his Court to his private room, where the hearing of the case before him proceeded. The prisoner was seated in a luxuriously upholstered armchair, with a warder standing by his side.

This is the first time within memory that a trial has been conducted in a Judge's private chamber at the Central Criminal Court.

In releasing the jury, after the hearing of the case, the RECORDER said: "The great thing in my view is to resist interruption. We are all in the battle, and a battle means struggling and fighting, not quietly submitting and going down to a funkhole every time someone blows a whistle."

Vichy Radio. Obeys The Nazi Voice

By VICTOR SCHIFF

Former Paris Correspondent Of the "Daily Herald"

THE rapid evolution of the Vichy Government towards full-blooded Fascism is clearly reflected by the daily news bulletin broadcast by Radio Lyons, the main wireless station in unoccupied France.

On international and military news Lyons has become merely the parrot-echo of Berlin and Rome.

A month ago, although the Berlin and Rome communiques and news from Axis sources were usually given priority, British announcements had a fair deal.

Cynical Abuse

Also French domestic news was generally presented in a comparatively balanced way.

All that has changed for the worse. As in all totalitarian countries the French State wireless is now cynically misused for abusing defenceless opponents. Thus in announcing the "administrative internment" of leaders of the Left, Radio-Lyons makes scornful and anti-Semitic comments.

Anti-British

The French wireless is becoming more and more militantly anti-British.

The reason is obvious, and sometimes implicitly admitted. It is fear of the growing sympathy of average Frenchmen with Great Britain and their hopes in British victory.

Training The Army For Peace Jobs

WHAT about a job when the war is over?

This question is in the minds of many men in the Forces.

Captain Roy Clark, Royal Artillery, is trying to answer it.

He has placed before Weymouth Rotary Club and Weymouth Chamber of Commerce a voluntary training scheme for soldiers, and several employers have promised support.

Captain Clark wants to see the idea extended to all parts of the country—and the Empire.

Chance To Learn

Employers are asked to interest themselves in small groups of soldiers and have them in their offices, works and shops during off-duty hours to give them an opportunity of learning what they can.

South Dorset Technical College is being asked to give opportunities to young soldiers to take special courses which employers would be able to supplement in a personal way.

"It would mean," said Captain Clark, "the utilisation, on a finer and clearer conception, of the immense potentialities of the British Commonwealth."

"That seems to be the key to the future peace and prosperity of the world."

A New Life

"It is an idea which would offer our people a new life which they have proved, as never before, they so richly deserve."

What the man in the Forces is thinking is told in a letter which Captain Clark has received from a soldier, who in civilian life is a schoolmaster.

The writer says: "I have found it intensely interesting in the seven months I have been in the Army, to listen to the conversations and ponder over the thoughts foremost in men's minds during these days of war."

"I feel certain that the majority would be far happier if only they knew that after the war they would not find themselves on the labour market, as men who had lost their skill and forgotten their business."

"It is my opinion that all forms of recreational and educational training should be encouraged."

BRITAIN'S ORDEAL: FIERCE NAZI AERIAL "BLITZ" CONTINUES

Special to the "Telegraph"

LONDON, DEC. 2 (UP).—(9 P. M.) A "BLITZ" ATTACK IS BELIEVED TO BE DEVELOPING OVER THE SOUTHEAST ENGLAND AREA. SEVERAL DISTRICTS HAVE BEEN BOMBED.

BOMBS WERE ALSO DROPPED ON AN EAST ANGLIAN TOWN WHERE THE RAID BEGAN EARLY TO-NIGHT. RAIDERS ARE ALSO OVER SOUTH WALES.

British Planes' Attack On Shipyards

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, DEC. 2 (UP).—The Air Ministry to-day announced that the R.A.F. attacked Marine-works, one of Germany's most important shipyards at Wilhelmshaven, despite adverse weather conditions. Large fires followed the showers of incendiary bombs.

Marine-works contains six dry-docks, with many warships, including submarines.

The announcement said that on Sunday, aircraft of the Coastal Command attacked the submarine base and naval docks at Wilhelmshaven, the power station and drydocks at Brest, a military camp at Kristiansand, and also the gas works at Esbjerg, where explosions and flames covered the whole area.

No British aircraft were lost.

Raiding Through Night Clouds

LONDON, DEC. 2 (British Wireless).—Last night a small force of British heavy bombers despite very unfavourable weather decided to ignore regulations which operated in peace time that only German submarines were allowed to visit Marine-works at Wilhelmshaven, one of Germany's most important shipbuilding yards.

Marine-works lies beside a large basin from which canal leads to the sea. Warships of all kinds are built there and there are six dry docks in which a large number of submarines can be under construction at the same time.

The British bombers came over Wilhelmshaven when night was well advanced and their attack ended not long before dawn, says the Air Ministry. The weather, which had kept all British aircraft at home the night before, had not greatly improved. Clouds hung low over the town and often made a continuous screen between the British pilots and the ground. Visibility was never good but there were occasions when the clouds parted and bombers on watch for just such moments were able to take their aim.

A large fire sprang up well within the limits of the shipbuilding yards where a shower of incendiaries had fallen. Five bursts were seen on factory buildings between Canal Hafen and Tirpitz Hafen when heavy high explosive bombs went down.

LIVERPOOL AGAIN VISITED

LONDON, DEC. 2 (Reuter).—No air raid sirens have sounded in the London area yet this evening, but raiders have been reported over other parts of Britain. Bombs have been dropped in a south-west town which had other heavy air raids recently and where a "blitz" appears to have been developing.

Raiders were again over the south coast area recently and were attacked by heavy anti-aircraft fire.

Raiders were reported in the vicinity of Liverpool and a south Wales town and an East Anglian town where bombs were dropped early to-night.

Raid on Southampton

SOUTHAMPTON, DEC. 2 (UP).—It is estimated that 200 German bombers took part in last night's raid and were met by a most terrific anti-aircraft barrage.

The damage includes several churches, a theatre, four cinema houses, several banks, many shops and houses and a hospital. The raid was described as a "blitz fire raid." Hundreds of incendiary bombs were showered down to light up the targets for waves of raiders.

The damage done in Saturday night's raid was greatly extended and many additional persons are homeless. The destruction of commercial premises in the centre of the city has caused unemployment to hundreds.

Mobile canteens have been rushed through the streets serving tea and coffee to the relays of auxiliary fire fighters and members of the A.R.P. Bodies are still being extricated from the public shelters which were hit on Saturday night and it is feared that other bodies were lost in the craters beneath the debris.

Casualties Number 370

LONDON, DEC. 2 (UP).—A joint Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security communique says that about 370 persons were killed or seriously injured in Southampton during Saturday and Sunday.

German Report

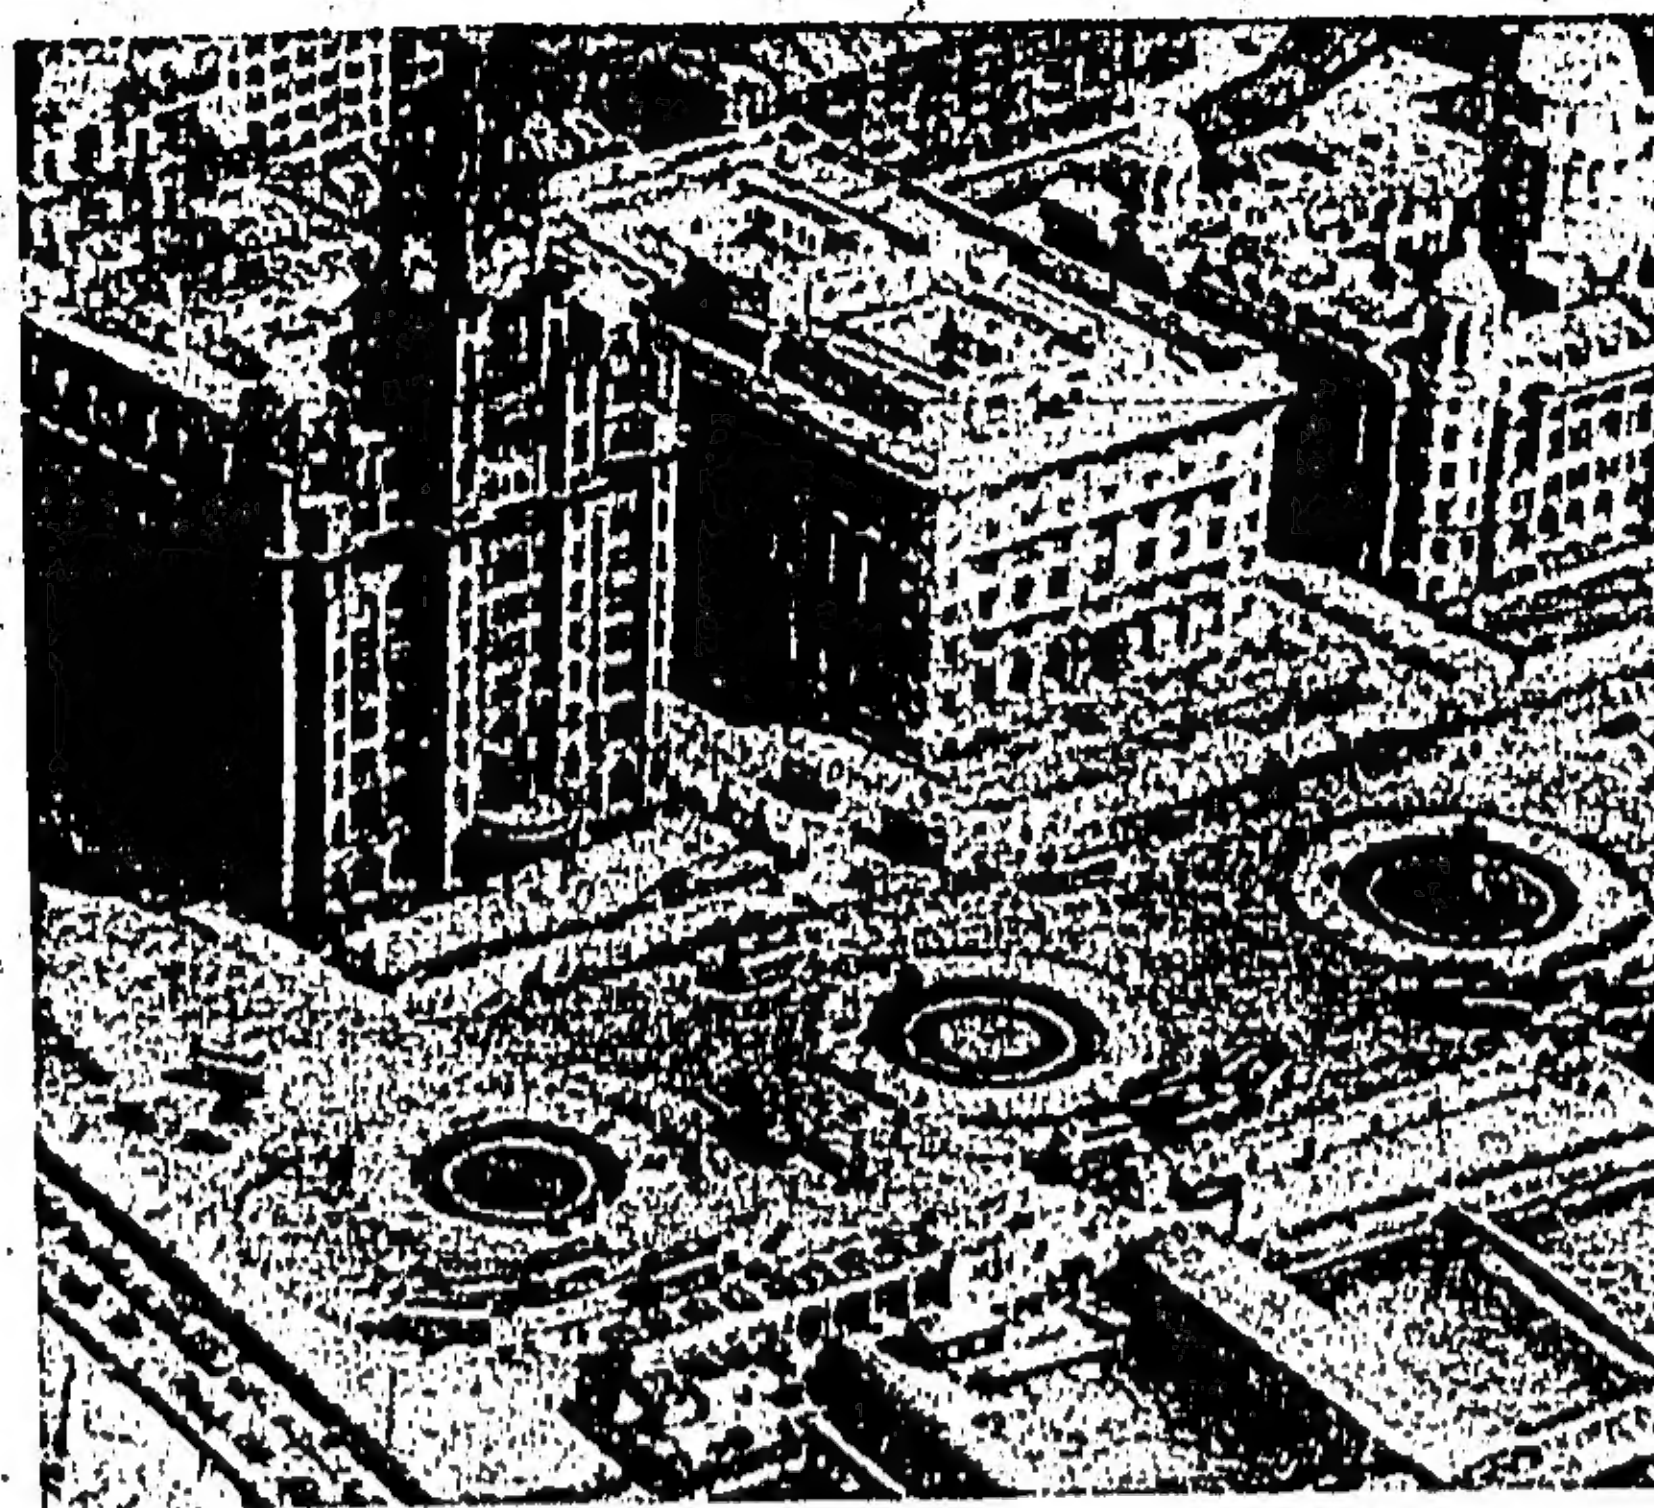

BERLIN, DEC. 2 (UP).—The High Command reports that on Sunday night the Luftwaffe attacked Southampton with bombs of the heaviest calibre. Over 60 large fires were observed including warehouses in the port area.

Yesterday morning, British planes bombed some residential districts in the coastal area and a number of civilians were wounded. Eleven British planes were shot down and two German planes are missing.

Other Nazi Claims

BERLIN, DEC. 2 (UP).—The official news agency announced that simultaneously with the attacks on Southampton, the German air force last night raided London, Liverpool and Birmingham and continued mining British harbours.

It was declared that German reconnaissance planes flew over the Channel, and observers at Cherbourg saw thick yellow smoke clouds as well as flames issuing from Southampton this morning.

Germany Hesitating To Recognise Nanking

Special to the "Telegraph"

BERLIN, DEC. 2 (UP).—The fact that Japan has recognized the Wang Ching-wei Government does not necessarily mean that Germany must follow suit immediately, the German Government spokesman told foreign correspondents to-day.

He said the question of recognizing the Wang regime by Germany will not be raised for the time being. He added that despite the close relations between the signatories of the tripartite pact, certain differences exist in the relations entertained by them with other countries.

FRENCH FORCES ON MOVE

Tension Persists In Indo-China

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

HANOI, DEC. 2 (Domel).—Relations between Thailand and Indo-China became more and more strained to-day as a result of clashes at various points on the Mekong River, and the Indo-China authorities decided to close the entire Thai-Indo-China frontier to traffic.

It is stated that French Indo-China forces have occupied Bangkok, an islet on the Mekong River, about 40 miles south of Vieng Thane on the Thai-Indo-China border.

Indefinite Status

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
HANOI, DEC. 2 (UP).—Government officials here are at present unable to define Indo-China's exact status with regard to Thailand. They emphasize that the border incidents are purely isolated and that there has been no declaration of hostilities.

They would hazard no prediction as to the future, but pointed out that there have been no further incidents since Monday.

However, they also admitted that communication with border posts is now very difficult.

They also claimed that no French planes were damaged in Saturday's air battle.

Native Uprisings

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
HANOI, DEC. 2 (UP).—The sporadic native uprisings are continuing to the southward according to authoritative sources.

The rebelling natives yesterday attacked the Western Cochinchina town of Commi, the administrative building and archives, cutting telephone poles and attacking the house of a notable.

Aerial Dog-Fight

BANGKOK, DEC. 2 (UP).—The Thai High Command communique states that three Thai planes drove off two French planes following a five minute dogfight over Nakorn-Phanom yesterday morning. It is said that one French plane made a forced landing in French territory, after which an explosion was heard and a column of smoke seen.

The communique stated that French anti-aircraft guns fired on a Thai air patrol from Thakhek. It is learned that border towns are enforcing blackouts each night.

French Gunboat Seized

LONDON, DEC. 2 (Reuter).—A French gunboat has been seized by Thailand troops on the Mekong River between Thailand and French Indo-China, according to a despatch from Geneva to a German news agency.

It is believed that a number of lives were lost in the incident.

WHAT STOMACH SUFFERERS CAN EAT

You can't lay up a sick stomach. Your body must be nourished even though solid food and most liquid foods cause pain and vomiting.

The problem has always been to find a food that soothes the inflamed stomach walls and provides all the nourishment needed for recovery. Doctors and nurses agree that Horlicks is such a food. It places no strain upon the digestion, but provides all the body-building elements that the weakened system needs. Convalescence is shortened, new strength and energy pour into the veins with every cupful of Horlicks.

Horlicks is a complete balanced food in a very palatable form. It has been given with remarkable success in the most severe cases of gastritis. Get Horlicks to-day from your usual store.

German Radio Attack On Yugo-Slavia

LONDON, DEC. 2 (Reuter).—Germany marked Yugo-Slavia's National Day by a threatening broadcast. While Prince Paul was declaring Yugo-Slavia's determination to defend her territory and independence, the German radio told Yugo-Slavia to liquidate her spiritual heritage and join the new order. Germany, said the broadcaster, was resolved to carry the new order into effect in the face of a few ignorant people.

Bombs Planted

LONDON, DEC. 2 (Reuter).—It is generally believed that the bombs which exploded on the doorstep of the Vice Premier, M. Matzek, were supplied by German agents, even assuming that they found Croats to do the dirty work. Fortunately, the bombs do not appear to have caused any loss of life and their effect will probably be opposite to that intended.

Hostilities Force Up Colony's Rice Prices

The reported outbreak of actual hostilities between Thailand and Indo-China from where Hongkong obtains most of its rice supply, has caused a sharp rise in the price of the commodity.

Wholesale prices per picul of the three grades of rice in common demand, five days ago and this morning, are as follows:—

First Quality	$14	$17
Second Quality	$12	$15
Third Quality	$11	$13

The price obtaining to-day is on an average nearly double the price in July this year, whilst it is nearly three times above the average price before the Sino-Japanese war.

Prices have risen steadily since trouble started in Indo-China with the advent of the Japanese into that region. The lack of transportation has been a very important factor in forcing up prices. There are at the moment practically no ships plying between this Colony and Indo-China with the exception of a few small freighters operating under the Panama flag.

There has been a noteworthy tendency for the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes to draw closer together since the agreement between Matzek and the Prince Regent.

RUMANIAN SOLDIERS INTERNED

BUDAPEST, DEC. 2 (UP).—Afternoon newspapers here to-day reported that a number of Rumanian soldiers and officers yesterday crossed the Hungarian border in the vicinity of Flew, which is south of Cluj, fleeing from the Iron Guards.

They immediately surrendered themselves to the Hungarian authorities.

The Rumanian officers are quoted as saying they had fled from south Transylvania where the Iron Guard has taken complete control.

Fifth Columnists In America

WASHINGTON, DEC. 2 (Reuter).—Further revelations of fifth columnist activities by the Germans in the United States will, it is believed, be made to the Press in the coming week.

The administration, it is understood, is most concerned over Nazi propaganda which is widespread.

EARLY DECLARATIONS IN VOGUE

K.C.C. Hang On Too Long Against University: Ozorio Bowls Well

One of the features of the season is the number of declarations for small totals. Sometimes they come off and sometimes they do not, but they always make for an exciting game instead of a dull draw. For instance the Small Units declared at 110 for seven wickets leaving the Civil Service eighty minutes to get the runs. The fact that the match was lost did not matter in the slightest. The cricket was interesting right up to the end.

DRAW AT K.C.C.

An example of the reverse process which cost them the game was given by K.C.C.'s late declaration against the University. What possessed Teddy Fincher to go on until he had got 171 on the board, I don't know as against the bowling at his disposal I should have put 130 as a safe score against the University who are not quick scorers though some of them can defend stubbornly. I am informed that the declaration was made just before four and that meant that with the tea interval Kowloon would only have an hour and a half to get the Varsity out. And, though Lloyd was on his day with the ball, at the end only eight wickets had fallen, and only 91 stood on the board.

It is perhaps easy to be wise after the event but I can honestly say I should myself have declared at 130 or 140 at most.

THREE GOOD SCORES

Anderson as usual got a packet of runs scoring his 60 at the rate of nearly a run a minute. F. J. Lay (41) seems developing into one of our better batsmen, while Rapley, whose form is a bit in and out, got a similar number, scoring over a run a minute. I did not see the game but I deduce that either it started a bit late or there were some slow periods for two batsmen put up jointly 101 runs in about 105 minutes, and when not together, the score of the side should be made at about the rate of 1½ runs per minute.

STOUT DEFENCE

Gegg (18) and K. S. Oh (29) not out) saved the side and defended stubbornly. Apart from the first two batsmen whose scores do not quite represent the value of their innings, no one else could do much against Lloyd who had the excellent figures of 6-2-20-6. K.C.C. sent down 24 overs against the University, 23.6, and scored on an average just over three runs per over more.

I.R.C. COLLAPSE

The Indian team is, I am afraid, beginning to rely too much on A. R. Minu and A. H. Madar—their stalwarts for a good many seasons past. With Minu away and A. R. H. Esmail, A. H. Madar and K. Nazarin all making ducks they collapsed hopelessly before Ozorio (0.4-2-32-7) who, I am glad to see, seems to have found his length at last. Reccreio put up a typical innings. The first two batsmen made 14 and 15 respectively but the next scores were 3, 0, 1, and 8 runs. E. D. Gosano stopped the rot and Reccreio (27) as usual held on to things while the newly promoted A. V. Gosano made thirty runs.

The innings closed for 120 runs but it proved good enough. I.R.C. collapsed and the only double figure scores in their total of 88 were made by K. P. Madar (17) and K. M. Raminhan (22). The I.R.C. were one short. I think this is almost unprecedented. I have already referred to Ozorio's bowling.

RUNS GALORE

At Sookunpoo on Saturday last neither the Army nor the Club had sufficient bowling to get each other out. I was surprised at first to see both Alec and John Pearce turning out for the Army but on reflection I suppose this must be so.

It leaves the Club uncommonly weak this year in games where they cannot call up their C.S.C.C. reserves. The Army batted first and after Finch left early, Logan and T. A. Pearce settled down and each got a half century.

I gather Owen Hughes was unlucky to miss bowling Pearce by a coat of paint and also in having him dropped.

The Club had only Knight and Finnie to bowl besides and they could not prevent the Army rattling up 103 for two declared. Webb made 37 not out.

A GOOD START

LAWRENCE has been making very few runs lately and he was the first to change his luck. It worked. He hit up a very nice 63 while Knight, who seems to have settled down to our light very well, made 40 before he was bowled by Tropp who went on a second time.

The Club only wanted 51 to win when the first wicket fell but it could not be done. They hurried and the light failed and Tropp bowled exceedingly well and a draw resulted. It seems that the Army have made a useful discovery in this bowler. I am told he bowls medium, comes very quickly off the pitch and turns a bit.

The Army side was definitely a powerful one and in an all day match would beat the Club I think, though a place should be found for Fergus.

C.S.C.C. v. SMALL UNITS

The Civil Service had the game in their pocket when they had six down for 34 but as usual they very nearly let it get out again.

Blount, who had been hit on the head by a return while running, came back again and held up things stoutly with most determined anything on the off and hit the straight ones very hard to leg.

There was some very wild bowling at this time especially by Smith. Dobbinson also did well and finally the Small Units made a very sporting declaration at 110 for seven; Gosano was not out 45 and Dobbinson 18 not out.

BUSTLE

The C.S. had, according to my reckoning, an hour and twenty minutes and had to bustle, but they got the runs. K. J. Attwell (49), who has been promoted to number one batsman, a place which seems to suit him, and Richardson (10) gave them a good start and with Perry and Hollidge both in the twenties, the runs were easily hit off.

I was very sorry to hear that there was a good deal of slackness in the field in the case of one or two of the younger members of the side. There is no excuse for this. Quick change-over between the overs is essential and if the older men can do it surely the youngsters can.

ROYAL SCOTS WIN

It is pleasant to see a regimental team out again. I think the Kosbies were about the last regiment to turn one out fairly often. The Royal Scots were far too good for the H.K.C.C. second who are not at their best at present.

They had quite a good side out but only Gahagan (24) and H. J. Armstrong (29) did much. I learnt that Fergus was bowling pretty fast and well. Patterson was unlucky to get a full toss on his arm and had to retire. Both Bateman and Emmerson bowled very steadily to keep runs down and the former made a splendid catch in the slips to send Eric Mitchell back. The Club Captain had been in for some time for his eight singles. Bishop (13) was shaping well until he played a foolish shot and was caught.

Bateman (70 retired) was top scorer for the Regiment. I am told he has played in Yorkshire League cricket but I cannot vouch for it. The total was 173 for 8 wickets when stumps were drawn. None of the Club bowlers could do anything.

CAMPS

By the way owing to impending Camp duties the H.K.C.C. will only put out one team on the next two Saturdays.

Second Division Games

The I.R.C. second eleven had slightly the better of the game against Reccreio second. A. R. Sufiad (54) and F. J. Remedios (48) did best for their respective sides. Mr. R. Abbas took 5 for 40 for the I.R.C.

At the Police ground there was an easy win for the C.S. second team all out for 86, which the Police would have found hard to get with-

Basketball

INTER-DIVISIONAL LEAGUE FOR THE POLICE

FIRST MATCH in the Hongkong Police Inter-Divisional Basketball League, which was recently formed, was played yesterday at Boundary Street when Shumahuipo beat Kowloon City by 26 points to 13.

These League matches will be played on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, commencing each day at 4.30 p.m.

Seven teams have entered the League.

Badminton

Annual Meeting Of St. John's

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the St. John's Cathedral Badminton Club was held last night under the Chairmanship of Dean Wilson, who was re-elected.

Mr. R. W. H. Maynard, Hon. Treasurer, reported a balance in hand despite starting the year with a substantial deficit. A contribution to Cathedral funds of $50 was approved. Mr. Maynard was re-elected and Mr. David Kwok was elected Hon. Secretary. Mrs. D. Wilson and Mr. Peter Wilson were elected to the Committee.

out W. Clarke's 39 not out. As it was they had 99 for 9 wickets at the close of the game.

A VETERAN

I arrived just in time to see my old friend J. L. Youngsaye get the last twenty runs of his 52 not out for the D.B.S. vs. Craigengower. It was a sturdy innings though, as he himself said, he did get some tripe served up to him at the end.

It was fairly close but I fancy the D.B.S. would have won had there been a little more time.

BAXTER SCORES

For K.C.C. second Baxter knocked up 78. He seems the type of bat who comes off against weak bowling but crucks up against the better stuff. It is probably partly owing to the fact that for some years he preferred to play in the second, if I recollect aright.

The K.C.C. second did not make the mistake their Seniors did and declared at 135 for 5 wickets. University could only manage 116 despite a good innings of 40 by Marjolin Singh—who, as I have said before, is a good deal better than several of their first eleven bats. B. D. Lay compensated for his failure with the bat by taking 5 for 28 in eight overs.

Saturday "Tanner" On "Blitz" Forecast

Flutters At Home Are Not What Hitler Expected

A SWEEPSTAKE on Saturday's football results used to be "the thing"—now it's a sweep on "the Blitz."

And the Englishman's love of "a flutter" is helping to beat the Nazi airmen.

Thousands of employees in the offices and factories of Britain are boosting the totals of the local Spitfire Funds by having a Saturday "tanner" on a forecast of the number of German raiders our fighters and A.A. guns will bring down in the coming week.

In many cases a good percentage of the takings goes to the local Spitfire Fund—just as it used to go to the factory's sports or welfare club.

OTHER IDEAS

INGENIOUS minds have evolved other similar ideas for helping to build aircraft. Gambling on how many German aircraft are brought down in a day; the number of air raids in 24 hours; or the nearest minute to the next air raid are the methods by which funds are raised.

The biggest thrill, however, is furnished by the air raid warning game. In this minutes are "bought" in every hour of the day, and the man who guesses the exact time when the "Banshee Howl" goes off collects his dividend.

(British Made)

The Board for Two Players

Two Bridge players can use the DUO-BRIDGE Board anywhere and at any time; there is no need to go out to the Club on these black nights.

You will enjoy it in any situation, because it is the very best Bridge game for two people yet invented.

Let us admit at once that there are certain technical difficulties which cannot be overcome. We are well aware of them—but they do not affect the character of the game in any way. Neither player sees more than his own hand while bidding and only his own hand and Dummy during play.

It is obvious that peculiar bidding, psychics and wild jump-overbids are no use in such a game, indeed the hands have been very carefully selected.

R.A.F. SCORES HEAVILY IN WESTERN DESERT ATTACKS

LONDON, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—Large numbers of enemy aircraft on the ground at Benina in the Western Desert, were attacked by the Royal Air Force, says the Air Ministry.

Two S-79 three-engined Italian bombers were destroyed and two others were severely damaged, when bombs fell among the machines.

Enemy troops and a motor transport on the Meterma-Gondan road in East Africa were machine-gunned and bombed. Four direct hits were registered on the motor transport and heavy casualties were observed as a result of the machine-gunning.

A similar attack was made on an enemy encampment at Wadi Arades, and Meterma was also bombed. Further south a successful raid was made on the large camp at Gubba where direct hits on the barracks started numerous fires. A camp at Cangila was attacked on Friday. There were several battalions of Colonial troops and Black Shirts at this camp. Fires were started and much damage was caused.

Aircraft From Aden

ADEN, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—About fifty bombing raids have been made on Eritrea and Abyssinia by aircraft from Aden during November. The Red Sea port of Assab had its severest battering so far with over thirty raids, one series of raids on this port lasting 38 hours. According to the pilots' reports and the reports from subsequent reconnaissance, tremendous damage was done and huge fires were started. The bombing of the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway made the growing scarcity of petrol in Italian East Africa an even more important problem for the Italians. Although flying thousands of miles during these raids, all British planes returned safely to their base.

Enemy Ambushed

CAIRO, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—A British patrol in the Kassala sector of the Sudan successfully ambushed a party of the enemy on the night of November 20, capturing one Italian officer and nine other ranks, according to a communique issued to-day. East of Gallabat, parties of the enemy were successfully engaged by British artillery. On other fronts there has been no change in the situation.

Very Bitter Italo-Greek Fighting In Mountains

Special to the "Telegraph"

STRUGA, Dec. 2 (UP).—Heavy fighting is in progress among the mountains to the east of Argyro-Castron, where artillery is very active. Considerable casualties are reported on both sides.

Early this morning, after three hours fighting, the Greeks crossed the Dropuli River at several points after repulsing the Italians about six miles southeast of Argyro-Castron, according to reports from the frontier.

Advance Slowed Down

MOSHCOPOLIS, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—The speed of the Greek advance has been slowed down by heavy snow which in some places is three feet deep, and violent gales. The Greeks, nevertheless, maintain the initiative and a new line has been established in the extreme north. The Italians secretly prepared a new line of defence on three consecutive ridges of high mountains which they have christened "Verdun". In the neighbourhood of Lake Ohrida and Pogradetz.

Fresh troops have been taken there by air and modern weapons and equipment have been brought up. Foreboding defence efforts, the Greek Commander ordered an immediate attack along the whole front and encountered resistance of a violence that they had hitherto not experienced in the current campaign. The troops were obviously picked men making a desperate effort to restore lost prestige.

Soviet Comment

LONDON, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—The Italians have been beaten back and the Greeks now hold the most favourable strategic position, commented the "Red Star," official organ of the Soviet Army, yesterday. The Italian press and radio were silent about the set-backs in Albania and were trying to divert public attention by suggesting that the Greek war was only a minor matter and that one of the decisive theatres is the Suez Canal. As yet the Italian troops in North Africa are about 400 miles away from the canal and their Commander-in-Chief, Marshal Graziani, is even further away. The German radio said yesterday that he is now in Tripoli on a tour of inspection.

Italian Admission

ROME, Dec. 2 (UP).—Reports from the front received here to-day indicate that the Greeks are throwing great strength against Italy's defence.

It is recalled that last year, Mr. Morgenthau informed the Senate Committee that he would ask "for guidance" before using any mobilization funds to aid any warring foreign nation. He said: "I now can go on and do business. I have kept faith. Now I am going back to the Treasury and do business as fast as the lawyers will let me."

Mr. Hull told the Press that he was pleased over the action of the Committee. "This is such a vital matter that it is the least we can do for the job that China is doing," he remarked.

Senator John Townsend was among the dozen Senators attending the session and predicted that there would be no very serious opposition from the Republicans and added that, apparently, no new legislation would be needed.

LONDON, Dec. 2 (British Wire- less).—Queen Mary and the Princess Royal paid a surprise visit to Bristol during the week-end when they made a tour of inspection of some of the damage caused by recent air raids.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 2 (UP).—German mechanised units together with infantry and forty aircraft to-day staged a military parade in honour of King Michael, General Antonescu, and Rumania's entry into the Axis alliance. General Antonescu was accompanied by Vice-Premier Horla Sima, leader of the Iron Guards.

AID FOR CHINA IS APPROVED

U. S. Joint Committees Unanimous Decision

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UP).—The Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, to-day made a surprise visit and appeared as a witness at the secret session of the joint House and Senate Committees in connection with the China loan.

Shortly afterwards, the joint committees unanimously voted confidence in the Administration's proposal to extend financial assistance to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

At the joint Committee session, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, Secretary of the Treasury, said that no definite commitments have as yet been made because it was desired to "keep faith" with Congress.

"Can Now Do Business" It is recalled that last year, Mr. Morgenthau informed the Senate Committee that he would ask "for guidance" before using any mobilization funds to aid any warring foreign nation. He said: "I now can go on and do business. I have kept faith. Now I am going back to the Treasury and do business as fast as the lawyers will let me."

THE KUNMING HOSPITAL APPEAL

Headquarters: BISHOP'S HOUSE, HONG KONG

20th November, 1940.

The UNI TIEN HOSPITAL, KUNMING, has been bombed and damaged, and can no longer be used for inpatients.

HK $40,000 (about N.C. $200,000) is required, urgently, to build emergency accommodation of mud brick about fifteen miles beyond the city. With the help of the salvaged equipment (nearly all intact) the new hospital can resume its work of mercy in eight weeks. The hospital staff are ready to resume work at once.

The Bank of China has generously advanced a loan of NCS100,000 so that the work of building can begin without delay.

Bishop Y. Y. Tsu is Chairman of the Hospital Committee of Management. The Superintendent, Dr. H. P. Yew, is an old boy of St. Stephen's, Stanley, and a graduate of Guy's Hospital, London. He has made the hospital so efficient that it was, until the bombing, used by the Shanghai Medical College as a Teaching Hospital.

The hospital was founded 25 years ago by the Church Missionary Society who still provide a British doctor and mission as well as an annual grant. It is the only British hospital on the Burma Road between Lashio and Chungking and was, until the present war, the largest hospital in the two provinces of Yunnan and Kweichow.

Figures for 1939: Inpatients... 2,857
Outpatients 60,530

With the re-opening of the Burma Road the need for this hospital is more urgent than ever.

The undersigned now appeal for the full HK $40,000 in order that this hospital may be able to minister to the many non-combatant victims of war along this war torn highway as well as resume its work of mercy among the multitudes of the South West of China.

All donations will be gratefully acknowledged by the Hon. Treasurer, Mr. S. J. Chen, Manager of the Bank of China, in Hongkong, the Treasurer, St. John's Cathedral or the South China Morning Post.

W. W. Yen (Chairman), Soong Ching Ling (Madame Sun Yat Sen), Shouson Chow, Robert Ho Tung, Ronald Hong Kong, Robert Kotewall, Li Shu Fan, Robert Lim, M. K. Lo, W. N. T. Tam, Tu Yuh Sen, C. T. Wang, Wang Hsiao Lai.

ARMED SHIP BOMBED: THAI-FRENCH FURY

Indo-China and Thailand edged slightly closer towards war on Sunday when the Hanoi authorities reported a fierce air battle above the Mekong River village of Thakok, while French forces carried out retaliatory measures against Thailand. The Thai Air Force was fully prepared to carry out large-scale bombing of Cambodia and Laos.

Hanoi reports declare that Thailand planes attacked a French armed vessel in the Gulf of Thailand but none of the bombs dropped hit the ship. The French replied with machine-gun fire and hit one of the attacking planes.

Commenting on the new U.S.$100,000,000 loan to China the Washington Post calls the step President Roosevelt's first major international move since his re-election. The same journal believes the action is expected not only to strengthen the Chinese resistance but also to encourage continued Soviet aid to Chiang Kai-shek.

Declaring that generosity displayed in the negotiations with the Occidental colonies may react to the detriment of Japan because leniency is exceeded, the Nichi Nichi Shinbun editorially demands the speeding up of trade conversations with Indo-China and the Netherlands East Indies.

Chungking claims that Chinese troops have smashed the Japanese offensive along a 150-mile front in north Hupeh causing the death of over 12,658 Japanese.

MARIA MARTEN'S GRAVE FOR SALE

Maria Marten's gravestone is about to change hands—though its new owner won't even know where it is unless one of the villagers points it out to him.

Maria Marten's grave is in the tiny churchyard of Polstead, in the heart of rural Suffolk. And the churchyard and church are both included in one of Britain's oldest estates, which is to be sold by auction.

Maria was foully done to death in the notorious Red Barn more than 100 years ago.

They hanged a local farmer for the deed. If it had not been for Maria's mother, who lived on to a rare old age—one or two of the villagers still remember her—the truth might never have come out.

But the mother dreamt three nights running of her daughter lying dead in that grim old barn, and when they came to dig—well, there she was.

Polstead Hall estate, as they call it, has not changed hands for 350 years.

It is "a compact small sporting estate of great antiquarian interest," say the auctioneers. (It covers 457 acres).

Picturesque Cottage

Maria Marten's cottage stands detached, picturesque and unchanged.

The Red Barn was pulled down many years ago.

Mr. A. C. G. Lloyd, who is selling the estate, takes this Maria Marten business in good part.

"But the family has been grossly labelled," he said.

"The story has been twisted to make it appear that it was the wicked squire, one of my ancestors, who so ill-used the mole-catcher's daughter."

"Actually a tenant farmer was the culprit."

St. Andrew's Club A.D.C. will give two performances this month in aid of the Bomber Fund—on December 17 and 19, commencing at 9 p.m.

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A Special Shave Cream—It's Not a Soap, Needs No Brush!

Daily shaving gives many men's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed GLIDER—a special cream for daily shavers. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich cream. It won't dry on your face. Applied with the fingers, it quickly softens each whisker. A protective layer is formed over which your razor glides. Off comes each hair at the base without scraping. Like a cold cream, Glider helps keep your skin smooth all day. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

Geologist Discovers Ups And Downs Of Ice Age America

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UP).—Even Ice Age America, back in the days of a mammoth and bison hunter "population," had its economic ups and downs. This is the latest revelation of this country's past, unearthed in Colorado by Dr. Frank H. H. Roberts, Jr., Smithsonian Institution archaeologist.

Finding a stratified corner at the now-famous Lindenmeier site, a camp and workshop occupied by the Folsom Man in the Ice Age, Dr. Roberts has charted about 1,000 years of very early American prehistory.

The story, told in gradually accumulated layers of earth, each containing a typical kind of stone weapon point, reveals the Folsom Man as first and oldest at this camping ground. Folsom hunters arrived sometime between 10,000 and 25,000 years ago, and more likely it was 25,000, Dr. Roberts infers from the geologic evidence.

Following bison herds through rich pastures south of the retreating ice sheet, Folsom hunters returned to this camp many summers. Their weapons were the beautifully shaped and grooved Folsom dart points, and they had time for careful work, an eye for beauty—judging by simple efforts to decorate belongings—and they even sewed their garments with eyed needles.

Other Ages

Harder times or more uncouth people followed within a few centuries, judging by the next distinct layer of earth above, containing a degenerated sort of Folsom weapon, hastily made. If the new arrivals were not Folsom descendants, they did at any rate have some of the advantages of Folsom culture.

Before they came, the camp had lain abandoned and blanketed with debris. The newcomers made brief stays only at the camp, and it looks as though they lacked the comparative ease of "better times" in America.

The camp site eventually lay vacant again, until a third wave of hunters arrived, leaving a quite different dart point.

The stratified find establishes the sequence of early Americans using these strange old weapons, and will aid archaeologists to judge the relative age of such weapons found in other parts of western United States.

Dr. Roberts believes that still another type of Folsom weapon, which has been found scattered in eastern states, represents a still later chapter of this little-known era of American prehistory.

Malay Leader's Tribute To British Government

"If the British Government had wanted to harm or rule our sacred places it could have done so years ago, but our British friends respect our religion and moreover they are not so greedy as to pounce upon unprotected countries and rob them of their liberty, as the Germans and the Italians are doing," said Inche Daud bin Mohamed Shah, president of the Malay Union, Singapore, broadcasting a Hari Raya message in Malay from the Singapore station recently.

Inche Mohamed Shah said: "All of you will agree with me that we inhabitants of Malaya have been and are living in peace under the protection of our most benign British Government, without any trouble, whatever—in fact we have been and are enjoying this protection.

Wife Of Fire Officer On Arson Charge

Mrs. Dorothy Mary Ellen Mahoney, 32, wife of Sub-Officer Patrick Mahoney, of the L.C.C. Fire Brigade, was committed for trial at the Central Criminal Court when she appeared at Stratford Police Court charged with setting fire to her home at Milner Road, Dagenham.

Previously a statement alleged to have been made by Mrs. Mahoney was read, in which she referred to quarrels between herself and her husband over a girl named Beryl who was a member of the A.F.S.

When she found that Beryl was living with her husband she went to the house, and, determined that Beryl should not have the home for which she had worked, piled some things in the hall and set fire to them.

Beryl Pizer, who described herself as an artist, living at Tredegar Road, Bow, said she was in the A.F.S. and attached to the A.F.S. station where Sub-Officer Mahoney was. She knew Mrs. Mahoney because of her visits to the station, and that Mrs. Mahoney left her husband some time in July. Later she went to look after Mr. Mahoney at his house, and she was there on August 30 when Mrs. Mahoney called.

There was a row, and when Mrs. Mahoney attempted to assault her she ran away. She returned the next morning and found that the house had been set on fire.

"Through the generosity of our Government we have been able to fulfil all our religious obligations without interference and hindrance and moreover I must not forget to mention that this year when there is a food control we are given permission to purchase an extra amount of rice for the purpose of giving out (charity) to the poor and the needy.

"All these kinds of worship we have been able to fulfil under the protection of the British Government without the slightest harm to our person or our property.

"Think, ladies and gentlemen, of the sufferings of humanity who are not blessed with such protection as we have had at the present moment and in the past.

"I am sure you must have, by now," he continued, "read that the Italian aeroplanes have raided the island of Bahrain and Saudi Arabia. Saudi Arabia means Jeddah and Mecca. I invite you all to imagine, for a moment the sufferings and tribulations of the people of our Holy City of Mecca, and compare the luxuries which we are able to enjoy under the protection of the British Government.

"Two months and ten days hence we will be celebrating the festival of the pilgrimage of Hajj, which was interrupted last year, but this year with the Italians raiding our holy places, I am afraid, many of our brothers and sisters out here will not venture the journey to perform the pilgrimage unless God in all his mercies ends this terrible war with victory to our British protectors before the pilgrimage.

"So let us all pray fervently for British victory," he urged.

Protector Of Poor

He proceeded: "Britain is not only fighting for her own country, but she is fighting as a protector of the poor and small nations and that being so, it is our duty to do all we can to help the British.

"One of the most outstanding and praiseworthy acts of our local Government has done for us consumers of rice and other foodstuffs is the control of food prices. Many of us who lived during the last Great War would remember that the price of rice then rose up to $1.40 per gantang. You can imagine, then, what would happen now if our Government does not take such a measure.

"In these hard times it is our duty to spend as little as possible on luxuries and all unnecessary things and save every cent to help our Government by investing our savings in War Savings Certificates in order to win the war."

Governor Pays Surprise Visit To Hospital

Following the showing of the film "Enough to Eat" at the Queen's Theatre yesterday, His Excellency the Acting Governor, Lieut.-General E. F. Norton, escorted by the Director of Medical Services, the Hon. Dr. P. S. Selwyn-Clarke, paid a surprise visit to the Sai Ying Pun Relief Hospital.

His Excellency was met on arrival by Dr. H. F. Tai, Medical Officer in charge, Dr. E. H. Ong and Miss Elsie Liu, the Matron, after which he inspected the hospital kitchen and enquired into the dietary, since 95 out of the 100 patients in hospital were stated to be suffering from Beri-Beri.

His Excellency later expressed satisfaction with the renovation of the former Block B of the Government Civil Hospital, which was due to be demolished, and its conversion into a useful relief hospital.

Short Wave Laboratory To Be Moved

PALO ALTO, California, Nov. 29 (UP).—The Stanford University Klystron Laboratory will be moved immediately to Garden City, N.Y., it was announced by R. E. Gillmore, president of the Sperry Gyroscope Co., licensee and distributor of the Klystron—a device for developing ultra short radio waves.

Gillmore said the national defence programme had caused such expansion in his company's research activities in developing new aircraft instruments that facilities here were inadequate.

FASCIST REGIMES DENOUNCED BY MUSLIMS

RESOLUTIONS expressing "sincerity in the cause of Turkey, Egypt, Persia, Syria, Arabia and other Muslim countries" and condemning the brutality of the Nazi and Fascist dictators were adopted unanimously at a mass meeting of the Muslims of Singapore recently.

The Muslims also pledged "moral and material support for all necessary measures in case of any attack upon" Turkey, Egypt, Persia, Syria, Arabia and other Muslim countries "which are good allies of Britain."

That this mass meeting of the Muslims of Singapore held at the Sultan Jamia mosque, Singapore, on Nov. 1, 1940, strongly condemns the brutal acts of the dictators of Nazism and Fascism, which are destroying the peace of the world, and prays most fervently for the successful victory of the British Empire which is defending the right cause of the peace of the world.

Further, that this mass meeting of the Muslims resolves to express its sincerity in the cause of Turkey, Egypt, Persia, Syria, Arabia, and other Muslim countries which are good allies of Britain and its heartfelt sympathy towards those Muslim countries, while pledging to render its moral and material support for all the necessary measures in case of any attack on them or on either of them.

The meeting was presided over by Capt. N. M. Hashim, Malay member of the Legislative Council.

The resolutions were moved by Mr. T. A. M. Abdul Aziz, president of the South Indian Muslim League, Singapore, and were seconded by Haji Imam Ali, chief of Imams of Singapore.

All sections of the Muslim community attended the meeting.

LATE NEWS

N.E.I. Newspapers Taunt Japan

BATAVIA, Dec. 3 (Reuter).—"We find it hard to understand how a country that is always outwitting others should find its own innocence outraged over the recent Dutch incidents occurring in the Netherlands East Indies," declares a newspaper in the N.E.I., commenting on the Japanese newspapers' threats of action against the Netherlands East Indies, unless the recent alleged anti-Japanese incidents cease.

The Netherlands East Indies press is not disturbed by these threats in the Japanese newspapers. One of the most conservative papers says: "Japan is full of vague threats, but what really is Japan prepared to do about it?"

The Japanese Government appears to be so overawed by these outbursts in the Netherlands East Indies newspapers that it has gone so far as to protest to the Netherlands Ambassador to Tokyo.

One paper comments: "We hope his reply will be more to the point."

Bullion Restored But Fine Increased Appeal Court Decision

An appeal against the decision of Mr. E. Himsforth, Second Kowloon Magistrate, in ordering the confiscation of 110 bars of silver worth $3,800, was brought before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, in the Court of Appeal at the Supreme Court this morning.

The appellant, Mul Chuen-chu, of 245 Des Voeux Road West, was represented by the Hon. Mr. Leo D'Almada, Jnr., instructed by Mr. Leo D'Almada; Mr. J. Reynolds, Crown Counsel, represented the respondent, Sub-Inspector J. Johnston.

Mr. D'Almada said the grounds of appeal were that the sentence was too severe and that the Magistrate was wrong in his finding in respect of a section of an Ordinance dealing with the offence in question. The appeal was against a confiscation order made by the Magistrate.

Originally, two persons were charged before Mr. Himsforth. One, Lee Fat, who was not concerned in the appeal, was charged with having possession on board a certain ship of 110 bars of silver which had not been entered on the ship's manifest, and with exporting silver without the requisite permit. The other, the appellant, was charged with aiding and abetting the offence.

Ignorant Of Law

Both men were then represented by Mr. D'Almada. Lee Fat, who pleaded guilty to the charges, was charged, Lee Fat said that the silver bars were not on the manifest and he did not know the regulations. The prosecution stated that after Lee's arrest, Mul went to the Police Station and claimed the bars as his property.

The Magistrate, in coming to his finding, remarked that both men, having been engaged in the export trade for many years, should have known the regulations. That was one point where the Magistrate went wrong, said counsel, in treating knowledge and means of knowledge on the same footing. There was no evidence to entitle the Magistrate to come to the conclusion that the defendants knew what the law was. There was nothing to entitle him to draw that inference at all.

Lee was fined a total of $10 on the two counts against him and Mul $5. The Magistrate added in his notes that they were nominal penalties in view of the large amount of silver confiscated.

Forfeiture Discretion

After the case, in view of a newspaper report, continued Counsel, Mr. D'Almada, Jnr., wrote to the Magistrate and asked if he had been correctly reported, for the report led him to infer that the Magistrate had no discretion in the matter but was bound to order forfeiture. The Magistrate in reply stated that he was wrong in so saying, and pointed out that he had discretion, and in exercise of that discretion, had decided to order confiscation.

An interpretation of the Magistrate's notes, went on Counsel, seemed to be that the Magistrate felt that if anyone had a claim on the bars, that claim was a moral claim which could be entertained by the Governor-in-Council.

That was entirely wrong, because the moral claim referred to in the section, was in respect of an owner who had a claim on the bars, not a claim in respect of a moral claim. The Magistrate was twice told that the appellant was the owner of the bars. Had the Magistrate read the section correctly, said Counsel, he would have entertained the claim and not ordered confiscation. The Magistrate submitted that the sentence imposed by the Magistrate in ordering confiscation was manifestly excessive.

Judge's Remarks
His Lordship remarked that the offence was a very serious one, especially in war time. He did not agree that the penalty was excessive. What reason was there for anyone to send bullion out of the Colony in time of war, he asked?

Hon. Mr. D'Almada replied that if that was the point the Magistrate was interested in, he could have enquired from Counsel for the defence.

For the respondent, Mr. Reynolds pointed out that the Magistrate had power to impose a fine of $10,000 and to order confiscation. He had discretionary powers which he had used properly, he submitted.

Wolfram Snatcher's Accusation

"This man is a smuggler and I simply wanted to dump the sack into the sea. The wolfram is sold to the Japanese for the manufacture of bombs."

These words were uttered by Kwok Yuk-shing, 28, street coolie, when charged before Mr. G. T. Lowry at the Central Magistracy this morning with the theft of a sack of wolfram ore from Choi Po-long, 40, merchant, in Connaught Road Central yesterday.

Making a long statement from the dock, Kwok alleged that the complainant was a smuggler and that the wolfram ore he handled was being sold to the Japanese who used it for the manufacture of bombs to use against the Chinese.

He further stated that there were several people walking along the roads with money in their hands, but he would not attempt to snatch any of that.

Sub-Inspector T. K. Whelan, prosecuting, said that complainant was travelling along Connaught Road in a rickshaw with a sack of wolfram ore, when a party of Chinese including defendant came alongside. Defendant snatched the sack of ore and threw it into the harbour.

Defendant was sentenced to three months imprisonment with hard labour.

Shanghai Blockade

Shooting Of Japanese Gendarme

CHUNGKING, Dec. 3 (Central News).—The Japanese have further extended and intensified their blockade of the western district of Shanghai which was enforced following the shooting of a Japanese gendarme on November 30, according to a Shanghai despatch.

The blockaded area has been widened to embrace Edinburgh, Yu Yuen, Great Western, Chaofoong and Jessfield Roads, being cordoned off by barbed-wire entanglements. Japanese soldiers are standing on guard and strict searches are conducted by Japanese gendarmes and Chinese "puppet" police.

It is reported that Chen Kung-po, so-called Mayor of Shanghai, was among those confined in the area on November 30. He was allowed to leave only after revealing his identity and satisfying the Japanese with an explanation.

BRITAIN'S ORDEAL: FIERCE NAZI AERIAL "BLITZ" CONTINUES

Special to the "Telegraph"

LONDON, Dec. 2 (UP).—(9 P. M.) A "BLITZ" ATTACK IS BELIEVED TO BE DEVELOPING OVER THE SOUTHEAST ENGLAND AREA. SEVERAL DISTRICTS HAVE BEEN BOMBED.

BOMBS WERE ALSO DROPPED ON AN EAST ANGLIAN TOWN WHERE THE RAID BEGAN EARLY TO-NIGHT. RAIDERS ARE ALSO OVER SOUTH WALES.

British Planes' Attack On Shipyards

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Dec. 2 (UP).—The Air Ministry to-day announced that the R.A.F. attacked Marine-works, one of Germany's most important shipyards at Wilhelmshaven, despite adverse weather conditions. Large fires followed the showers of incendiary bombs.

Marine-works contains six dry-docks, with many warships, including submarines. The announcement said that on Sunday, aircraft of the Coastal Command attacked the submarine base and naval docks at Lorient, the power station and drydocks at Brest, a military camp at Kristiansund, and also the gas works at Esbjerg, where explosions and flames covered the whole area. No British aircraft were lost.

German Radio Attack On Yugo-Slavia

LONDON, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—Germany marked Yugo-Slavia's National Day by a threatening broadcast. While Prince Paul was declining Yugo-Slavia's determination to defend her territory and independence, the German radio told Yugo-Slavia to liquidate her spiritual heritage and join the new order. Germany, said the broadcaster, was resolved to carry the new order into effect in the face of a few ignorant people.

Bombs Planted

LONDON, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—It is generally believed that the bombs which exploded on the doorstep of the Vice Premier, M. Matcehek, were supplied by German agents, even assuming that they found Croats to do the dirty work. Fortunately, the bombs do not appear to have caused any loss of life and their effect will probably be opposite to that intended. There has been a noteworthy tendency for the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes to draw closer together since the agreement between Matcehek and the Prince Regent.

Germany Hesitating To Recognise Nanking

Special to the "Telegraph"

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (UP).—The fact that Japan has recognized the Wang Ching-wel Government does not necessarily mean that Germany must follow suit immediately, the German Government spokesman told foreign correspondents to-day.

He said the question of recognizing the Wang regime by Germany will not be raised for the time being. He added that despite the close relations between the signatories of the tripartite pact, certain differences exist in the relations entertained by them with other countries.

LIVERPOOL AGAIN VISITED

LONDON, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—No air raid sirens have sounded in the London area yet this evening, but raiders have been reported over other parts of Britain. Bombs have been dropped in a south-west town which had other heavy air raids recently and where a "blitz" appears to have been developing.

Raiders were again over the south coast area recently and were attacked by heavy anti-aircraft fire. Raiders were reported in the vicinity of Liverpool and a south Wales town and an East Anglian town where bombs were dropped early to-night.

Heavy Toll Of British Shipping Is Feared

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (UP).—The Mackay Radio has reported picking up distress signals from nearly a dozen ships, mostly British, and virtually all on the European side of the Atlantic, which had either been torpedoed or air bombed, and which were sinking, or in immediate need of assistance.

U-boat attacks were reported by the British freighter Victoria in latitude 50.04 north, longitude 13.30 west, while another ship, identified only by the call letters GKIF, had also been attacked.

Several Torpedoed
The attacked ships included the Lady Glanely and Goodleigh as well as an unidentified ship, believed to be British, in latitude 53.46 north, longitude 19.23 west. The British tanker Victor Ross, torpedoed in latitude 56.04 north, longitude 16.30 west; the Scottish freighter Loch Ranza, torpedoed in latitude 54.37 north, longitude 18.34 west. This latter vessel radioed that she had the crew of another wrecked ship aboard.

The Yugo-Slav freighter Colviti, 1,937 tons at 10 a.m., the Kilgeran Castle 276 tons at 7.35 a.m., and the Italian, 1,041 tons at 2.55 a.m., all Eastern Standard Time.

Raid on Southampton

SOUTHAMPTON, Dec. 2 (UP).—It is estimated that 200 German bombers took part in last night's raid and were met by a most terrific anti-aircraft barrage.

The damage includes several churches, a theatre, four cinema houses, several banks, many shops and houses and a hospital.

The raid was described as a "blitz fire raid." Hundreds of incendiary bombs were showered down to light up the targets for waves of raiders.

The damage done in Saturday night's raid was greatly extended and many additional persons are homeless. The destruction of commercial premises in the centre of the city has caused unemployment to hundreds.

Casualties Number 370
LONDON, Dec. 2 (UP).—A joint Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security communiqué says that about 370 persons were killed or seriously injured in Southampton during Saturday and Sunday.

German Report

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (UP).—The High Command reports that on Sunday night the Luftwaffe attacked Southampton with bombs of the heaviest calibre. Over 60 large fires were observed including warehouses in the port area.

Yesterday morning, British planes bombed some residential districts in the coastal area and a number of civilians were wounded. Eleven British planes were shot down and two German planes are missing.

Other Nazi Claims

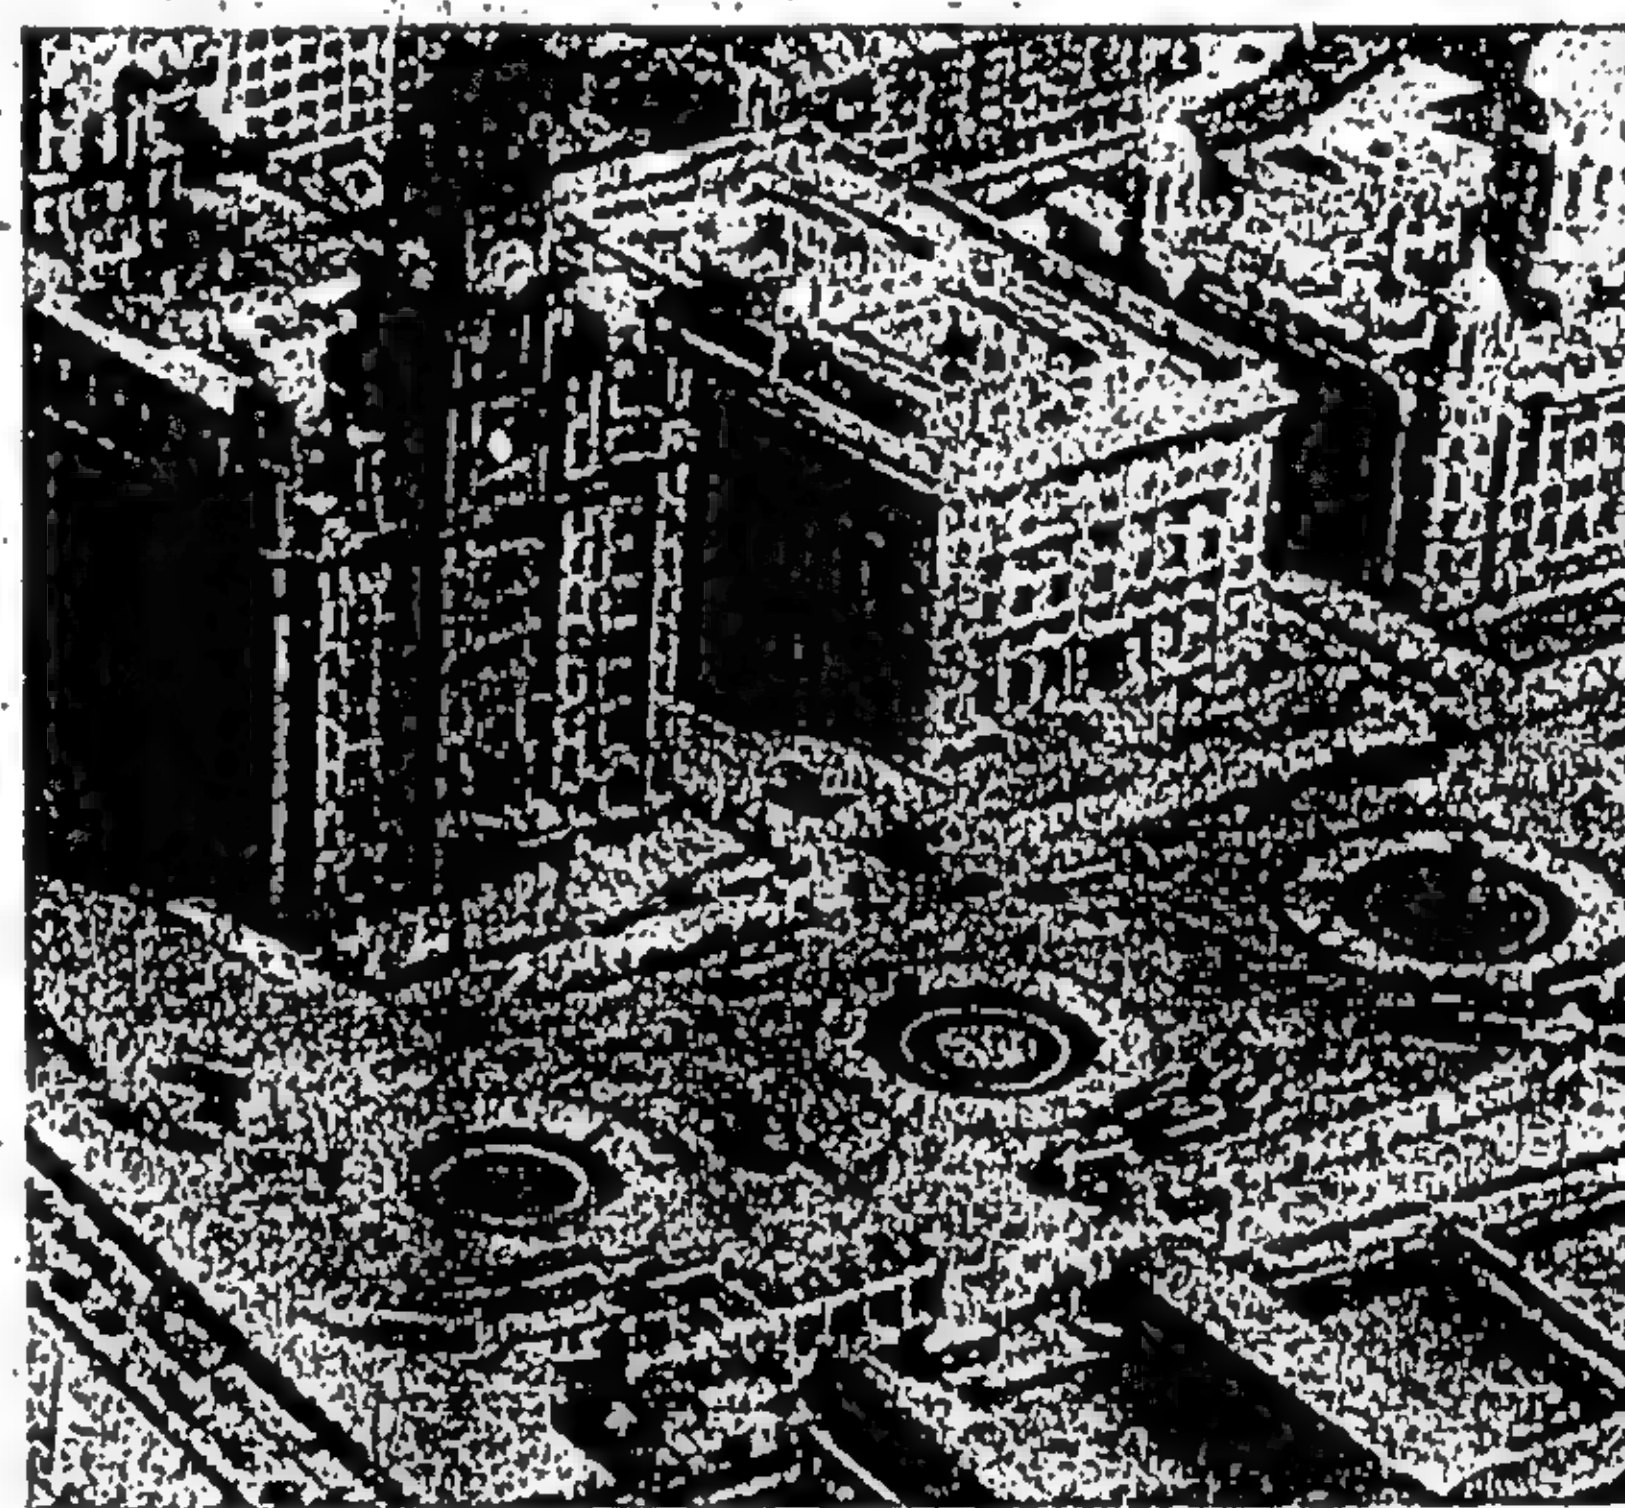

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (UP).—The official news agency announced that simultaneously with the attacks on Southampton, the German air force last night raided London, Liverpool and Birmingham and continued mining British harbours.

It was declared that German reconnaissance planes flew over the Channel, and observers at Cherbourg saw thick yellow smoke clouds as well as flames issuing from Southampton this morning.

NAZIS SEEK ITS DESTRUCTION

Liverpool, famous shipping centre of the Mersey-side, has constantly been an objective of the German aerial Luftwaffe, who seek to destroy this great port so vital to the needs of Britain. But Liverpool continues to carry on as the sparkplug of world commerce. Here an aerial view of the "The Pierhead."

R.A.F. SCORES HEAVILY IN WESTERN DESERT ATTACKS

LONDON, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—Large numbers of enemy aircraft on the ground at Benina in the Western Desert, were attacked by the Royal Air Force, says the Air Ministry.

FRENCH FORCES ON MOVE

Tension Persists In Indo-China

HANOI, Dec. 2 (Dome).—Relations between Thailand and Indo-China became more and more strained to-day as a result of clashes at various points on the Mekong River, and the Indo-China authorities decided to close the entire Thai-Indo-China frontier to traffic.

It is stated that French Indo-China forces have occupied Bangkok, an island on the Mekong River, about 40 miles south of Vieng Tiane on the Thai-Indo-China border.

Indefinite Status

HANOI, Dec. 2 (UP).—Government officials here are at present unable to define Indo-China's exact status with regard to Thailand. They emphasize that the border incidents are purely isolated and that there has been no declaration of hostilities.

The would hazard no prediction as to the future, but pointed out that there have been no further incursions since Monday.

However, they also admitted that communication with border posts is now very difficult.

They also claimed that no French planes were damaged in Saturday's air battle.

Native Uprisings

HANOI, Dec. 2 (UP).—The sporadic native uprisings are continuing to the southward according to authoritative sources.

The rebelling natives yesterday attacked the Western Cochinchina town of Comau, the administrative building and archives, cutting telephone poles and attacking the house of a notable.

Aerial Dog-Fight

BANGKOK, Dec. 2 (UP).—The Thai High Command communiqué states that three Thai planes drove off two French planes following a five minute dogfight over Nakorn Phanom yesterday morning. It is said that one French plane made a forced landing in French territory after which an explosion was heard and a column of smoke seen.

This communiqué stated that French

JAPANESE START NEW RAIDS

KUNMING, Dec. 2 (UP).—One Japanese plane appeared over Kunming at 9 a.m. to-day and proceeded to Changyin on a reconnaissance flight. No bombs were dropped. Eight Japanese planes dropped eight bombs on the Kokui mining district with small damage at 10.20 a.m. One of the Japanese planes made a forced landing 15 miles from Kokui due to engine trouble.

Very Bitter Italo-Greek Fighting In Mountains

Special to the "Telegraph"

STRUGA, Dec. 2 (UP).—Heavy fighting is in progress among the mountains to the east of Argyro-Castron, where artillery is very active. Considerable casualties are reported on both sides.

Early this morning, after three hours fighting, the Greeks crossed the Dropuli River at several points after repulsing the Italians about six miles southeast of Argyro-Castron, according to reports from the frontier.

Advance Slowed Down

MOSKOPOLIS, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—The speed of the Greek advance has been slowed down by heavy snow which in some places is three feet deep, and violent gales. The Greeks, nevertheless, maintain the initiative and a new line has been established in the extreme north.

The Italians secretly prepared a new line of defence on three consecutive ridges of high mountains which they have christened "Verdun" in the neighbourhood of Lake Ohrida and Pogradets.

Fresh troops have been taken there by air and modern weapons and equipment have been brought up.

Forcible defence efforts, the Greek Commander ordered an immediate attack along the whole front and encountered resistance of a violence that they had hitherto not experienced in the current campaign. The troops were obviously picked men making a desperate effort to restore lost prestige.

Soviet Comment

LONDON, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—The Italians have been beaten back and the Greeks now hold the most favourable strategic position, commented the "Red Star," official organ of the Soviet Army, yesterday.

This Italian press and radio were silent about the set-back in Albania and were trying to divert public attention by suggesting that the Greek war was only a minor matter and that one of the decisive theatres is the Suez Canal. As yet the Italian troops in North Africa are about 400 miles away from the canal and their Commander-in-Chief, Marshal Graziani, is even further away. The German radio said yesterday that he is now in Tripoli on a tour of inspection.

Italian Admission

ROME, Dec. 2 (UP).—Reports from the front received here to-day indicate that the Greeks are throwing great strength against Italy's defence lines which have been hastily constructed in the Argyro-Castron area. The Greeks are apparently employing an entire army corps, but the Italians are said to be steadily holding their positions and counter-attacking despite heavy Greek artillery.

The losses on both sides in this battle are said to be the heaviest of the war so far.

Greek Claim

ATHENS, Dec. 2 (UP).—It is now stated that the total number of prisoners taken by the Greeks since the war began is 7,000.

RUMANIAN SOLDIERS INTERNED

Flee Into Hungary From Iron Guards

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

BUDAPEST, Dec. 2 (UP).—Afternoon newspapers here to-day reported that a number of Rumanian soldiers and officers yesterday crossed the Hungarian border in the vicinity of Flew, which is south of Cluj, fleeing from the Iron Guards.

They immediately surrendered themselves to the Hungarian authorities.

The Rumanian officers are quoted as saying they had fled from south-east Transylvania where the Iron Guard has taken complete control.

Hostilities Force Up Colony's Rice Prices

The reported outbreak of actual hostilities between Thailand and Indo-China from where Hongkong obtains most of its rice supply, has caused a sharp rise in the price of the commodity.

Wholesale prices per picul of the three grades of rice in common demand, five days ago and this morning, are as follows:—

First Quality $14 $17
Second Quality $12 $15
Third Quality $11 $13

The price obtaining to-day is on an average nearly double the price in July this year, whilst it is nearly three times above the average price before the Sino-Japanese war.

Prices have risen steadily since trouble started in Indo-China with the advent of the Japanese into that region. The lack of transportation

Egypt Takes New Heart

Believes Italy Doomed

CAIRO, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—The belief that the Italian forces in the Near East are doomed to surrender whether they fight on or "peacefully resign by giving themselves up," is expressed by the newspaper "Al-Balagh" which is among the most responsible Egyptian newspapers.

It states, "It is only a question of time until the British navy definitely cuts their lines of communication. 'At France's collapse the British forces suddenly found themselves alone and had to assume the defensive until they were redistributed and reinforced and ready again to take up a strong position. That is now accomplished, especially as regards the land forces.'"

The newspaper adds that Italy's blundering aggression in Greece enables the British to utilise Greek air bases to launch attacks on Italy. "Not only will Italy suffer great material damage but the moral of her people—never very strong—will crack before long under the strain."

AID FOR CHINA IS APPROVED

U. S. Joint Committee's Unanimous Decision

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UP).—The Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, today made a surprise visit and appeared as a witness at the secret session of the joint House and Senate Committees in connection with the China loan.

Shortly afterwards, the joint committees unanimously voted confidence in the Administration's proposal to extend financial assistance to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

At the joint Committee session, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, Secretary of the Treasury, said that no definite commitments have as yet been made because it was desired to "keep faith" with Congress.

"Can Now Do Business" It is recalled that last year, Mr. Morgenthau informed the Senate Committee that he would ask for guidance before using any mobilization funds to aid any warring foreign nation. He said: "I now keep faith. Now I am going back to the Treasury and do business as fast as the lawyers will let me."

Mr. Hull told the Press that he was pleased over the action of the Committee. "This is such a vital matter that it is the least we can do for the job that China is doing," he remarked.

Senator John Townsend was among the dozen Senators attending the session and predicted that there would be no very serious opposition from the Republicans and added that, apparently, no new legislation would be needed.

Greeks In Syria May Not Leave Country

CAIRO, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—Exit permits for about 3,000 Greeks of military age in Syria have been reported as being withheld on representation of the Italian Armistice Commission. This, together with other reports from Beirut, indicates the embarrassment which is being caused to the French authorities in Syria by the Greek and British success against the Italians.

Turkey's defence measures and resistance to Axis pressure have also made a profound impression. The French High Commissioner in Syria has issued an appeal to the population for loyalty to the Petain Government.

It says: "We all preserve in our hearts the memory of aggression which caused French blood to flow, but to-day, as yesterday, we shall not take up arms except to defend our lives."

WHAT MAKES AN EXPLOSION

MUCH-BOMBED citizens may gain small consolation in learning that their troubles are caused by waves of high-pressure air, lasting about 1-10,000th of a second and created by the combustion of trinitrotoluene and ammonium nitrate. But a knowledge of high-explosives is certainly topical nowadays and may be useful.

There are hundreds of explosives, with varying powers and qualities, but "work" roughly the same way. A mixture, or compound, of chemicals which is stable enough in the ordinary way is either ignited by fire or "shocked" by a blow or minor explosion. The result is a violent reaction, producing great quantities of gas which burst the container and compress the surrounding air into an expanding steel-hard wall moving at a speed of miles a second which pushes buildings and people before it.

Following this wave of pressure comes one of low pressure—a virtual vacuum. Walls and windows damaged by the first blast are dragged outwards into the street. It has saved many in basements; killed some on the pavements.

The first explosive really dates back to the thirteenth century when Roger Bacon's experiments produced the first pure nitre which, mixed with charcoal and sulphur, makes gunpowder (The earlier Chinese "explosives" were comparative toys.) The first guns arrived early in the next century and for years could throw only iron or stone cannon-balls. The first explosive "shells"—metal balls filled with gunpowder and exploded by a fuse consisting of a tube filled with powder—were used in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. They were not successful and did not supersede cannon-balls.

The perfection of percussion devices, which would explode on contact and set off the main charge, came only in the early nineteenth century. They made possible the modern rifle, shell and bomb, but it was mid-century before the time fuse was ready for barrage warfare.

For hundreds of years gunpowder was virtually the only explosive. This did not suit nineteenth century war experts. They wanted vastly more power. And they wanted different types of explosives—for filling bombs and shells they wanted fast-burning ones which developed all their force in an instantaneous, shattering blast; for propelling shells out of their guns they needed slow-burning explosives, which would not shatter the barrels but would exert a steady growing pressure on the shells.

In 1846 nitro-glycerine was produced. By spraying glycerine into a mixture of nitric and sulphuric acids, the scientists found that a thick, oily substance with dangerous habits was produced. If dropped, hit, shaken violently, it exploded with vast force. Some kinds went off if a fly was rash enough to alight on the surface.

No use as a commercial or war explosive, this. Until Nobel in 1867 mixed the temperamental nitro-glycerine with wood flour and produced a fairly stable, easily handled plastic mass which he called dynamite. A few years earlier other experimenters had treated cotton and wood-pulp with nitric acid and produced another fairly safe (if absolutely pure) explosive—ideal for filling torpedoes when they arrived later on—which was called gun-cotton. Other explosives followed. Modern warfare was about to quicken its tempo.

Form combinations of oily nitro-glycerine and solid gun-cotton came the first cordites—slow-burning, safe explosives, suitable for propelling bullets and shells. Improved cordites are used to-day (it takes an 80 lb. charge to sling a medium-sized shell). Uncompressed and lit, they just burnt fiercely. But compressed and sent off by a percussion cap's small burst, they developed great explosive force.

Named trinitrotoluene, T.N.T. for short, it had a tremendous blasting effect as a filler for shells and bombs. It is still being used as such to-day—despite the rumours of newer and more devastating agents.

It was not hard to make. Toluene, a liquid derived from coal, was mixed with nitric and sulphuric acids, and after a process of agitation and temperature regulation, an oil which solidified when poured into water, was produced. One of the safest—except for the enemy—of explosives.

Bombs and shells to-day are filled with T.N.T. or with an explosive called Amatol, which as a mixture of T.N.T. and ammonium nitrate, and nearly smokeless. Amatol does not explode on slight provocation so the modern bomb contains a "booster" charge of ordinary powder, which is set off by a small "percussion" charge of fulminate of mercury as the bomb hits the ground, and in turn starts off the main explosive charge.

A bomb loaded into a plane will not go off however much you belabour it. But, as it falls through the air, a tiny propeller-spinner twists off in the rush of wind, and renders the bomb "alive." The weight of steel casing, nose-cap, fins, fuses and "booster" charge is such that the actual explosive is not more than half the total weight of the bomb and—in armour-piercing bombs—is only about one-tenth.

The time-bomb, intended to crash through buildings and pavements, is stronger but molds less explosive than the contact bomb which goes off directly it hits and causes a little crater. Acid, eating slowly through a metal container of any desired thickness, provides the "time fuse," actuates the detonator.

Though scores of war explosives exist, cordites, T.N.T. and Amatol are about the most important. There have been rumours of a "new" liquid-air bomb, tried out with "unexampled devastation" on Barcelona. This explosive is not new and probably unsuitable for warfare. For long miners have used a cartridge of carbon, which is soaked in cold new and probably unsuitable liquid air or oxygen immediately before it is needed, and explodes violently when detonated. No dangerous fumes are caused, but the liquid air evaporates rapidly at ordinary temperatures, and the cartridge soon goes dead.

Bombs filled with this explosive would be difficult to handle and, experts say, no more devastating than T.N.T. or Amatol. Most possible explosive mixtures and compounds have already been tried out and a new "super-super" filling for bombs is not likely.

Killed By Disease He Fought

SIR HENRY HEAD, one of the world's greatest neurologists, devoted most of his life to finding out more about paralysis.

He risked getting the disease by experimenting on himself.

He even cut the nerves of his legs, arm, near the elbow, to study "deep sensibility," and recorded his reactions day by day.

Eventually he fell a victim to Parkinson's disease, the form of paralysis which had occupied most of his studies.

Recently his death, at the age of 79, was announced.

Cutting through the nerves of his left arm 31 years ago led to the development of new forms of surgery being developed in the treatment of nervous diseases.

Specialists learned from this experiment how messages are transmitted from the nerves to the brain.

Nobody knew more than Sir Henry about Parkinson's disease, which is also known as trembling palsy. Trembling movements in certain parts tend to become widely diffused throughout the body.

Sir Henry became afflicted years ago. With the development of the disease he became a cripple.

As he gradually lost the use of his hands, Lady Head undertook all his correspondence and she handled his reference books for him until her death a year ago.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION GOES AHEAD

The large scale air raids on London have necessitated big calls on the blood transfusion services. Regular deliveries of blood are now being made to the hospitals, often during raids and hundreds of lives have been saved. On one day alone some 300 pints of blood were given by donors, while S.O.S. calls have met with a magnificent response.

CANADIAN PROBLEM

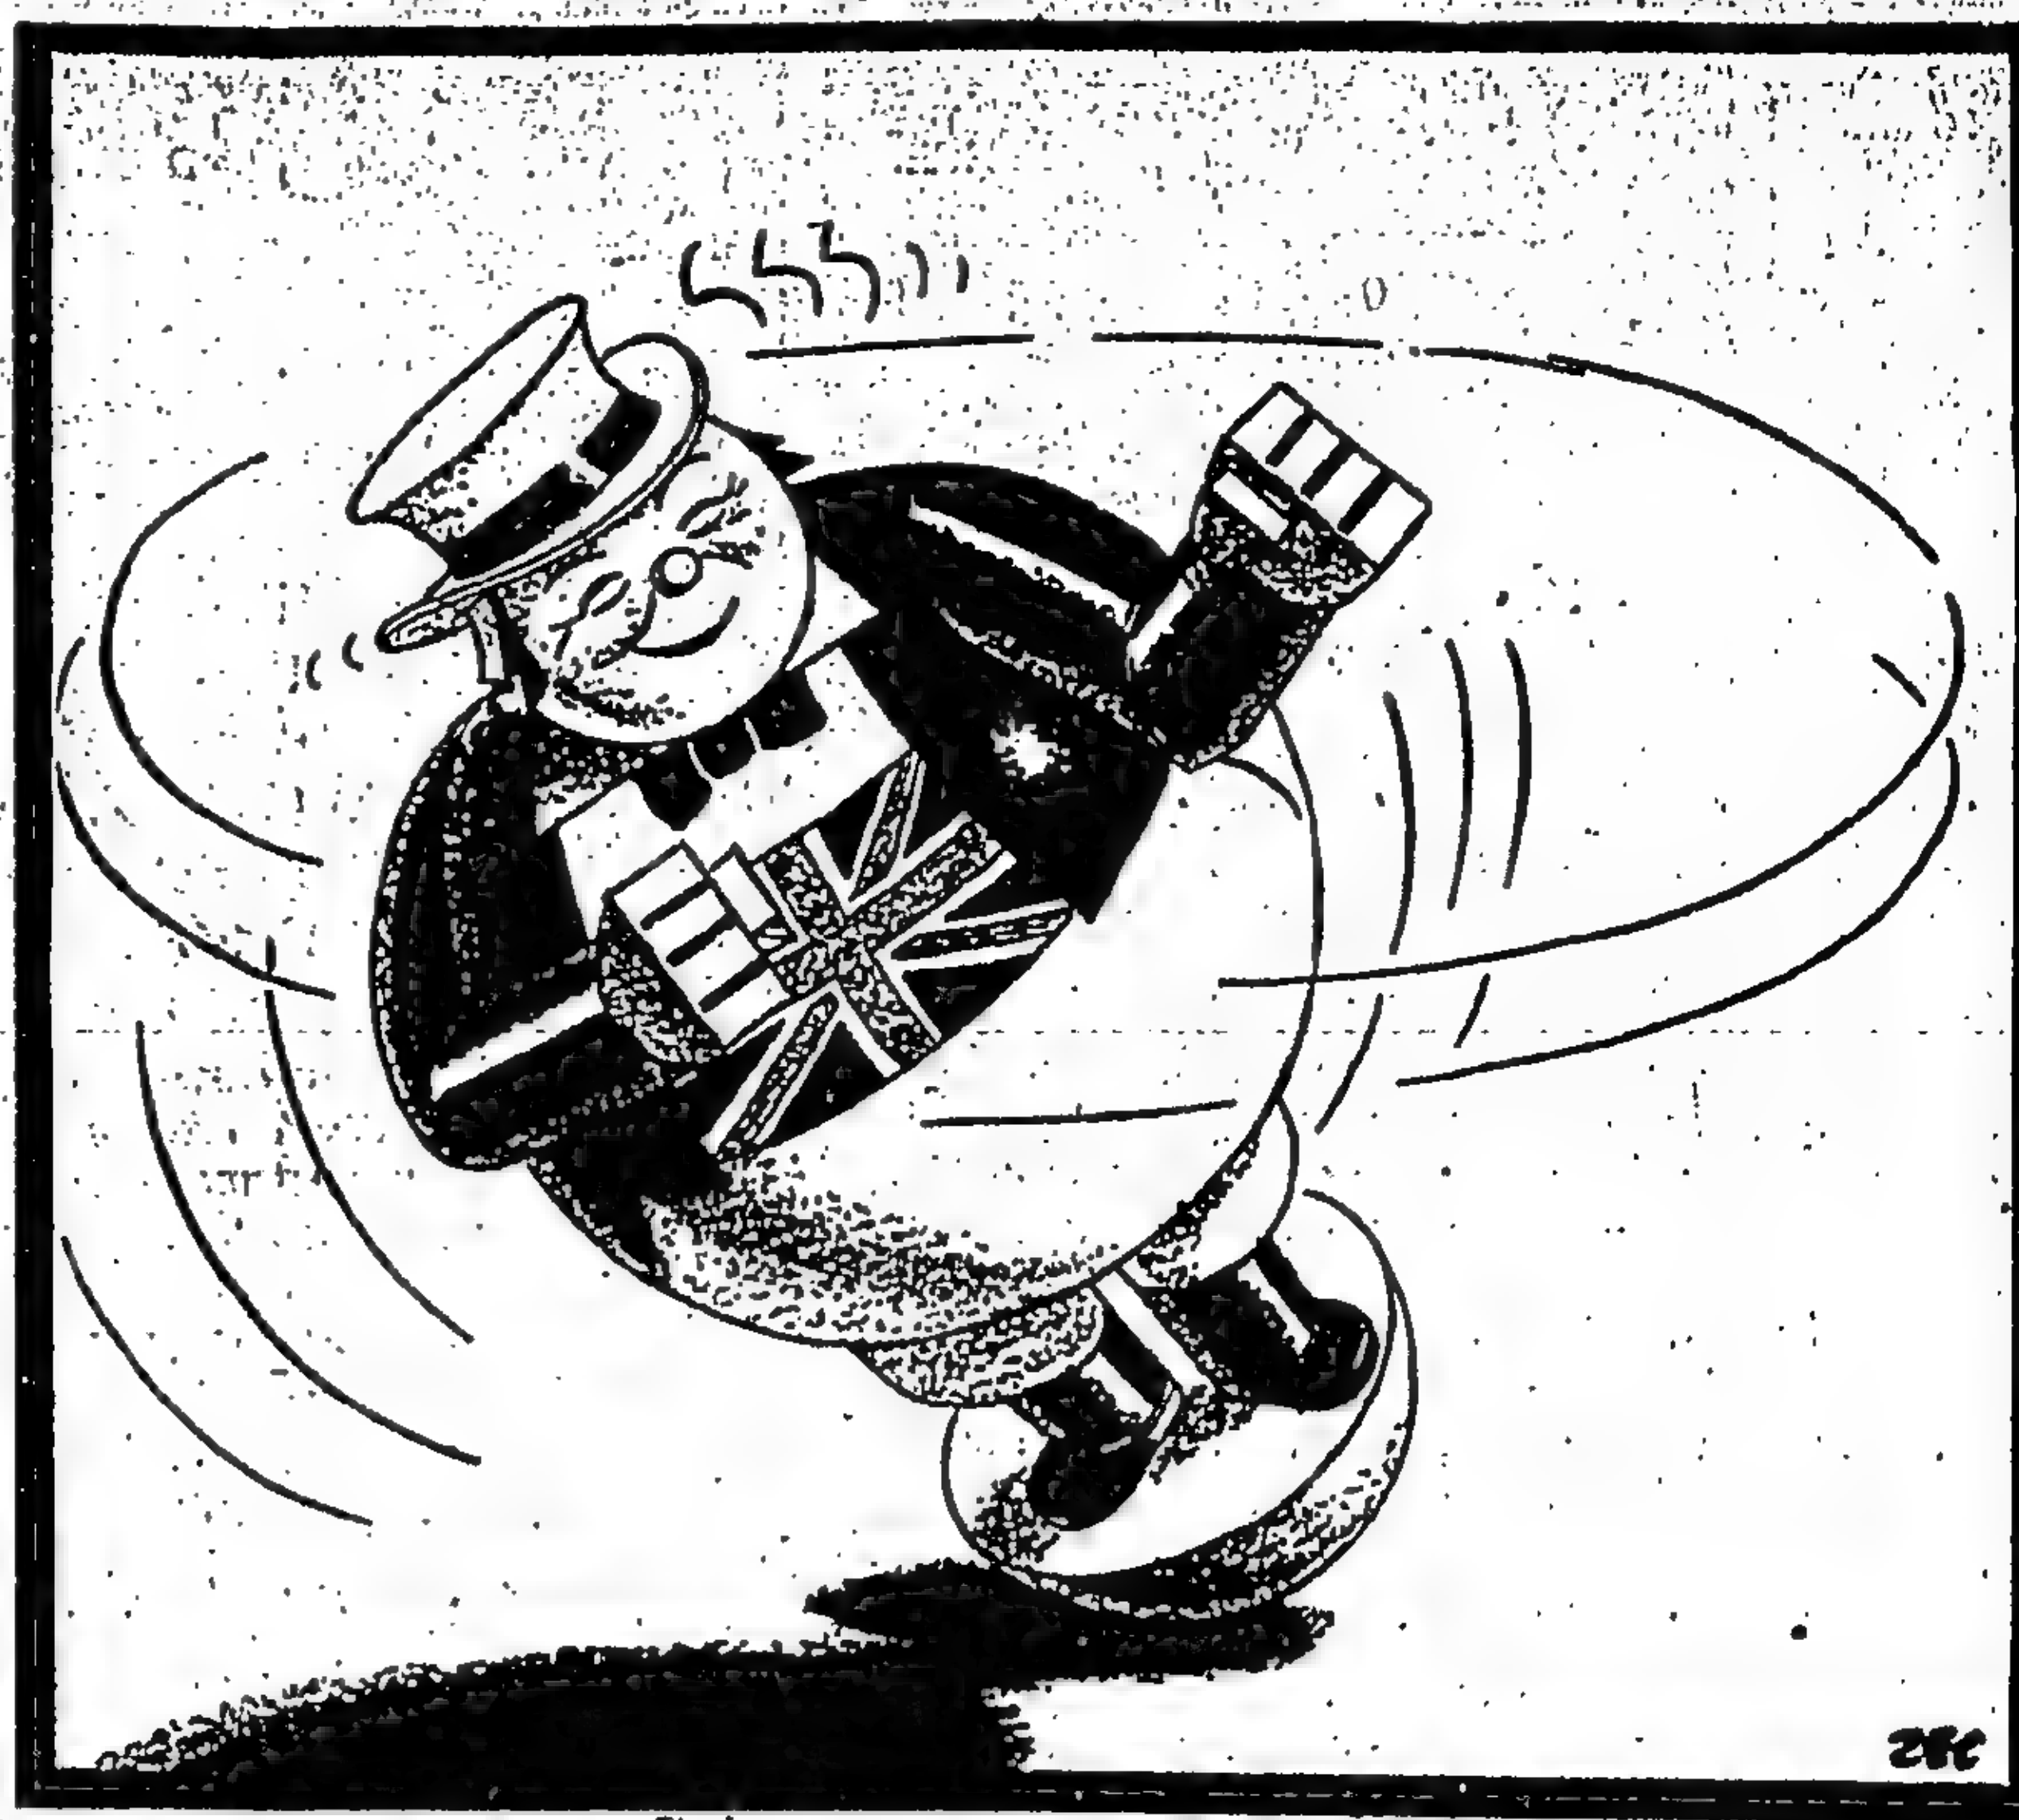

ALARM has recently been voiced by representatives of British Columbia at the presence in that rich province of Canada of some 30,000 Japanese, the suggestion being that they constitute a menace increasing in proportion to the strained relations between Japan and Britain in the Far East. There can be no doubt that the position certainly needs watching because fifth columnist activities have played an enormous part in this present war and the Japanese, whose use of this potent method has been illustrated only in China so far—and then in the more obvious forms of propaganda and espionage—have proved themselves willing to study Axis styles in warfare. The suggestion is that they will insinuate themselves into the vital machinery of the foreign countries in which they are accommodated in order to assist Japan should she even go to war with the Democracies.

The Japanese community in British Columbia have repeatedly expressed their loyalty to Canada and have subscribed liberally to non-active war funds, such as the Red Cross. It would be a pity if hostile classification of alien peoples abroad were to become general. The feeling against Asiatics in British Columbia is based more on economic grounds than any other, the political aspect only giving it point. Many Japanese have lived there for decades, have raised families there, and regard British Columbia as their home.

By virtue of the wide differences in customs and creeds of the white race and Asiatics the Japanese have never mingled intimately with their Canadian neighbours, but that can scarcely be counted against them, since the whites have been equally remiss in finding a common ground of understanding. Such an understanding ought to be found in the development of the country but the lower standard of living of the Japanese is harboured as a grudge against them while they, on the other hand, feel indignant at the withholding of political freedom from Japanese born and bred in Canada. The problem is made more difficult because the Japanese propagate rapidly; the Chinese, on the other hand, seldom bring out their wives from China and often return to their country of origin instead of making Canada their home.

Admitting that the problem cannot be solved easily, it does seem reasonable not to avoid taking the initiative in alienating a large and

THE PILOT WHO WAS "SAVED"

By
Dudley Barker

I WANT to know what I could truthfully have said to the man sitting next to me in a train.

He was a tall, grey haired man, obviously not very well off. He wore an old blue suit, and his hands thatidgeted nervously with an unlit pipe were hardened by work.

In the opposite corner sat his wife, trying carefully not to show the grief she was feeling. She was middle-aged, plump, kindly-looking.

Once, as she powdered her nose from a cheap enamel flapjack, a single tear escaped from her eye—a tear which she hastily dried with her powder puff.

HIS SON

The man and I talked desultorily of air raids, and suddenly he blurted it out. He had to tell someone.

"My son is a Spitfire pilot," he said, "and last night we had some bad news. His wife came round to tell us she had just heard he was taken to a hospital in the South-East."

"We do not know what happened to him. The girl was driven down by her father last night, and we are on our way. We heard last night that they had to amputate an arm, and that his face is badly burned. That's all we know."

I tried hard to think of something to say that would not intrude too far into his sorrow. All I could think of saying, though I knew it to be inadequate, was that perhaps there might be some comfort in the thought that the fighter pilots are the men who have saved England.

"There's the Navy, too," replied the pilot's father. "There are some fine men in the Navy." The pilot's mother was looking from the window at a little house we happened to be passing. It had been shattered and charred by a bomb, and she said, "How terrible for the people who lived in that house."

That was all the pilot's mother said.

But the man felt the need to go on talking.

Industrious community, and incidentally furthering the doctrines of rampant nationalism being nurtured in Japan to-day. We cannot act against the Japanese because they are Asiatics; we should only act against them when they become our enemies. And that action, when the time comes to take it should be of a nature which will allow us to take up the lines of free intercourse with all people so that we do not go backwards along the path of freedom.

safe ever after from any fear of poverty and distress and the shortness of peace-time memories?

"He is our only child," he said, "and he was doing so well before the war started. He was a ground engineer at a civil aerodrome, but he was always keen to fly, so he put his name down for the Volunteer Reserve."

"He did a good job before this happened to him. He had five German planes to his credit."

He put a match to his pipe and listlessly let it go out again.

"What sort of a life is he going to have after this?" he asked. "A man with one arm and perhaps with his face disfigured. Do you think he will be able to hold down a civilian job after the war?"

They got out soon to change into the train that would take them to the hospital where their son lies—a Spitfire pilot with five German planes to his credit—with one arm amputated and the marks of fire on his face.

I glanced at my newspaper and read, "Fifteen of our planes are missing, but eleven pilots are safe."

Their son, then, was one of the eleven who were safe.

"I WANT TO KNOW"

But I want to know what we mean by that word "safe." Do we just mean "still alive"? Or do we mean safe not only from guns of the raiders but

I want to know whether I could have said to that man in the train: "Your son is one of the few thousand young men who have saved England, and, indirectly, the whole world, from slavery. Because of his gallantry he has been maimed."

"But he will not be rewarded, as some men of the last war were, with the tiny official pension, a rousing homecoming, and then forgetfulness and a job selling something from suburban door to door."

WILL IT BE?

"No, in gratitude for what your son has done for us we will see to it that he never suffers want or distress throughout the rest of his life. We will see to it that he and his wife live in comfort and honour and his children get the finest education this country can offer."

"And, because we know that human memories are short when danger has passed, we are already making watertight plans to carry these promises out, and we are already putting aside the funds needed to do so, before we forget."

"We cannot presume to comfort the grief that you, your wife and your son's wife, suffer now. But we can relieve you of any fear of the future."

I DID NOT SAY THOSE THINGS TO THE MAN I CHANCED TO MEET IN THE TRAIN YESTERDAY. I HAVE HEARD NOTHING SO FAR TO MAKE ME BELIEVE THAT, HAD I SAID THEM, I SHOULD HAVE SPOKEN TRUTHFULLY.

Old Bailey Trial Goes On Despite Air Raid

During recent air raid warnings three of the four Courts at the Central Criminal Court adjourned. Sir Gerald Dodson, Recorder of London, presiding over Court 2, carried on as usual. He asked the jurors in waiting to sit at the back of the court because there was a possible danger of glass splinters falling from the glass-domed roof.

"Anybody who desires to retire—I was going to say retreat," said the RECORDER, "is at complete liberty to do so, but I have arranged to be informed if gunfire is heard, in which case I think it would be wise to adjourn."

Later, when the anti-aircraft guns began to boom, Sir Gerald Dodson adjourned his Court to his private room, where the hearing of the case before him proceeded. The prisoners was seated in a luxuriously upholstered armchair, with a warden standing by his side.

This is the first time within memory that a trial has been conducted in a Judge's private chamber at the Central Criminal Court.

In releasing the jury after the hearing of the case, the RECORDER said: "The great thing in my view is to resist interruption. We are all in the battle, and a battle means struggling and fighting, not quietly submitting and going down to aunkhole every time someone blows a whistle."

Vichy Radio Obeys The Nazi Voice

By VICTOR SCHIFF

Former Paris Correspondent
Of the "Daily Herald"

THE rapid evolution of the Vichy Government towards full-blooded Fascism is clearly reflected by the daily news bulletin broadcast by Radio Lyons, the main wireless station in unoccupied France.

On international and military news Lyons has become merely the parrot-echo of Berlin and Rome.

A month ago, although the Berlin and Rome communications and news from Axis sources were usually given priority, British announcements had a fair deal.

Cynical Abuse

Also French domestic news was generally presented in a comparatively balanced way.

All that has changed for the worse. As in all totalitarian countries the French State wireless is now cynically misused for abusing defenceless opponents.

Thus in announcing the "administrative internment" of leaders of the Left, Radio-Lyons makes scornful and anti-Semitic comments.

Anti-British

The French wireless is becoming more and more militantly anti-British.

The reason is obvious, and sometimes implicitly admitted. It is fear of the growing sympathy of average Frenchmen with Great Britain and their hopes in British victory.

Training The Army For Peace Jobs

WHAT about a job when the war is over?

This question is in the minds of many men in the Forces.

Captain Roy Clark, Royal Artillery, is trying to answer it.

He has placed before Weymouth Rotary Club and Weymouth Chamber of Commerce a voluntary training scheme for soldiers, and several employers have promised support.

Captain Clark wants to see the idea extended to all parts of the country—and the Empire.

Chance To Learn

Employers are asked to interest themselves in small groups of soldiers and have them in their offices, works and shops during off-duty hours to give them an opportunity of learning what they can.

South Dorset Technical College is being asked to give opportunities to young soldiers to take special courses which employers would be able to supplement in a personal way.

"It would mean," said Captain Clark, "the utilisation, on a finer and clearer conception, of the immense potentialities of the British Commonwealth."

"That seems to be the key to the future peace and prosperity of the world."

A New Life

"It is an idea which would offer our people a new life which they have proved, as never before, they so richly deserve."

What the man in the Forces is thinking is told in a letter which Captain Clarke has received from a soldier, who in civilian life is a schoolmaster.

The writer says: "I have found it intensely interesting in the seven months I have been in the Army, to listen to the conversations and ponder over the thoughts foremost in men's minds during these days of war. I feel certain that the majority would be far happier if only they knew that after the war they would not find themselves on the labour market, as men who had lost their skill and forgotten their business."

"It is my opinion that all forms of recreational and educational training should be encouraged."

JAPAN'S TRADE WITH UNITED STATES ABROGATION OF PACT OF LITTLE EFFECT

By OTTO JANSSEN

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, DEC. 2 (UP).—DESPITE THE STEADY DETERIORATION OF DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS BETWEEN TOKYO AND WASHINGTON SINCE THE UNITED STATES DENOUNCED ITS TREATY OF COMMERCE AND FRIENDSHIP WITH JAPAN EARLY THIS YEAR, TOTAL TRADE BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES HAS NOT BEEN REDUCED, AND LATEST FIGURES EVEN INDICATE SOME DEGREE OF IMPROVEMENT.

Trade in certain commodities, notably petroleum products, scrap iron and steel, refined copper, automotive and aircraft parts, has declined, but the total trade between the United States and Japan has held up better than was expected.

Preliminary and hitherto unpublished figures for trade during the first eight months of 1940 show that the two countries exchanged goods valued at about $147,500,000 (M) or an increase of more than $12,000,000 (M), over a similar period in 1939.

The Treaty of Commerce and Friendship was denounced by Washington January 26, 1940, as implied evidence of United States displeasure over Japan's Far Eastern policies. At that time it was widely predicted that trade with the Island Empire would be adversely affected by the action, despite the fact that abrogation simply laid the legal groundwork for "retaliatory" economic action against Japan and did not, of itself, affect trade in any way.

However, it was felt in some quarters that termination of the pact would cause hesitation among traders of the two nations due to the fear that some "punitive" economic steps might follow.

As a matter of fact, some hesitation was manifested in both countries, but trade quickly returned to normal after the early fears were at least partially overcome.

On the basis of present statistics, some experts believe that trade between the two countries in the nine months since the treaty was abrogated may be higher than during the similar period a year ago. Statistics for this entire period are not yet available but there are several factors which may bear out this belief:

(1) Japan is believed to be increasing her purchases of some materials. An embargo on scrap iron and steel was placed on this item to take effect October 16, and Japanese ships were reported to be loading large quantities of this vital war product in order to beat the "deadline."

Predictions Difficult
Authorities said that several factors, including future steps which the United States take in her politico-economic relations with Japan, make difficult any predictions as to the future course of trade.

However, it is understood that Japan during several years has been building up relatively large reserves of some of the products which have been, or in the future might be, embargoed.

As a result, Japan's purchases of scrap iron and steel, cotton and petroleum products were lower during the first seven months of this year yet the total trade was higher.

As a result, the embargo on scrap iron and steel, and any possible future embargo on certain other products, may not be as decisive a factor in the total trade between the two countries as might have been believed.

For example, Japan voluntarily drastically reduced its imports of United States raw cotton in August and September of this year, as compared with the same months of 1939.

The imports in the two months of 1940 were 10,108 bales valued at $583,000, compared with 17,138 bales valued at nearly $4,000,000.

New Situation
When announcement was first made that the Japanese-United States treaty would be denounced, it resulted in widespread speculation as to the possible economic and political consequences.

However, new and more spectacular developments, principally the Japanese-German-Italian mutual assistance pact, recently have eclipsed the treaty abrogation.

Prior to Tokyo's agreement with Rome and Berlin, there had been some discussion regarding the possible negotiation of a new commercial accord between this country and Japan. There appears to be little possibility of such a development now because of the growing tension between the two countries, and some quarters are now urging further curtailment of commercial relations through embargoes on imports and exports.

Belgians Cut German Army Wires

All released men of the former Belgian Army now living in three districts of Liege Province are to be seized by the Germans as prisoners of war in reprisal against an act of sabotage.

The German-controlled Brussels radio, announcing this, said cables belonging to the German Army had been cut.

If the guilty parties were not discovered shortly, more reprisals would take place.

The announcer, appealed to the Walloon population not to "impede the good work" the Germans were doing by acts the consequences of which would fall on the civil population.

SURPRISE FOR NAZI PILOTS

An eighteen-year-old Nazi pilot, wounded after a parachute descent in northwest England, was taken to hospital and, while his wound was being dressed, asked the nurse, "How far away are the nearest German troops?"

The nurse found it impossible to convince him that no German soldiers were in England. He had been assured, he said, that battalions of German soldiers were scattered over England and that they had instructions to keep-out and take care of German airmen shot down during raids.

Nazis Fake Photos Of R.A.F. "Raid"

PHOTOS in the German Press purporting to show damage caused by the R.A.F. in Prague have been exposed as fakes by the New York Times.

The photos showed wrecked streets and ruined houses.

The Times looked up its files and found that the photos were old ones.

One photo showed what was in reality a tramway collision and another showed a university building which was demolished many years ago.

Mussolini Has Secret Weapon in the Desert

MUSSOLINI is using his own secret weapon in the Egyptian campaign, but it has been a flop, says a "Sunday Dispatch" correspondent with the British Army in the Desert.

Every morning the British troops wake to find the desert littered with what appear to be vacuum flasks. But if anybody should touch the flasks they explode.

The flasks are a combination of hand-grenade and a miniature magnetic mine.

They are dropped from aeroplanes and when they land they become live.

I was in the Western Desert when the first of these secret weapons were dropped, says the correspondent. I spent the morning watching our engineers deal with them.

Stepping carefully among the loose sand and camel scrub of the desert the sappers were locating and marking each "flash" with a petrol tin or red flag.

Cowboy Stuff
Then they were detonated by rifle fire or disposed of by skilful lassoing with a rope.

Both methods produced a surprisingly loud and spectacular explosion capable of doing considerable damage to any lorry which failed to avoid the trap.

But the British forces were not taken in by them, even on the first day they were tried out.

WHAT STOMACH SUFFERERS CAN EAT

You can't lay up a sick stomach. Your body must be nourished even though solid food and most liquid foods cause pain and vomiting.

The problem has always been to find a food that soothes the inflamed stomach walls and provides all the nourishment needed for recovery. Doctors and nurses agree that Horlicks is such a food. It places no strain upon the digestion, but provides all the body-building elements that the weakened system needs. Convalescence is shortened, new strength and energy pour into the veins with every cupful of Horlicks.

Horlicks is a complete balanced food in a very palatable form. It has been given with remarkable success in the most severe cases of gastritis. Get Horlicks to-day from your usual store.

Italy Loses Half Of Her Trade

In a study of Italy's economic circumstances the Milan correspondent of the Berner newspaper Bundes shows that by entering the war she has lost 43 per cent. of her imports and 47 per cent. of her exports.

Her industry has lost 61 per cent. of its raw materials and 37 per cent. of the semi-finished articles it needs. Italy no longer receives any wool, cotton, jute, rubber, coffee, tea, and oil seeds.

Things, nevertheless, are not too bad, as Italy had time to prepare herself during her nine months of "non-belligerency." She gets much from Germany—for instance, 4,000,000 tons of coal a quarter. Liquid fuel, however, is very scarce, in spite of the annual output of 3,000,000 tons of synthetic petrol which covers only a fifth of the need.

The pooling and State distribution of agricultural products is giving much satisfaction, but the cost of living has greatly risen and is now higher than in Switzerland.

Woman Underground In Shelter Five Weeks

Two doctors who have been working among East End people since the big raids on London began two months ago, discovered in a large shelter an old woman, who had not been above ground for five weeks.

In a joint statement to The Times appealing for a more comprehensive policy to meet the combined effect of bombs and the rigours of winter, they said that in some London districts there were few people who did not spend every night in some sort of shelter.

Women and children, after leaving a shelter at dawn, often return and queue up before midday to ensure a place for the next night, they declared.

Something had already been done to make the more popular shelters habitable for long periods, but much must be done before the winter if disease is to be prevented from spreading like a plague.

They urged that all damp shelters, and especially trench-shelters, should be condemned.

They also advocated proper disinfection, ventilation and ventilation for other shelters, to supplement medical care and supervision already undertaken by the Government.

The Minister of Supply (Mr. Herbert Morrison) has ordered that an experiment be made in issuing admission tickets for some of the London shelters which are used for sleeping in.

If the scheme is a success, it will probably be extended to provincial centres.

Mr. Morrison declared the war was anxious to abolish the "Abomination" as quickly as possible. Londoners had quite enough to endure without the hardship and waste of time involved in queuing up for shelter, he said.

Miss Ellen Wilkinson (Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Pensions) invited 26 women who use various types of London shelters to meet her at the Home Office and discuss shelter problems.

More Sense From Women
After the conference, she said: "I heard more sense from these women than from expert committees."

The delegates voted unanimously against separating men from women, and emphasized the failure of efforts to prevent wives and husbands being together. By one excuse or another, they said, husbands were smuggled into quarters reserved for women and children.

The discussion reflected considerable feeling against persons who, having no work, queue up early and get the best places, and who then

EARLY DECLARATIONS IN VOGUE

K.C.C. Hang On Too Long Against University: Ozorio Bowls Well

One of the features of the season is the number of declarations for small totals. Sometimes they come off and sometimes they do not, but they always make for an exciting game instead of a dull draw. For instance the Small Units declared at 110 for seven wickets leaving the Civil Service eighty minutes to get the runs. The fact that the match was lost did not matter in the slightest. The cricket was interesting right up to the end.

DRAW AT K.C.C.

An example of the reverse process which cost them the game was given by K.C.C.'s late declaration against the University. What possessed Teddy Fincher to go on until he had got 171 on the board, I don't know as against the bowling at his disposal I should have put 130 as a safe score against the University who are not quick scorers though some of them can defend stubbornly. I am informed that the declaration was made just before four and that meant that with the tea interval Kowloon would only have an hour and a half to get the Varsity out. And, though Lloyd was on his day with the ball, at the end only eight wickets had fallen, and only 91 stood on the board.

It is perhaps easy to be wise after the event but I can honestly say I should myself have declared at 130 or 140 at most.

THREE GOOD SCORES

Anderson as usual got a packet of runs scoring his 60 at the rate of nearly a run a minute. F. J. Lay (41) seems developing into one of our better batsmen, while Rapley, whose form is a bit in and out, got a similar number, scoring over a run a minute. I did not see the game but I deduce that either it started a bit late or there were some slow periods for two batsmen put up jointly 101 runs in about 105 minutes, and when not together, the score of the side should be made at about the rate of 1½ runs per minute.

STOUT DEFENCE

Gegg (18) and K. S. Oh (29 not out) saved the side and defended stubbornly. Apart from the first two batsmen whose scores do not quite represent the value of their innings, no one else could do much against Lloyd who had the excellent figures of 3-20-6. K.C.C. sent down 24 overs as against the University, 23.6, and scored on an average just over three runs per over more.

I.R.C. COLLAPSE

The Indians team is, I am afraid, beginning to rely too much on A. S. Minu and A. H. Madar—their stalwarts for a good many seasons past. With Minu away and A. R. H. Esmael, A. H. Madar and K. Nazarin all making ducks they collapsed easily before Ozorio (94-2-32-7), who, I am glad to see, seems to have found his length at last. Re-crolo put up a typical innings. The first two batsmen made 14 and 16 respectively but the next scores were 3, 0, 1, and 8 runs. The innings stopped the not and Reed (27) as usual held on to things, while the newly promoted A. V. Gosano made thirty runs.

RUNS GALORE

At Sookunpoo on Saturday last neither the Army nor the Club had sufficient bowling to get each other out. I was surprised at first to see both Alec and John Pearce turning out for the Army but on reflection I suppose this must be so.

It leaves the Club uncommonly weak this year in games where they cannot call up their C.S.C.C. reserves. The Army batted first and, after Finch left early, Logan and T. A. Pearce settled down and each got a half century.

I gather Owen Hughes was unlucky to miss bowling Pearce by a coat of paint and also in having him dropped. The Club had only Knight and Finnie to bowl besides and they could not prevent the Army rattling up 163 for two declared. Webb made 37 not out.

A GOOD START

LAWRENCE has been making very few runs lately and he was sent in first to change his luck. It worked. He hit up a very nice 63 while Knight, who seems to have settled down to his light very well, made 40 before he was bowled by Tropp who went on a second time.

The Club only wanted 81 to win when the first wicket fell but it could not be done. They hurried and the light failed and Tropp bowled exceedingly well and a draw resulted. It seems that the Army have made a useful discovery in this bowler. The Army side was definitely a powerful one and in an all day match would beat the Club I think, though a place should be found for Fergus.

C.S.C.C. v. SMALL UNITS

The Civil Service had the game in their pocket when they had six down for 34 but as usual they very nearly let it get out again. Stout, who had been hit on the head by a return while running, came back again and held up things stoutly with Goss disdained anything on the off, and hit the straight ones very hard to leg.

There was some very wild bowling at this time especially by Stout. Dobbinson also did well and finally the Small Units made a very sporting declaration at 110 for seven; Goss was not out 45 and Dobbinson 18 not out.

BUSTLE

The C.S. had, according to my reckoning, an hour and twenty minutes and had to bustle, but they got the runs. K. J. Atwell (49), who has been practised to number one batsman, and Richardson (16) gave them a good start and with Perry and Hollidge both in the twenties, the runs were easily hit off.

I was very sorry to hear that there was a good deal of blackness in the field in the case of one or two of the younger members of the C.S. There is no excuse for this. Quick change-over between the overs is essential and if the older men can do it surely the youngsters can.

ROYAL SCOTS WIN

It is pleasant to see a regimental team out again. I think the Kosbies were about the last regiment to turn one out fairly often. The Royal Scots were far too good for the H.K.C.C. second who are not at their best at present.

They had quite a good side out but only Gubhagan (24) and H. J. Armstrong (29) did much. I learn that Fergus was bowling pretty fast and well. Patterson was unlucky to get a full toss on his arm and had to retire. Both Bate and Emerson bowled very steadily to keep runs down and the former made a splendid catch in the slips to send Eric Mitchell back. The Club Captain had been in for some time for his eight singles. Bishop (13) was shaping well until he played a foolish shot and was caught.

Bateman (70 retired) was top scorer for the Regiment. I am told he has played in Yorkshire League cricket but I cannot vouch for it. The total was 173 for 8 wickets when stumps were drawn. None of the Club bowlers could do anything.

CAMP

By the way owing to impending Camp duties the H.K.C.C. will only put out one team on the next two Saturdays.

Second Division Games

The I.R.C. second eleven had slightly the better of the game against Recrolo second. A. R. Safflad (54) and F. J. Remedios (48) did best for their respective sides. M. R. Abbas took 5 for 40 for the I.R.C.

At the Police ground there was an orgy of low scoring as the C.S. second were all out for 56, which the Police would have found hard to get with-

Basketball

INTER-DIVISIONAL LEAGUE FOR THE POLICE

FIRST MATCH in the Hongkong Police Inter-Divisional Basketball League, which was recently formed, was played yesterday at Boundary Street when Shumshulpo beat Kowloon City by 26 points to 13. These League matches will be played on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, commencing each day at 4.30 p.m. Seven teams have entered the League.

Badminton

Annual Meeting Of St. John's

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the St. John's Cathedral Badminton Club was held last night under the Chairmanship of Dean Wilson, who was re-elected. Mr. R. W. H. Maynard, Hon. Treasurer, reported a balance in hand despite starting the year with a substantial deficit. A contribution to Cathedral funds of $50 was approved. Mr. Maynard was re-elected and Mr. David Kwok was elected Hon. Secretary. Mrs. D. Wilson and Mr. Peter Wilson were elected to the Committee.

out W. Clarke's 39 not out. As it was they had 99 for 9 wickets at the close of the game.

A VETERAN

I arrived just in time to see my old friend J. L. Youngsaye get the last twenty runs of his 52 not out for the D.B.S. vs. Craigengower. It was a sturdy innings though, as he himself said, he did get some trips served up to him at the end.

It was fairly close but I fancy the D.B.S. would have won had there been a little more time.

BAXTER SCORES

For K.C.C. second Baxter knocked up 78. He seems the type of bat who comes off against weak bowling but cracks up against the better stuff. It is probably partly owing to the fact that for some years he preferred to play in the second, if I collect aright. The K.C.C. second did not make the mistake their seniors did and declared at 135 for 5 wickets. University could only manage 116 despite a good innings of 40 by Naranjan Singh—who, as I have said before, is a good deal better than several of their first eleven bats. B. D. Lay compensated for his failure with the bat by taking 5 for 28 in eight overs.

Saturday "Tanner" On "Blitz" Forecast

Flutters At Home Are Not What Hitler Expected

A SWEEPSTAKE on Saturday's football results used to be "the thing"—now it's a sweep on "the Blitz."

And the Englishman's love of "a flutter" is helping to beat the Nazi airmen.

Thousands of employees in the offices and factories of Britain are boosting the totals of the local Spitfire Funds by having a Saturday "tanner" on a forecast of the number of German raiders our fighters and A.A. guns will bring down in the coming week.

In many cases a good percentage of the takings goes to the local Spitfire Fund—just as it used to go to the factory's sports or welfare club.

OTHER IDEAS
INGENIOUS minds have evolved other similar ideas for helping to build aircraft. Gambling on how many German aircraft are brought down in a day; the number of air raids in the next air raid are the methods by which funds are raised.

The biggest thrill, however, is furnished by the air raid warning game. In this minutes are "bought" in every hour of the day, and the man who guesses the exact time when the "Banshee Howl" goes off collects his dividend.

DUO-BRIDGE

(British Made)

The Board for Two Players

Two Bridge players can use the DUO-BRIDGE Board anywhere and at any time; there is no need to go out to the Club on these black nights.

You will enjoy it in any situation, because it is the very best Bridge game for two people yet invented.

Let us admit at once that there are certain technical difficulties which cannot be overcome. We are well aware of them—but they do not affect the character of the game in any way. Neither player sees more than his own hand while bidding and only his own hand and Dummy during play.

It is obvious that peculiar bidding, psychics and wild jump-overbids are no use in such a game, indeed the hands have been very carefully selected.

French Survivor Of Attack By Bandits: Catholic Father Slain In Cold Blood

The following account of the murder in Tibet of the Frenchmen, Pere Nussbaum and M. Liotard appeared in the "N. C. D. News," Shanghai, having been sent from Tachienlu on October 25. Yesterday M. Guibaut left the plains below. Soon after his arrival here he told us something about the shooting of his companion, M. Liotard. Apparently they had reached the wild robber Golok country so ran every known risk of being shot robbed or kidnapped. Both travellers knew what they were in for, so were quite prepared to fire the first shot.

One day, however, while travelling through some broken country, Golok brigands took advantage of a rocky defile, and let go a fusillade at the Frenchmen. Both Liotard and Guibaut replied and quite a battle took place till Liotard fell in front of his companion. A Tibetan bullet got him in the chest and before Guibaut could do anything Liotard had passed beyond the help of man. The bullets still whizzed round Guibaut and he showed us his leather coat with numerous bullet holes in it. One of the Tibetan servants accompanying the travellers, was also shot.

As nothing could be done to recover the body of M. Liotard and, as the Tibetans still kept up a steady fire, Guibaut and his remaining servant retired to a lamasery and there sought shelter from the wild Golok outlaws. With a lama escort, the traveller returned to Lusho and there came on the main Lhasa road. From there to Dootu was only a two days' journey and here the Frenchman was able to get some help from the Catholic Mission.

One week later M. Guibaut arrived in Tachienlu and again took up residence with Bishop Valentini outside the south gate. Once back again in the French community the lonely traveller soon recovered his spirits. The bishops, priests, sisters and nuns did everything to help the poor fellow, and a good supply of Ruby Queens did the rest.

Not only did he lose his companion and a Tibetan servant, but the Tibetan brigands robbed him of all his belongings, including geographical instruments and some valuable surveys of quite unknown country.

Pere Nussbaum Murdered

Bishop Valentini has now received some details of the murder of Pere Nussbaum below Tachienlu. It appears that the Pere was on his way home from Yunnan and was only some two days from his station. Like many other Catholic fathers along the frontier, Pere Nussbaum took advantage of his visit to Yunnan and other French mission stations to replenish his cupboard with some of the things that make life worth living.

Pere Nussbaum was first captured, robbed, then held for some time and finally shot. While in the hands of the brigands and knowing that there was little, if any, hope of escape he asked the robbers if this was any return for the 30 years that he had lived among them? He told them of his life lived in loneliness and hardship to bring to them a knowledge of God's love and Christ's sacrifice on the Cross to save them.

Apparently the Catholic father was shot in cold blood and left by the roadside while the brigands cleared off with his belongings. It is now known that the lama had nothing to do with the murder of Pere Nussbaum. Some Catholic Sisters were travelling with the Pere and they were allowed to return in peace. It seems that the robbers were waiting for Nussbaum; robbery and murder appears to have been their intention.

With the murder of Pere Nussbaum Tibet has once more become the Land of the Lamas. While the Catholic father lived under the protection of the Tibetan flag—yellow lion on a green background—he was the only Christian missionary in Lamasland and while he lived there he was persona non grata with the Lhasa government. It now remains to be seen if the Tibetan authorities will permit the re-occupation of Tachienlu by another French priest.

All-China Exhibition

SELECTIONS MADE

A difficult task faced the judges of the All-China Exhibition on Saturday evening, when they were called upon to select the prints to be exhibited. Nearly 400 prints of a high standard were received, and from these a selection of about 100 had to be made as hanging space in the Peacock Lounge, Cafe. Wise-man, where the exhibition is to be held, is limited.

Contrary to expectations more entries were received from photographers in Hongkong than last year in spite of the restrictions, although the Shanghai entries were slightly less in number.

The Board of Judges consisted of ten members of the Photographic Society of Hongkong, including Mr. W. C. Clark, A.R.P.S., Mr. Lo Tak-chio, Mr. R. A. Bates, the Hon. Secretary of the Society, and Mr. Francis Wu, the world famous exhibitor, who has recently been made an Associate of the Royal Photographic Society. The judging lasted from 8.30 p.m. till 10.30 p.m., by which time a hundred fine examples of photographic art had been chosen. These the public will see when the All-China Exhibition opens on Wednesday, December 11, in the Peacock Lounge. It will remain open from 10 a.m. till 7.30 p.m. each day, closing on Sunday, December 15. Admission will be free. Catalogues, including reproductions of eight of the pictures in the exhibition, will be on sale.—Contributed.

THE KUNMING HOSPITAL APPEAL

Headquarters: BISHOP'S HOUSE, HONG KONG

20th November, 1940.

The HUI TIEN HOSPITAL, KUNMING, has been bombed and damaged, and can no longer be used for inpatients.

HK $40,000 (about N.C. $200,000) is required, urgently, to build emergency accommodation of mud brick about fifteen miles beyond the city. With the help of the salvaged equipment (nearly all intact) the new hospital can resume its work of mercy in eight weeks. The hospital staff are ready to resume work at once.

The Bank of China has generously advanced a loan of NC$100,000 so that the work of building can begin without delay.

Bishop Y. Y. Tsu is Chairman of the Hospital Committee of Management. The Superintendent, Dr. H. P. Yew, is an old boy of St. Stephen's, Stanley, and a graduate of Guy's Hospital, London. He has made the hospital so efficient that it was, until the bombing, used by the Shanghai Medical College as a Teaching Hospital.

The hospital was founded 25 years ago by the Church Missionary Society who still provide a British doctor and mission as well as an annual grant. It is the only British hospital on the Burma Road between Lashio and Chungking and was, until the present war, the largest hospital in the two provinces of Yunnan and Kweichow.

Figures for 1939: Inpatients...2,857
Outpatients 60,530

With the re-opening of the Burma Road the need for this hospital is more urgent than ever.

The undersigned now appeal for the full HK $40,000 in order that this hospital may be able to minister to the many non-combatant victims of war along this war torn highway as well as resume its work of mercy among the multitudes of the South West of China.

All donations will be gratefully acknowledged by the Hon. Treasurer, Mr. S. J. Chen, Manager of the Bank of China, in Hongkong, the Treasurer, St. John's Cathedral or the South China Morning Post.

W. W. Yen (Chairman), Soong Ching Ling (Madame Sun Yat Sen), Shoukon Chow, Robert Ho Tung, Ronald Hong Kong, Robert Kotewall, Li Shu Fan, Robert Lim, M. K. Lo, W. N. T. Tam, Tu Yuh Sen, C. T. Wang, Wang Hsiao Lai.

ARMED SHIP BOMBED: THAI-FRENCH FURY

Indo-China and Thailand edged slightly closer towards war on Sunday when the Hanoi authorities reported a fierce air battle above the Mekong River village of Thakke, while French forces carried out retaliatory measures against Thailand. The Thai Premier declared that the Thai Air Force was fully prepared to carry out large-scale bombing of Cambodia and Laos.

Hanoi reports declare that Thailand planes attacked a French armed vessel in the Gulf of Thailand but none of the bombs dropped hit the ship. The French replied with machine-gun fire and hit one of the attacking planes.

Commenting on the new U.S.$100,000,000 loan to China the Washington Post calls the step President Roosevelt's first major international move since his re-election. The same journal believes the action is expected not only to strengthen the Chinese resistance but also to encourage continued Soviet aid to Chiang Kai-shek.

Declaring that generosity displayed in the negotiations with the Occidental colonies may react to the detriment of Japan because leniency is exceeded, the Nichi Nichi Shinbun editorially demands the speeding up of trade conversations with Indo-China and the Netherlands East Indies.

Chungking claims that Chinese troops have smashed the Japanese offensive along a 150-mile front in north Hupeh causing the death of over 12,653 Japanese.

MARIA MARTEN'S GRAVE FOR SALE

Maria Marten's gravestone is about to change hands—though its new owner won't even know where it is unless one of the villagers points it out to him.

Maria Marten's grave is in the tiny churchyard of Polstead, in the heart of rural Suffolk. And the churchyard and church are both included in one of Britain's oldest estates, which is to be sold by auction.

Maria was foully done to death in the notorious Red Barn more than 100 years ago.

They hanged a local farmer for the deed. If it had not been for Maria's mother, who lived on to a rare old age—one or two of the villagers still remember her—the truth might never have come out.

But the mother dreamt three nights running of her daughter lying dead in that grim old barn, and when they came to dig—well, there she was.

Polstead Hall estate, as they call it, has not changed hands for 350 years.

It is "a compact small sporting estate of great antiquarian interest," say the auctioneers. (It covers 457 acres).

Picturesque Cottage

Maria Marten's cottage stands detached, picturesque and unchanged.

The Red Barn was pulled down many years ago.

Mr. A. C. G. Lloyd, who is selling the estate, takes this Maria Marten business in good part.

"But the family has been grossly libelled," he said.

"The story has been twisted to make it appear that it was the wicked squire, one of my ancestors, who so ill-used the mole-catcher's daughter. 'Actually a tenant farmer was the culprit.'"

St. Andrew's Club A.D.C. will give two performances this month in aid of the Bomber Fund—at December 17 and 19, commencing at 8 p.m.

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A Special Shave Cream—It's Not a Soap, Needs No Brush!

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed GLIDER—a special cream for daily shaving. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. No brush. No lather. No sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich cream. It won't dry on your face. Applied with the fingers, it quickly softens each whisker. A protective layer is formed over which your razor glides. Off comes each hair at the base without scraping. Like a cold cream, Glider helps keep your skin smooth all day. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

Geologist Discovers Ups And Downs Of Ice Age America

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UP).—Even Ice Age America, back in the days of a mammoth and bison hunter "population," had its economic ups and downs. This is the latest revelation of this country's past, unearthed in Colorado by Dr. Frank H. H. Roberts, Jr., Smithsonian Institution archaeologist.

Finding a stratified corner at the now-famous Lindenmeier site, a camp and workshop occupied by the Folsom Man in the Ice Age, Dr. Roberts has charted about 1,000 years of very early American prehistory.

The story, told in gradually accumulated layers of earth, each containing a typical kind of stone weapon point, reveals the Folsom Man as first and oldest at this camping ground. Folsom hunters arrived sometime between 10,000 and 25,000 years ago, and more likely it was 25,000, Dr. Roberts infers from the geologic evidence.

Following bison herds through rich pastures south of the retreating ice sheet, Folsom hunters returned to this camp many summers. Their weapons were the beautifully shaped and grooved Folsom dart points, and they had time for careful work, an eye for beauty—judging by simple efforts to decorate belongings—and they even sewed their garments with eyed needles.

Other Ages

Harder times or more uncouth people followed within a few centuries, judging by the next distinct layer of earth above, containing a degenerated sort of Folsom weapon, hastily made. If the new arrivals were not Folsom descendants, they did at any rate have some of the advantages of Folsom culture.

Before they came, the camp had lain abandoned and blanketed with debris. The newcomers made brief stays only at the camp, and it looks as though they lacked the comparative ease of "better times" in America.

The camp site eventually lay vacant again, until a third wave of hunters arrived, leaving a quite different dart point.

The stratified find establishes the sequence of early Americans using these strange old weapons, and will aid archaeologists to judge the relative age of such weapons found in other parts of western United States.

Dr. Roberts believes that still another type of Folsom weapon, which has been found scattered in eastern states, represents a still later chapter of this little-known era of American prehistory.

Malay Leader's Tribute To British Government

"If the British Government had wanted to harm or rule our sacred places it could have done so years ago, but our British friends respect our religion and moreover they are not so greedy as to pounce upon unprotected countries and rob them of their liberty, as the Germans and the Italians are doing," said Inche Daud bin Mohamed Shah, president of the Malay Union, Singapore, broadcasting a Hari Raya message in Malay from the Singapore station recently.

Inche Mohamed Shah said: "All of you will agree with me that we inhabitants of Malaya have been and are living in peace under the protection of our most benign British Government, without any trouble, whatever—in fact we have been and are enjoying this protection."

Wife Of Fire Officer On Arson Charge

Mrs. Dorothy Mary Ellen Mahoney, 32, wife of Sub-Officer Patrick Mahoney, of the L.C.C. Fire Brigade, was committed for trial at the Central Criminal Court when she appeared at Stratford Police Court charged with setting fire to her home at Milner Road, Dagenham.

Previously a statement alleged to have been made by Mrs. Mahoney was read, in which she referred to quarrels between herself and her husband over a girl named Beryl who was a member of the A.F.S.

When she found that Beryl was living with her husband she went to the house, and determined that Beryl should not have the home for which she had worked, piled some things in the hall and set fire to them.

Beryl Pizer, who described herself as an artist, living at Tredgar Road, Bow, said she was in the A.F.S. and attached to the A.F.S. station where Sub-Officer Mahoney was. She knew Mrs. Mahoney because of her visits to the station, and that Mrs. Mahoney left her husband some time in July. Later she went to look after Mr. Mahoney at his house, and she was there on August 30 when Mrs. Mahoney called.

There was a row, and when Mrs. Mahoney attempted to assault her she ran away. She returned the next morning and found that the house had been set on fire.

"Through the generosity of our Government we have been able to fulfil all our religious obligations without interference and hindrance and moreover I must not forget to mention that this year when there is a food control we are given permission to purchase an extra amount of rice for the purpose of giving out 'Sitra (charity)' to the poor and the needy."

"All these kinds of worship we have been able to fulfil under the protection of the British Government" without the slightest harm to our person or our property.

"Think, ladies and gentlemen, of the sufferings of humanity who are not blessed with such protection as we have had at the present moment and in the past."

"I am sure you must have, by now," he continued, "read that the Italian aeroplanes have raided the island of Bahrain and Saudi Arabia. Saudi Arabia means Jeddah and Mecca. I invite you all to imagine, for a moment the sufferings and tribulations of the people of our Holy City of Mecca and compare the luxuries which we are able to enjoy under the protection of the British Government."

"Two months and ten days hence we will be celebrating the festival of the pilgrimage of Haj, which was interrupted last year, but this year with the Italians raiding our holy places, I am afraid, many of our brothers and sisters out here will not venture the journey to perform the pilgrimage unless God in all his mercies ends this terrible war with victory to our British protectors before the pilgrimage."

"So let us all pray fervently for British victory," he urged.

Protector Of Poor

He proceeded: "Britain is not only fighting for her own country, but she is fighting as a protector of the poor and small nations and that being so, it is our duty to do all we can to help the British."

"One of the most outstanding and praiseworthy acts of our local Government has done for us consumers of rice and other foodstuffs is the control of food prices. Many of us who lived during the last Great War would remember that the price of rice then rose up to $1.40 per gantang. You can imagine, then, what would happen now if our Government does not take such a measure."

"In these hard times it is our duty to spend as little as possible on luxuries and all unnecessary things and save every cent to help our Government by investing our savings in War Savings Certificates in order to win the war."

Governor Pays Surprise Visit To Hospital

Following the showing of the film "Enough to Eat" at the Queen's Theatre yesterday, His Excellency the Acting Governor, Lieut.-General E. F. Norton, escorted by the Director of Medical Services, the Hon. Dr. P. S. Selwyn-Clarke, paid a surprise visit to the Sai Ying Pun Relief Hospital.

His Excellency was met on arrival by Dr. H. F. Tai, Medical Officer in charge, Dr. E. H. Ong and Miss Elsie Liu, the Matron, after which he inspected the hospital kitchen and enquired into the dietary, since 65 out of the 100 patients in hospital were stated to be suffering from Beri-Beri.

His Excellency later expressed satisfaction with the renovation of the former Block B of the Government Civil Hospital, which was due to be demolished, and its conversion into a useful relief hospital.

Short Wave Laboratory To Be Moved

PALO ALTO, California, Nov. 29 (UP).—The Stanford University Klystron Laboratory will be moved immediately to Garden City, N.Y., it was announced by R. E. Gillmore, president of the Sperry Gyroscope Co., licensee and distributor of the Klystron—a device for developing ultra short radio waves.

Gillmore said the national defence programme had caused such expansion in his company's research activities in developing new aircraft instruments that facilities here were inadequate.

Dr. David Locke Webster, head of Stanford's Department of Physics, Dr. William Hansen, one of the inventors of the Klystron; Sigurd Varian, who is also an aeroplane pilot; Dr. Russell Varian, his brother, who aided in its development; and three other Stanford scientists will go to Garden City, where the Sperry firm has a plant.

recognising the Nanking regime, all of which will prolong hostilities. The Generalissimo warned third Powers: "I fear an inescapable catastrophe and ruin for mankind unless Japan's expansion is halted now, when it is comparatively easy."

Apparently addressing his remarks to Washington, he urged for a continued firm policy in the Far East, despite the European war. The Generalissimo termed Japan a "potentially boundless curse to the Pacific."

Nanking Attitude

NANKING, Dec. 3 (UP).—Despite the Japanese Foreign Office spokesman's warning that the Nanking regime will retaliate against the American loan to the Chungking Government, Nanking's Foreign Minister, Chu Min-yi yesterday made a statement saying that South China must seek peace with Japan and also "improve relations with the United States and European nations in order to achieve world peace."

WAR INDUSTRIES IN U.S. GROW

America's war industries are growing rapidly and their rate of increase is understood to be partly caused by war stimulated activities.

A significant feature of rising industrial operations is the expanding payrolls which are reported to be increasing more rapidly than the numbers of the workers, with most of the difference between them coming into existence since the outbreak of the war in Europe.

The present war industries are considered by the U. S. department of Labour as including shipbuilding, aircraft, machine tools, engine production, aluminum and explosives. These six industries, however, are not given alone to the production of war materials, and it is believed that for the present perhaps they are not in the aggregate even predominantly war industries.

At the beginning of 1939 the average pay per worker in the United States was estimated at $28.19 per week, while in July of this year it had increased to $36.08, or an advance of nearly 30 per cent. The employment of larger proportions of skilled workers and the payments for overtime work are believed to have accounted partly for the increase in payrolls.

Number Of Workers

The total number of workers, however, are reported not as large. During July of this year shipbuilding was understood to have employed about 95,000 workers and aircraft production a little more than 77,000. Machine tool making had some 66,400 workers, or nearly as many as aircraft production. In the making of engines, including aero-engines, there were about 53,700 employed and in aluminum manufacturing 27,800. The explosives industry employed only 7,000.

What is regarded as an astonishing fact is that the rates of increase in the volume of employment in these war industries do not appear to have been much accelerated either by the actual outbreak of war in Europe, or by the initiation of America's own preparedness programme.

It was noted that from January to July of last year, before war began, employment in these war industries increased 21 per cent, while from January through July of 1940 it increased by 26 per cent. On the other hand, the payrolls have moved up more rapidly, having increased by 22 per cent during January through July of last year and by 29 per cent during the same period of 1940.

FASCIST REGIMES DENOUNCED BY MUSLIMS

RESOLUTIONS expressing "sincerity in the cause of Turkey, Egypt, Persia, Syria, Arabia and other Muslim countries" and condemning the brutality of the Nazi and Fascist dictators were adopted unanimously at a mass meeting of the Muslims of Singapore recently.

The Muslims also pledged "moral and material support for all necessary measures in case of any attack upon" Turkey, Egypt, Persia, Syria, Arabia and other Muslim countries "which are good allies of Britain."

That this mass meeting of the Muslims of Singapore held at the Sultan Jamia mosque, Singapore, on Nov. 1, 1940, strongly condemns the brutal acts of the dictators of Nazism and Fascism, which are destroying the peace of the world, and prays most fervently for the successful victory of the British Empire which is defending the right cause of the peace of the world.

Further, that this mass meeting of the Muslims resolves to express its sincerity in the cause of Turkey, Egypt, Persia, Syria, Arabia, and other Muslim countries which are good allies of Britain and its heartfelt sympathy towards those Muslim countries, while pledging to render its moral and material support for all the necessary measures in case of any attack on them or on either of them.

The meeting was presided over by Capt. N. M. Hashim, Malay member of the Legislative Council.

The resolutions were moved by Mr. T. A. M. Abdul Aziz, president of the South Indian Muslim League, Singapore, and were seconded by Haji Imam Ali, chief of Imams of Singapore.

All sections of the Muslim community attended the meeting.

Overseas Evacuation Of Children Stopped

EVACUATION of children overseas is to stop—during the winter, at least—it was recently announced from Downing Street. The Government has reluctantly decided that during the season of gales and heavy seas they cannot take the responsibility of sending the children, the official statement added.

Although the operation of the scheme has been suspended, it has not been abandoned. Whether it will be resumed next year will depend on conditions then prevailing.

The recent sinking of a vessel carrying children overseas has illustrated the dangers to which passengers are exposed, even in convoy, under the weather conditions in the Atlantic.

keen disappointment that will be felt by parents who had hoped to send their children overseas under the Government scheme, and they express their warm thanks to the many people in the Dominions and the United States who have offered hospitality.

About 2,000 children have already gone overseas under the scheme. The results of these children are assumed by the Government that there will be no suspension of the arrangements made for their welfare in their new homes.

British Planes' Attack On Shipyards

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Dec. 2 (UP).—The Air Ministry to-day announced that the R.A.F. attacked Marineverf, one of Germany's most important shipyards at Wilhelmshaven, despite adverse weather conditions. Large fires followed the showers of incendiary bombs.

Marineverf contains six dry-docks, with many warships, including submarines.

The announcement said that on Sunday, aircraft of the Coastal Command attacked the submarine base and naval docks at Lorient, the power station and drydocks at Brest, a military camp at Kristiansand, and also the gas works at Esbjerg, where explosions and flames covered the whole area.

No British aircraft were lost.

German Radio Attack On Yugo-Slavia

LONDON, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—Germany marked Yugo-Slavia's National Day by a threatening broadcast. While Prince Paul was declaring Yugo-Slavia's determination to defend her territory and independence, the German radio told Yugo-Slavia to liquidate her spiritual heritage and join the new order. Germany, said the broadcaster, was resolved to carry the new order into effect in the face of a few ignorant people.

Bombs Planted

LONDON, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—It is generally believed that the bombs which exploded on the doorstep of the Vice Premier, M. Matcek, were supplied by German agents, even assuming that they found Croats to do the dirty work. Fortunately, the bombs do not appear to have caused any loss of life and their effect will probably be opposite to that intended. There has been a noteworthy tendency for the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes to draw closer together since the agreement between Matcek and the Prince Regent.

Native Uprisings In Indo-China Spreading

Special to the "Telegraph"

HANOI, Dec. 2 (UP).—The sporadic native uprisings are continuing to the southward according to authoritative sources.

Heavy Toll Of British Shipping Is Feared

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (UP).—The Mackay Radio has reported picking up distress signals from nearly a dozen ships, mostly British, and virtually all on the European side of the Atlantic, which had either been torpedoed or air bombed, and which were sinking, or in immediate need of assistance.

U-boat attacks were reported by the British freighter Victoria in latitude 56.04 north, longitude 13.30 west, while another ship, identified only by the call letters GKIF, had also been attacked.

Dive bombing attacks near the Scottish and Irish coasts and U-boat attacks on a convoy about 400 miles west of Ireland were indicated.

Several Torpedoed

The attacked ships included the Lady Glenlyon and Goodleigh as well as an unidentified ship, believed to be British, in latitude 53.48 north, longitude 19.25 west. The British tank steamer Victor Ross, torpedoed in latitude 56.04 north, longitude 13.30 west, the Scottish freighter Loch Ranza, torpedoed in latitude 54.37 north, longitude 18.34 west. This latter vessel radioed that she had the crew of another wrecked ship aboard.

The Yugo-Slav freighter Polvrit and the British trawler Kilgeran Castle were attacked by dive bombers.

The report says that the tanker Victor Ross of 12,247 tons was torpedoed at 9.50 a.m., the Loch Ranza, 4,958 tons and the Celvrit, 1,937 tons at 10 a.m., the Kilgeran Castle 270 tons at 7.35 a.m. and the Victoria, 1,041 tons at 2.55 a.m., all Eastern Standard Time.

Raid on Southampton

SOUTHAMPTON, Dec. 2 (UP).—It is estimated that 200 German bombers took part in last night's raid and were met by a most terrific anti-aircraft barrage.

The damage includes several churches, a theatre, four cinema houses, several banks, many shops and houses and a hospital.

The raid was described as a "blitz fire raid." Hundreds of incendiary bombs were showered down to light up the targets for waves of raiders.

The damage done in Saturday night's raid was greatly extended and many additional persons are homeless. The destruction of commercial premises in the centre of the city has caused unemployment to hundreds.

Mobile canteens have been rushed through the streets serving tea and coffee to the relays of auxiliary fire fighters and members of the A.R.P. Soldiers are still being extricated from the public shelters which were hit on Saturday night and it is feared that other bodies were lost in the craters beneath the debris.

Casualties Number 370

LONDON, Dec. 2 (UP).—A joint Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security communique says that about 370 persons were killed or seriously injured in Southampton during Saturday and Sunday.

German Report

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (UP).—The High Command reports that on Sunday night the Luftwaffe attacked Southampton with bombs of the heaviest calibre. Over 60 large fires were observed including warehouses in the port area.

Yesterday morning, British planes bombed some residential districts in the coastal area and a number of civilians were wounded. Eleven British planes were shot down and two German planes are missing.

Other Nazi Claims

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (UP).—The official news agency announced that simultaneously with the attacks on Southampton, the German air force last night raided London, Liverpool and Birmingham and continued mining British harbours.

It was declared that German reconnaissance planes flew over the Channel, and observers at Cherbourg saw thick yellow smoke clouds as well as flames issuing from Southampton this morning.

Liverpool, famous shipping centre of the Mersey-side, has constantly been an objective of the German aerial Luftwaffe, who seek to destroy this great port so vital to the needs of Britain. But Liverpool continues to carry on as the sparkplug of world commerce. Here an aerial view of the "The Pierhead."

AID FOR CHINA IS APPROVED

U. S. Joint Committees' Unanimous Decision

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UP).—The Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, to-day made a surprise visit and appeared as a witness at the secret session of the joint House and Senate Committees in connection with the China loan.

Shortly afterwards, the joint committees unanimously voted confidence in the Administration's proposal to extend financial assistance to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

At the joint Committee session, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, Secretary of the Treasury, said that no definite commitments have as yet been made because it was desired to "keep faith" with Congress.

"Can Now Do Business"

It is recalled that last year, Mr. Morgenthau informed the Senate Committee that he would ask "for guidance" before using any mobilization funds to aid any warring foreign nation. He said: "I now can go on and do business as fast as the lawyers will let me."

Mr. Hull told the Press that he was pleased over the action of the Committee. "This is such a vital matter that it is the least we can do for the job that China is doing," he remarked. John Townsend was among the dozen Senators attending the session and predicted that there would be no very serious opposition from the Republicans and added that, apparently, no new legislation would be needed.

Vichy Govt. Moving To Versailles

VICHY, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—Marshal Petain "Head of the French State," is transferring the seat of government to Versailles in German occupied territory.

This appears to be the only conclusion to draw from a cryptic communique issued here after the Cabinet meeting to-day stating that Ministers "discussed various matters arising out of the forthcoming installation of the Chief of State at Versailles."

No further information on the subject was forthcoming.

Early this morning, after three hours fighting, the Greeks crossed the Dropoli River at several points after repulsing the Italians about six miles southeast of Argyro-Castron, according to reports from the frontier.

Advance Slowed Down

MOSCOW, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—The speed of the Greek advance has been slowed down by heavy snow which in some places is three feet deep, and violent gales. The Greeks, nevertheless, maintain the initiative and a new line has been established in the extreme north. The Italians secretly prepared a new line of defence on three consecutive ridges of high mountains which they have christened "Verdun" in the neighbourhood of Lake Ohrida and Pogradetz.

Fresh troops have been taken there by air and modern weapons and equipment have been brought up.

Forecasting defence efforts, the Greek Commander ordered an immediate attack along the whole front and encountered resistance of a violence that they had hitherto not experienced in the current campaign. The troops were obviously picked men making a desperate effort to restore lost prestige.

Soviet Comment

LONDON, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—The Italians have been beaten back and the Greeks now hold the most favourable strategic position, commented the "Red Star," official organ of the Soviet Army, yesterday.

The Italian press and radio were silent about the set-backs in Albania and were trying to divert public attention by suggesting that the Greek war was only a minor matter and that one of the decisive theatres is the Stuez Canal. As yet the Italian troops in North Africa are about 400 miles away from the canal and their Commander-in-Chief, Marshal Graziani, is even further away. The German radio said yesterday that he is now in Tripoli on a tour of inspection.

Egypt Takes New Heart

Believes Italy Doomed

CAIRO, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—The belief that the Italian forces in the Near East are doomed to surrender whether they fight on or "peacefully resign by giving themselves up," is expressed by the newspaper "Albatalch" which is among the most responsible Egyptian newspapers.

It states, "It is only a question of time until the British navy definitely cuts their lines of communication."

"At France's collapse the British forces suddenly found themselves alone and had to assume the defensive until they were redistributed and reinforced and ready again to take up a strong position. That is now accomplished, especially as regards the land forces."

The newspaper adds that Italy's blundering aggression in Greece enables the British to utilise Greek air bases to launch attacks on Italy.

"Not only will Italy suffer great material damage but the moral of her people—never very strong—will crack before long under the strain."

Greeks In Syria May Not Leave Country

CAIRO, Dec. 2 (Reuter).—Exit permits for about 3,000 Greeks of military age in Syria have been reported as being withheld on representation of the Italian Armistice Commission.

This, together with other reports from Beirut, indicates the embarrassment which is being caused to the French authorities in Syria by the Greek and British successes against the Italians.

Turkey's defence measures and resistance to Axis pressure have also made a profound impression. The French High Commissioner in Syria has issued an appeal to the populace for loyalty to the Petain Government.

It says: "We all preserve in our hearts the memory of a aggression which caused thousands of deaths but to-day as yesterday we shall take up arms against the Italian lives."

Mr. Yung Hin-chung, Former Compradore

The death occurred on Saturday at his residence, No. 24 Robinson Road, of Mr. Yung Hin-chung, former compradore of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China. He was buried yesterday morning at the Chinese Permanent Cemetery, Aberdeen.

Deceased, who was 57 years of age, leaves a widow, a married son, who is at present employed in the Bank, and an unmarried daughter.

The late Mr. Yung, who succeeded his father, Mr. Yung Hin-pang, 27 years ago when he died, retired three years ago and was succeeded by his younger brother, Mr. Yung Hin-chiu, who became the first Chinese Manager of the Bank, the compradore system being abandoned.

Deceased, who was a Justice of the Peace, was well-known in Chinese circles for his philanthropic activities and was for some time on the Board of the Tung Wah Hospital and the Po Leung Kok.

The Yung family have been associated with the Bank since its establishment in the Colony nearly 70 years ago, and the present Chinese manager's grandfather, Mr. Yung Tai-long, became the first compradore.

Wilhelmina May Go To East Indies

QUEEN Wilhelmina of the Netherlands may go to the Netherlands Indies soon, according to an American report.

Royal Gunnison, special correspondent of North American Newspaper Alliance, says he is reliably informed that the Queen and her advisers will go to Batavia (Java) for the duration of the war.

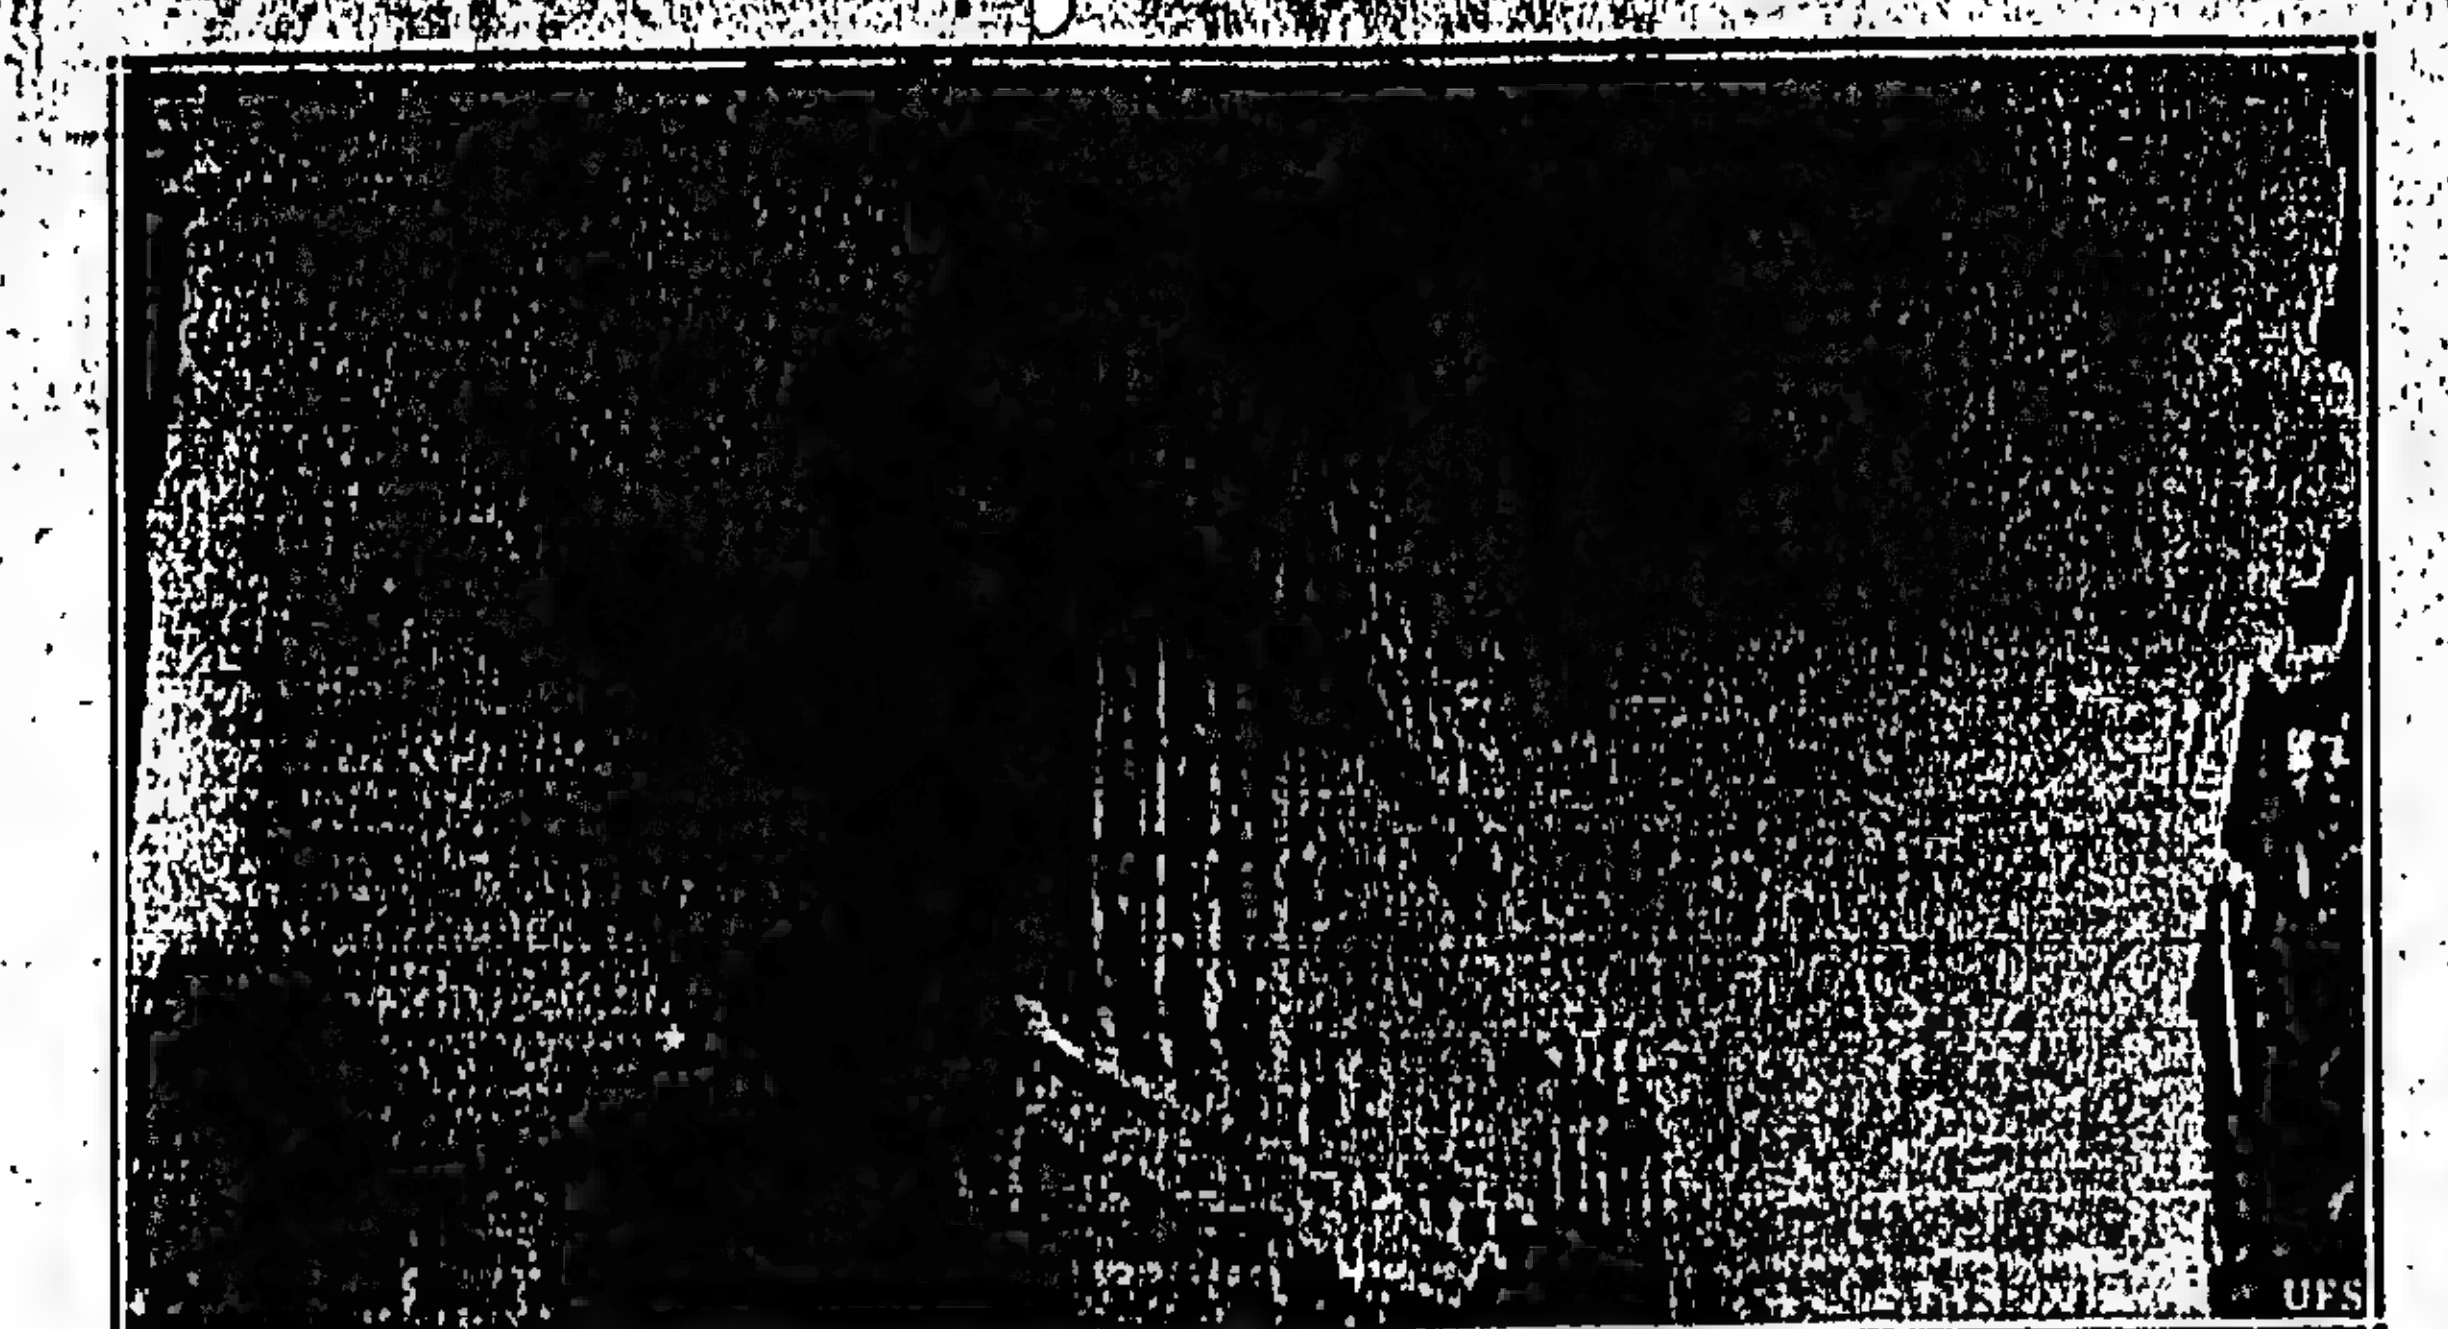

The United States may recognise the Netherlands Indies as the seat of the Dutch Government, he says, adding:—

"The Dutch are now inquiring if the United States will send a Minister to Batavia without the actual removal of her Majesty's court to the place.

"If the United States recognised the Indies as the official seat of the Dutch Government, Japan's plan to control the Indies would be more difficult.

"The Dutch are understood to believe that a 'token' Government in Batavia and a permanent Government in Holland would solidify and increase the powers of Dutch resistance."

Queen Wilhelmina and her Ministers have been in London ever since the Nazi invasion of Holland forced them to leave their country.

Britain Richer After Year Of War-Keynes

THERE HAS BEEN NO SIGNIFICANT DEGREE OF BUDGETARY INFLATION UP TO DATE, SAID MR. J. M. KEYNES IN A RECENT BROADCAST FROM LONDON. WITH WORLD PRICES FALLING AND STERLING STABLE, HE ADDED, THE DOMESTIC PRICE LEVEL IS NOT NOW RISING.

Mr. Keynes, the eminent economist, said that Britain remains richer in national wealth than she was at the beginning of 1937.

While he is convinced that new and drastic financial methods will be required when our rate of expenditure is at full flood, there has, in his opinion, been no significant degree of budgetary inflation up to date. Moreover, international prices are now falling, and sterling is stable. The result is that the domestic price level is not now rising.

Mr. Keynes said: The wastage of national resources which we have suffered so far is easily exaggerated. What, as a nation, have we lost in the first year of the war? We have parted with some of our more liquid assets in the shape of gold, etc., mainly to the United States. A million and a-half tons of shipping has been sunk by enemy action. Buildings have been destroyed from the air, but only in the last month of the year on an important scale. We have not made good all the current wear and tear of buildings and plant in use.

On the other hand, allowing for the big reserves of the main foods and raw materials which the Ministries of Food and Supply have built up, our stocks of commodities, so far from being diminished, are probably increased. After taking all these things into account, our total loss of wealth is certainly not greater than the amount by which we had increased it in the two or three years before the war; which means that after a year of war Great Britain remains richer in national wealth than she was at the beginning of 1937.

After The War

Stop thinking that after the war we shall have to lower our standards of life. I see no likelihood of that. Our loss of a million and a-half tons of ships in the course of a year is no greater than our normal capacity to build new ones in a single year. In losses by bombing from the air the case is not yet worse.

If we were to suffer a million pounds' worth of damage every night for a year we should not have lost more than 4 per cent of our buildings and their contents, or more than we could restore in a couple of years. And we have the capacity to replace what is lost by something much better.

The Budget Problem

Fortunately or unfortunately, it is not physically possible to meet more than a small proportion of the costs of war out of our accumulated wealth. The main expense of the war has to be met either by drawing resources from overseas or with what already beginning to peter out in a series of inconclusive raids, each one of which proves the superiority of our Air Force in quality and brings us nearer to the day when we shall enjoy superiority in numbers as well and can strike home at Germany far more effectively than we have done so far."

Mr. Amery said that when that day came all the positions Hitler had captured in order to be nearer to strike at us would make it easier for us to strike at his forces and at the resources upon which he depended.

Every conquest he had made so far had only helped to make our blockade more effective.

Hitler Will Be Broken Sooner Than Napoleon

The forces that broke Napoleon will break Hitler—and they will do so much sooner, said Mr. L. S. Amery, Secretary for India, broadcasting in the B.B.C. German news service.

The tide was already beginning to turn, he said, and though no man could say when the war would end, the day of retribution would come.

"Hitler may stand to-day where Napoleon stood after Jena and Austerlitz," said Mr. Amery. "The same increasing moral resistance from those whom he has conquered, the same need to break the fetters of English blockade, the same inability to go back upon his career of aggression—they will break him as they broke Napoleon. But they will break him much sooner."

Milkmen Honoured

--Pasteur Medals Awarded

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 30. (UP)—A hold-up frustrated, a boy saved from burning to death—these were two of many acts of "distinguished service in the line of duty" performed by that prosaic fellow, the milkman, within the last year.

The International Association of Milk Dealers, one of the many milk industry groups in convention here, awarded medals to heroic milkmen.

The gold Pasteur medal went to George E. Cleary, milkman for the Supplee-Wills Jones Co. at Philadelphia.

Delivering milk one morning, Cleary saw a hold-up. The robber turned, saw Cleary, threatened to blow his head off. Cleary tackled him but the man escaped amid a hail of milk bottles. He was captured later and confessed to 16 armed robberies.

Cleary received a second citation for breaking into a burning cottage and rescuing an unconscious man. He suffered serious hands and arm burns.

The second highest citation, the silver Pasteur medal, was given to Albert J. Knuemann, route superintendent of the St. Louis Dairy Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Knuemann saw a young boy, his clothing in flames, rush from a house. He bent out the flames with his bare hands, ripped the clothing from the boy's body and took him to a hospital. Knuemann covered his badly burned hands with grease and completed his milk deliveries before going home.

Mr. Howard Baker said that firearms were Beckett's hobby and he spent all his spare money in acquiring weapons of various types. The "Tommy gun" made by Beckett was only a model.

Beckett was fined £4, and the weapons were confiscated.

EXPLOSION

MUCH-BOMBED citizens may gain small consolation in learning that their troubles are caused by waves of high-pressure air, lasting about 1-10,000th of a second and created by the combustion of trinitrotoluene and ammonium nitrate. But a knowledge of high-explosives is certainly topical nowadays and may be useful.

There are hundreds of explosives, with varying powers and qualities, but "work" roughly the same way. A mixture, or compound, of chemicals which is stable enough in the ordinary way is either ignited by fire or "shocked" by a blow or minor explosion. The result is a violent reaction, producing great quantities of gas which burst the container and compress the surrounding air into an expanding steel-hard wall moving at a speed of miles a second which pushes buildings and people before it.

Following this wave of pressure comes one of low pressure—a virtual vacuum. Walls and windows damaged by the first blast are dragged outwards into the street. It has saved many in basements; killed some on the pavements.

The first explosive really dates back to the thirteenth century when Roger Bacon's experiments produced the first pure nitre which, mixed with charcoal and sulphur, makes gunpowder (The earlier Chinese "explosives" were comparative toys.) The first guns arrived early in the next century; and for years could throw only iron or stone cannon-balls. The first explosive "shells"—metal balls filled with gunpowder and exploded by a fuse consisting of a tube filled with powder—were used in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. They were not successful and did not supersede cannon-balls.

The perfection of percussion devices, which would explode on contact and set off the main charge, came only in the early nineteenth century. They made possible the modern rifle, shell and bomb, but it was mid-century before the time fuse was ready for barrage warfare.

For hundreds of years gunpowder was virtually the only explosive. This did not suit nineteenth century warfare.

By A. P. Luscombe Whyte

peris. They wanted vastly more power. And they wanted different types of explosives—for filling bombs and shells they wanted fast-burning ones which developed all their force in an instantaneous, shattering blast; for propelling shells out of their guns they needed slow-burning explosives, which would not shatter the barrels but would exert a steady growing pressure on the shells. In 1846 nitro-glycerine was produced. By spraying glycerine into a mixture of nitric and sulphuric acids, the scientists found that a thick, oily substance with dangerous habits was produced. If dropped, hit, shaken violently, it exploded with vast force. Some kinds went off if a fly was rash enough to alight on the surface.

No use as a commercial or war explosive, this. Until Nobel in 1867 mixed the temperamental nitro-glycerine with wood flour and produced a fairly stable, easily handled plastic mass which he called dynamite. A few years earlier other experimenters had treated cotton and wood-pulp with nitric acid and produced another fairly safe (if absolutely pure) explosive—ideal for filling torpedoes when they arrived later on—which was called gun-cotton. Other explosives followed. Modern warfare was about to quicken its tempo.

Form combinations of oily nitro-glycerine and solid gun-cotton came the first cordites—slow-burning, safe explosives, suitable for propelling bullets and shells. Improved cordites are used to-day (it takes an 80 lb. charge to fling a medium-sized shell). Uncompressed, and lit, they just burnt fiercely. But compressed and sent off by a percussion cap's small burst, they developed great explosive force.

Much later, but in time for the last war, came the first "super" high-explosive.

Named trinitrotoluene, T.N.T. for short, it had a tremendous blasting effect as a filler for shells and bombs. It is still being used as such to-day—despite the rumours of newer and more devastating agents.

It was not hard to make. Toluene, a liquid derived from coal, was mixed with nitric and sulphuric acids, and after a process of agitation and temperature regulation, an oil which solidified when poured into water, was produced. One of the safest—except for the enemy—of explosives.

Bombs and shells to-day are filled with T.N.T. or with an explosive called Amatol, which as a mixture of T.N.T. and ammonium nitrate, and nearly smokeless. Amatol does not explode on slight provocation so the modern bomb contains a "booster" charge of ordinary powder, which is set off by a small "percussion" charge of fulminate of mercury as the bomb hits the ground, and in turn starts off the main explosive charge.

A bomb loaded into a plane will not go off however much you belabour it. But, as it falls through the air, a tiny propeller-spinner twists off in the rush of wind, and renders the bomb "alive." The weight of steel casing, nose-cap, fins, fuses and "booster" charge is such that the actual explosive is not more than half the total weight of the bomb and—in armour-piercing bombs—is only about one-tenth.

The time-bomb, intended to crash through buildings and pavements, is stronger but molds less explosive than the contact bomb, which goes off directly it hits and causes a little crater. Acid, eating slowly through a metal container of any desired thickness, provides the "time" fuse, actuates the detonator.

Though scores of war explosives exist, T.N.T. and Amatol are about the most important. There have been rumours of a "new" liquid-air bomb, tried out with "unexampled devastation" on Barcelona. This explosive is not new and probably unsuitable for warfare. For long minors have used a cartridge of carbon, which is soaked in cold new and probably, unsuitable liquid air or oxygen immediately before it is needed, and explodes violently when detonated. No dangerous fumes are caused, but the liquid air evaporates rapidly at ordinary temperatures, and the cartridge soon goes dead.

Bombs filled with this explosive would be difficult to handle and, experts say, no more devastating than T.N.T. or Amatol. Most possible explosive mixtures and compounds have already been tried out and a new "super" filling for bombs is not likely.

Killed By Disease He Fought

SIR HENRY HEAD, one of the world's greatest neurologists, devoted most of his life to finding out more about paralysis.

He risked getting the disease by experimenting on himself.

He even cut the nerves of his legs, arm, near the elbow, to study "deep sensibility," and recorded his reactions day by day.

Eventually he fell a victim to Parkinson's disease, the form of paralysis which had occupied most of his studies.

Recently his death, at the age of 79, was announced.

Cutting through the nerves of his left arm 31 years ago led to the development of new forms of surgery being developed in the treatment of nervous diseases.

Specialists learned from this experiment how messages are transmitted from the nerves to the brain.

Nobody knew more than Sir Henry about Parkinson's disease, which is also known as trembling palsy. Trembling movements in certain parts tend to become widely diffused throughout the body.

Sir Henry became afflicted years ago. With the development of the disease he became a cripple.

As he gradually lost the use of his hands, Lady Head undertook all his correspondence and she handled his reference books for him until her death a year ago.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION GOES AHEAD

The large scale air raids on London have necessitated big calls on the blood transfusion services. Regular deliveries of blood are now being made to the hospitals, often during raids and hundreds of lives have been saved. On one day alone some 300 pints of blood were given by donors, while S.O.S. calls have met with a magnificent response.

CANADIAN PROBLEM

ALARM has recently been voiced by representatives of British Columbia at the presence in that rich province of Canada of some 30,000 Japanese, the suggestion being that they constitute a menace increasing in proportion to the strained relations between Japan and Britain in the Far East. There can be no doubt that the position certainly needs watching because fifth columnist activities have played an enormous part in this present war—and the Japanese, whose use of this potent method has been illustrated only in China so far—and then in the more obvious forms of propaganda and espionage—have proved themselves willing to study Axis styles in warfare. The suggestion is that they will insinuate themselves into the vital machinery of the foreign countries in which they are accommodated in order to assist Japan should she even go to war with the Democracies.

The Japanese community in British Columbia have repeatedly expressed their loyalty to Canada and have subscribed liberally to non-active war funds, such as the Red Cross. It would be a pity if hostile classification of alien peoples abroad were to become general. The feeling against Asiatics in British Columbia is based more on economic grounds than any other, the political aspect only giving it point. Many Japanese have lived there for decades, have raised families there, and regard British Columbia as their home.

By virtue of the wide differences in customs and creeds of the white race and Asiatics the Japanese have never mingled intimately with their Canadian neighbours, but that can scarcely be counted against them, since the whites have been equally remiss in finding a common ground of understanding. Such an understanding ought to be found in the development of the country but the lower standard of living of the Japanese is harboured as a grudge against them while they, on the other hand, feel indignant at the withholding of political freedom from Japanese-born and bred in Canada. The problem is made more difficult because the Japanese propagate rapidly; the Chinese, on the other hand, seldom bring out their wives from China and often return to their country of origin instead of making Canada their home.

Admitting that the problem cannot be solved easily, it does seem reasonable not to avoid taking the initiative in alienating a large and

THE PILOT WHO WAS "SAVED"

I WANT to know what I could truthfully have said to the man sitting next to me in a train.

By Dudley Barker

He was a tall, grey haired man, obviously not very well off. He wore an old blue suit, and his hands that fidgeted nervously with an unlit pipe were hardened by work.

In the opposite corner sat his wife, trying carefully not to show the grief she was feeling. She was middle-aged, plump, kindly-looking.

Once, as she powdered her nose from a cheap enamel flap-jack, a single tear escaped from her eye—a tear which she hastily dried with her powder puff.

HIS SON

The man and I talked desultorily of air raids, and suddenly he blurted it out. He had to tell someone.

"My son is a Spitfire pilot," he said, "and last night we had some bad news. His wife came round to tell us she had just heard he was taken to a hospital in the South-East."

"We do not know what happened to him. The girl was driven down by her father last night, and we are on our way. We heard last night that they had to amputate an arm, and that his face is badly burned. That's all we know."

I tried hard to think of something to say that would not intrude too far into his sorrow. All I could think of saying, though I knew it to be inadequate, was that perhaps there might be some comfort in the thought that the fighter pilots are the men who have saved England.

"There's the Navy, too," replied the pilot's father. "There are some fine men in the Navy."

The pilot's mother was looking from the window at a little house we happened to be passing. It had been shattered and charred by a bomb, and she said, "How terrible for the people who lived in that house."

That was all the pilot's mother said.

But the man felt the need to go on talking.

Industrious community, and incidentally furthering the doctrines of rampant nationalism being nurtured in Japan to-day. We cannot act against the Japanese because they are Oriental; we should only act against them when they become our enemies. And that action, when the time comes to take it, should be of a nature which will allow us to take up the lines of free intercourse with all people so that we do not go backwards along the path of freedom.

safe ever after from any fear of poverty and distress and the shortness of peace-time memories?

I want to know whether I could have said to that man in the train: "Your son is one of the few thousand young men who have saved England, and, indirectly, the whole world, from slavery. Because of his gallantry he has been maimed."

"But he will not be rewarded, as some men of the last war were, with the tiny official pension, a rousing homecoming, and then forgetfulness and a job selling something from suburban door to door."

What sort of a life is he going to have after this?" he asked. "A man with one arm and perhaps with his face disfigured. Do you think he will be able to hold down a civilian job after the war?"

They got out soon to change into the train that would take them to the hospital where their son lies—a Spitfire pilot with five German planes to his credit—with one arm amputated and the marks of fire on his face.

I glanced at my newspaper and read, "Fifteen of our planes are missing, but eleven pilots are safe."

Their son, then, was one of the eleven who were safe.

"I WANT TO KNOW"

But I want to know what we mean by that word "safe." Do we just mean "still alive"? Or do we mean safe not only from guns of the raiders but will it be?

"No, in gratitude for what your son has done for us we will see to it that he never suffers want or distress throughout the rest of his life. We will see to it that he and his wife live in comfort and honour, and his children get the finest education this country can offer."

"And, because we know that human memories are short when danger has passed, we are already making watertight plans to carry these promises out, and we are already putting aside the funds needed to do so, before we forget."

"We cannot presume to comfort the grief that you, your wife and your son's wife, suffer now. But we can relieve you of any fear of the future."

I DID NOT SAY THOSE THINGS TO THE MAN I CHANCED TO MEET IN THE TRAIN YESTERDAY. I HAVE HEARD NOTHING SO FAR TO MAKE ME BELIEVE THAT, HAD I SAID THEM, I SHOULD HAVE SPOKEN TRUTHFULLY.

Old Bailey Trial Goes On Despite Air Raid

During recent air raid warnings three of the four Courts at the Central Criminal Court adjourned. Sir Gerald Dodson, Recorder of London, presiding over Court 2, carried on as usual. He asked the jurors in waiting to sit at the back of the court because there was a possible danger of glass splinters falling from the glass-domed roof.

"Anybody who desires to retire—I was going to say retreat," said the RECORDER, "is at complete liberty to do so, but I have arranged to be informed if gunfire is heard; in which case I think it would be wise to adjourn."

Later, when the anti-aircraft guns began to boom, Sir Gerald Dodson adjourned his Court to his private room, where the hearing of the case before him proceeded. The prisoner was seated in a luxuriously upholstered armchair, with a warden standing by his side.

This is the first time within memory that a trial has been conducted in a Judge's private chamber at the Central Criminal Court.

In releasing the jury after the hearing of the case, the RECORDER said:—"The great thing in my view is to resist interruption. We are all in the battle, and a battle means struggling and fighting, not quietly submitting and going down to a funkhole every time someone blows a whistle."

Vichy Radio Obeys The Nazi Voice

By VICTOR SCHIFF
Former Paris Correspondent Of the "Daily Herald"

THE rapid evolution of the Vichy Government towards full-blooded Fascism is clearly reflected by the daily news bulletin broadcast by Radio Lyons, the main wireless station in unoccupied France.

On international and military news Lyons has become merely the parrot-echo of Berlin and Rome.

A month ago, although the Berlin and Rome communiques and news from Axis sources were usually given priority, British announcements had a fair deal.

Cynical Abuse

Also French domestic news was generally presented in a comparatively balanced way.

All that has changed for the worse. As in all totalitarian countries the French State wireless is now cynically misused for abusing defenceless opponents.

Thus in announcing the "administrative internment" of leaders of the Left, Radio-Lyons makes scornful and anti-Semitic comments.

Anti-British

The French wireless is becoming more and more militantly anti-British.

The reason is obvious, and sometimes implicitly admitted. It is fear of the growing sympathy of average Frenchmen with Great Britain and their hopes in British victory.

Training The Army For Peace Jobs

WHAT about a job when the war is over?

This question is in the minds of many men in the Forces.

Captain Roy Clark, Royal Artillery, is trying to answer it.

He has placed before Weymouth Rotary Club and Weymouth Chamber of Commerce a voluntary training scheme for soldiers, and several employers have promised support.

Captain Clark wants to see the idea extended to all parts of the country—and the Empire.

Chance To Learn

Employers are asked to interest themselves in small groups of soldiers and have them in their offices, works and shops during off-duty hours to give them an opportunity of learning what they can.

South Dorset Technical College is being asked to give opportunities to young soldiers to take special courses which employers would be able to supplement in a personal way.

"It would mean," said Captain Clark, "the utilisation, on a finer and clearer conception, of the immense potentialities of the British Commonwealth."

"That seems to be the key to the future peace and prosperity of the world."

A New Life

"It is an idea which would offer our people a new life which they have proved, as never before, they so richly deserve."

What the man in the Forces is thinking is told in a letter which Captain Clarke has received from a soldier, who in civilian life is a schoolmaster.

The writer says: "I have found it intensely interesting in the seven months I have been in the Army, to listen to the conversations and ponder over the thoughts—foremost in men's minds during these days of war."

"I feel certain that the majority would be far happier if only they knew that after the war they would not find themselves on the labour market, as men who had lost their skill and forgotten their business."

"It is my opinion that all forms of recreational and educational training should be encouraged."

JAPAN'S TRADE WITH UNITED STATES

ABROGATION OF PACT OF LITTLE EFFECT

By OTTO JANSSEN

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, DEC. 2. (UP).—DESPITE THE STEADY DETERIORATION OF DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS BETWEEN TOKYO AND WASHINGTON SINCE THE UNITED STATES DENOUNCED ITS TREATY OF COMMERCE AND FRIENDSHIP WITH JAPAN EARLY THIS YEAR, TOTAL TRADE BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES HAS NOT BEEN REDUCED, AND LATEST FIGURES EVEN INDICATE SOME DEGREE OF IMPROVEMENT.

Trade in certain commodities, notably petroleum products, scrap iron and steel, refined copper, automotive and aircraft parts, has declined, but the total trade between the United States and Japan has held up better than was expected.

Preliminary and hitherto unpublished figures for trade during the first eight months of 1940 show that the two countries exchanged goods valued at about $147,500,000 (M) or an increase of more than $12,000,000 (M), over a similar period in 1939.

The Treaty of Commerce and Friendship was denounced by Washington January 26, 1940, as implied evidence of United States displeasure over Japan's Far Eastern policies. At that time it was widely predicted that trade with the Island Empire would be adversely affected by the action, despite the fact that abrogation simply laid the legal groundwork for "retaliatory" economic action against Japan and did not, of itself, affect trade in any way.

However, it was felt in some quarters that termination of the pact would cause hesitation among traders of the two nations due to the fear that some "punitive" economic steps might follow.

As a matter of fact, some hesitation was manifested in both countries, but trade quickly returned to normal after the early fears were at least partially overcome.

On the basis of present statistics, some experts believe that trade between the two countries in the nine months since the treaty was abrogated may be higher than during the similar period a year ago. Statistics for this entire period are not yet available but there are several factors which may bear out this belief:

(1) Japan is believed to be increasing her purchases of some materials. An embargo on scrap iron and steel was placed on this item to take effect October 16, and Japanese ships were reported to be loading large quantities of this vital war product in order to beat the "deadline."

Predictions Difficult
Authorities said that several factors, including future steps which the United States take in her politico-economic relations with Japan, make difficult any predictions as to the future course of trade.

However, it is understood that Japan during several years has been building up relatively large reserves of some of the products which have been, or in the future might be, embargoed. As a result, Japan's purchases of scrap iron and steel, cotton and petroleum products were lower during the first seven months of this year yet the total trade was higher.

As a result, the embargo on scrap iron and steel, and any possible future embargo on certain other products, may not be as decisive a factor in the total trade between the two countries as might have been believed.

For example, Japan voluntarily drastically reduced its imports of United States raw cotton in August and September of this year, as compared with the same months of 1939. The imports in the two months of 1940 were 10,108 bales valued at $583,000, compared with 77,138 bales valued at nearly $4,000,000.

New Situation
When announcement was first made that the Japanese-United States treaty would be denounced, it resulted in widespread speculation as to the possible economic and political consequences.

However, new and more spectacular developments, principally the Japanese-German-Italian mutual assistance pact, recently have eclipsed the treaty abrogation.

Prior to Tokyo's agreement with Rome and Berlin, there had been some discussion of a new commercial accord between this country and Japan. There appears to be little possibility of such a development now because of the growing tension between the two countries, and some quarters are now urging further curtailment of commercial relations through embargoes on imports and exports.

Belgians Cut German Army Wires

All released men of the former Belgian Army now living in three districts of Liege Province are to be seized by the Germans as prisoners of war in reprisal against an act of sabotage.

The German-controlled Brussels radio, announcing this, said cables belonging to the German Army had been cut.

If the guilty parties were not discovered shortly, more reprisals would take place.

The announcer, appealed to the Walloon population not to "impede the good work" the Germans were doing by acts the consequences of which would fall on the civil population.

An eighteen-year-old Nazi pilot, wounded after a parachute descent in northwest England, was taken to hospital and, while his wound was being dressed, asked the nurse, "How far away are the nearest German troops?"

The nurse found it impossible to convince him that no German soldiers were in England. He had been assured, he said, that battalions of German soldiers were scattered over England and that they had instructions to keep-out and take care of German airmen shot down during raids.

Mussolini Has Secret Weapon in the Desert

MUSSOLINI is using his own secret weapon in the Egyptian campaign, but it has been a flop, says a "Sunday Dispatch" correspondent with the British Army in the Desert.

Every morning the British troops wake to find the desert littered with what appear to be vacuum flasks. But if anybody should touch the flasks they explode.

The flasks are a combination of hand-grenade and a miniature magnetic mine.

They are dropped from aeroplanes and when they land they become live.

I was in the Western Desert when the first of these secret weapons were dropped, says the correspondent. I spent the morning watching our engineers deal with them. Stepping carefully among the loose sand and camel scrub of the desert the sappers were locating and marking each "flash" with a petrol tin or red flag.

Cowboy Stuff

Then they were detonated by rifle fire or disposed of by skillful flogging with a rope.

Both methods produced a surprisingly loud and spectacular explosion, capable of doing considerable damage to any lorry which failed to avoid the trap.

The idea is to scatter the bombs among the camps and along roads and airfields, where it is hoped they'll act as booby traps to the unwary. But the British forces were not

NAZI CALLS FOR BREAKFAST

Just after 6 a.m., in a village on the South-east coast, came limping down the road a man in drab uniform, with one boot missing. From the window of their bungalow a young married couple named Whitmore saw him and went to meet him.

"I am a German officer," he explained. "I have had the misfortune to be brought down. My comrades are down."

It was breakfast time in rural England, so the Whitmores bade him enter, and gave him two rounds of bread and butter and two cups of tea. He expressed his gratitude, evinced great interest in a toy aeroplane with which their son had been playing, discussed the breed of their dog, and laughed heartily when shown a cartoon of the Fuehrer in the morning paper.

The breakfast routine was over, the Whitmores got out their 7 h.p. car, requested the captive to enter and drove him to the police station.

Explosion Wrecks Large Glasgow Starch Works

Ten persons are feared to have lost their lives in an explosion, followed by fire, which wrecked a large starch works in Glasgow.

Three bodies, including that of a woman, have been recovered. Twenty-eight other workers are in hospital suffering from burns and other injuries, the condition of some of them being serious. Two firemen were injured.

Fire spread rapidly after the explosion, so that the whole block was a blazing mass before firemen could reach it.

Improvements were being carried out, and about 40 employees, as well as a number of contractors' men, were in the premises when the explosion occurred, apparently in the boiler-house.

Surrounding tenements were hurriedly evacuated, and shop and house windows over a wide area were smashed by the explosion.

Italy Loses Half Of Her Trade

In a study of Italy's economic circumstances the Milan correspondent of the Berne newspaper Bundes shows that by entering the war she has lost 43 per cent. of her imports and 47 per cent. of her exports.

Her industry has lost 61 per cent. of its raw materials and 37 per cent. of the semi-finished articles it needs. Italy no longer receives any wool, cotton, jute, rubber, coffee, tea, and oil seeds.

Things, nevertheless, are not too bad, as Italy had time to prepare herself during her nine months of "non-belligerency." She gets much from Germany—for instance, 4,000,000 tons of coal a quarter. Liquid fuel, however, is very scarce, in spite of the annual output of 3,000,000 tons of synthetic petrol which covers only a fifth of the need.

The pooling and State distribution of agricultural products is giving much satisfaction, but the cost of living has greatly risen and is now higher than in Switzerland.

Woman Underground In Shelter Five Weeks

Two doctors who have been working among East End people since the big raids on London began two months ago, discovered in a large shelter an old woman, who had not been above ground for five weeks.

In a joint statement to The Times appealing for a more comprehensive policy to meet the combined effect of bombs and the rigours of winter, they said that in some London districts there were few people who did not spend every night in some sort of shelter.

Women and children, after leaving a shelter at dawn, often return and queue up before midday to ensure a place for the next night, they declared.

Something had already been done to make the more popular shelters habitable for long periods, but much must be done before the winter if disease is to be prevented from spreading like a plague. They urged that all damp shelters, and especially trench-shelters, should be condemned.

They also advocated proper disinfection, sanitation and ventilation for other shelters, to supplement medical care and supervision already undertaken by the Government.

The Minister of Supply (Mr. Herbert Morrison) has ordered that an experiment be made in issuing admission tickets for some of the London shelters which are used for sleeping in.

If the scheme is a success, it will probably be extended to provincial centres. Mr. Morrison declared he was anxious to abolish the queue "abomination" as quickly as possible. Londoners had quite enough to endure without the hardship and waste of time involved in queuing up for shelter, he said.

Miss Ellen Wilkinson (Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Pensions) invited 26 women who use various types of London shelters to meet her at the Home Office and discuss shelter problems.

More Sense From Women

After the conference, she said: "I heard more sense from these women than from expert committees."

The delegates voted unanimously against separating men from women, and emphasized the failure of efforts to prevent wives and husbands being together. By one excuse or another, they said, husbands were smuggled into quarters reserved for women and children.

The discussion reflected considerable feeling against persons who have no work, queue up early and get the best places at Tube shelters

EARLY DECLARATIONS IN VOGUE

K.C.C. Hang On Too Long Against University: Ozorio Bowls Well

One of the features of the season is the number of declarations for small totals. Sometimes they come off and sometimes they do not, but they always make for an exciting game instead of a dull draw. For instance the Small Units declared at 110 for seven wickets leaving the Civil Service eighty minutes to get the runs. The fact that the match was lost did not matter in the slightest. The cricket was interesting right up to the end.

DRAW AT K.C.C.

An example of the reverse process which cost them the game was given by K.C.C.'s late declaration against the University. What possessed Teddy Fincher to go on until he had got 171 on the board, I don't know as against the bowling at his disposal I should have put 130 as a safe score against the University who are not quick scorers though some of them can defend stubbornly. I am informed that the declaration was made just before four and that meant that with the tea interval Kowloon would only have an hour and a half to get the Varsity out. And though Lloyd was on his day with the ball, at the end only eight wickets had fallen, and only 91 stood on the board.

It is perhaps easy to be wise after the event but I can honestly say I should myself have declared at 130 or 140 at most.

THREE GOOD SCORES

Anderson as usual got a packet of runs scoring his 60 at the rate of nearly a run a minute. F. J. Lay (41) seems developing into one of our better batsmen, while Rapley, whose form is a bit in and out, got a similar number, scoring over a run a minute. I did not see the game but I deduce that either it started a bit late or there were some slow periods for two batsmen put up jointly 101 runs in about 105 minutes, and when not together, the score of the side should be made at about the rate of 1 1/2 runs per minute.

STOUT DEFENCE

Gegg (18) and K. S. Oh (20 not out) saved the side and defended stubbornly. Apart from the first two batsmen whose scores do not quite represent the value of their innings, no one else could do much against Lloyd who had the excellent figures of 8-3-26-6. K.C.C. sent down 24 overs as against the University, 23.6, and scored on an average just over three runs per over more.

L.B.O. COLLAPSE

The Indian team is, I am afraid, beginning to rely too much on A. R. Minu and A. E. Madar—their stalwarts for a good many seasons past. With Minu away and A. R. H. Esmail, A. H. Madar and K. Nazarin all making ducks they collapsed hopelessly before Ozorio (9.4-2-32-7) who, I am glad to see, seems to have found his length at last. Revere put up a typical innings. The first two batsmen made 14 and 15 respectively but the next scores were 9, 9, 1 and 8 runs. E. D. Gosano stopped the rot and Reed (27) as usual held on to things, while the newly promoted A. V. Gosano made thirty runs.

The innings closed for 120 runs but it proved good enough. I.R.C. collapsed, and the only double figure scores in their total of 58 were made by M. P. Madar (17) and K. M. Rumjahn (22). The I.R.C. were one short. I think this is almost unprecedented. I have already referred to Ozorio's bowling.

RUNS GALORE

At Sookpoo on Saturday last neither the Army nor the Club had sufficient bowling to get each other out. I was surprised at first to see both Alec and John Pearce turning out for the Army but on reflection I suppose this must be so.

It leaves the Club uncommonly weak this year in games where they cannot call up their C.S.C.C. reserves. The Army batted first and after Finch left early, Logan and T. A. Pearce settled down and each got a half century.

I rather Owen Hughes was unlucky to miss bowling Pearce by a coat of paint and also in having him dropped. The Club had only Knight and Finnie to bowl besides and they could not prevent the Army rattling up 163 for two declared. Webb made 37 not out.

A GOOD START

LAWRENCE has been making very few runs lately and he was sent in first to change his luck. It worked. He hit up a very nice 63 while Knight, who seems to have settled down to our light very well, made 49 before he was bowled by Tropp who went on a second time. The Club only wanted 51 to win when the first wicket fell but it could not be done. They hurried and the light failed and Tropp bowled six.

ceedingly well and a draw resulted. It seems that the Army have made a useful discovery in this bowler. I am told he bowls medium, comes very quickly off the pitch and turns a bit. The Army side was definitely a powerful one and in an all day match would beat the Club I think, though a place should be found for Farquar.

C.S.C.C. v. SMALL UNITS

The Civil Service had the game in their pocket when they had six down for 34 but as usual they very nearly let it get out again. Blount, who had been hit on the head by a return while running, came back again and held up things stoutly with Goss disdained anything on the off and hit the straight ones very hard to leg.

There was some very wild bowling at this time especially by Smith. Dobbison also did well and finally the Small Units made a very sporting declaration at 110 for seven; Goss was not out 45 and Dobbison 18 not out.

BUSTLE

The C.S. had, according to my reckoning, an hour and twenty minutes and had to bustle, but they got the runs. K. J. Aswell (49) who has been promoted to number one batsman, a place which seems to suit him, and Richardson (16) gave them a good start and with Perry and Houlidge both in the twenties, the runs were easily hit off.

I was very sorry to hear that there was a good deal of sickness in the field in the case of one or two of the younger members of the side. There is no excuse for this. Quick change-over between the overs is essential and if the older men can do it surely the younger can.

ROYAL SCOTS WIN

It is pleasant to see a regimental team out again. I think the Kosbies were about the last regiment to turn one out fairly often. The Royal Scots were far too good for the H.K.C.C. second who are not at their best at present.

They had quite a good side out but only Gahagan (24) and H. J. Armstrong (29) did much. I learn that Fargus was bowling pretty fast and well. Patterson was unlucky to get a full toss on his arm and had to retire. Both Bateman and Emmerson bowled very steadily to keep runs down and the former made a splendid catch in the slips to send Eric Mitchell back. The Club Captain had been in for some time for his eight singles. Bishop (13) was shaping well until he played a foolish shot and was caught.

Bateman (70 retired) was top scorer for the Regiment. I am told he has played in Yorkshire League cricket but I cannot vouch for it. The total was 173 for 8 wickets when stumps were drawn. None of the Club bowlers could do anything.

CAMPS

By the way owing to impending Camp duties the H.K.C.C. will only put out one team on the next two Saturdays.

Second Division Games

The I.R.C. second eleven had slightly the better of the game against Revere's second. A. R. Sufilad (54) and F. J. Remedios (48) did best for their respective sides. M. R. Abbas took 5 for 40 for the I.R.C.

At the Police ground there was a big crowd of low scoring as the C.S. second were all out for 50, which the Police would have found hard to get without W. Clarke's 39 not out. As it was they had 99 for 9 wickets at the close of the game.

Badminton

Annual Meeting Of St. John's

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the St. John's Cathedral Badminton Club was held last night under the Chairmanship of Dean Wilson, who was re-elected. Mr. R. W. H. Maynard, Hon. Treasurer, reported a balance in hand despite starting the year with a substantial deficit. A contribution to Cathedral funds of $50 was approved. Mr. Maynard was re-elected and Mr. David Kwok was elected Hon. Secretary. Mrs. D. Wilson and Mr. Peter Wilson were elected to the Committee.

A VETERAN

I arrived just in time to see my old friend J. L. Youngs get the last twenty runs of his 52 not out for the D.B.S. vs. Craigengower. It was a sturdy innings though, as he himself said, he did get some trips served up to him at the end.

It was fairly close but I fancy the D.B.S. would have won had there been a little more time. BAXTER SCORES For K.C.C. second Baxter knocked off 78. He seems the type of bat who comes off against weak bowling but cracks up against the better stuff. It is probably partly owing to the fact that for some years he preferred to play in the second, if I recollect aright. The K.C.C. second did not make the mistake their Seniors did and declared at 135 for 5 wickets. University could only manage 116 despite a good innings of 40 by Narayan Singh—who, as I have said before, is a good deal better than several of their first eleven bats. B. D. Lay compensated for his failure with the bat by taking 5 for 28 in eight overs.

Saturday "Tanner" On "Blitz" Forecast

Flutters At Home Are Not What Hitler Expected

A SWEEPSTAKE on Saturday's football results used to be "the thing"—now it's a sweep on "the Blitz."

And the Englishman's love of "a flutter" is helping to beat the Nazi airmen.

Thousands of employees in the offices and factories of Britain are boosting the totals of the local Spitfire Funds by having a "Saturday Tanner" on a forecast of the number of German raiders our fighters and A.A. guns will bring down in the coming week.

In many cases a good percentage of the takings goes to the local Spitfire Fund—just as it used to go to the factory's sports or welfare club.

OTHER IDEAS: INGENIOUS minds have evolved other similar ideas for helping to build aircraft. Gambling on how many German aircraft are brought down in a day, the number of air raids in 24 hours, or the nearest minute to the next air raid are the methods by which funds are raised.

The biggest thrill, however, is furnished by the air raid warning game. In this minutes are "bought" in every hour of the day, and the man who guesses the exact time when the "Banshee Howl" goes off collects his dividend.

DUO-BRIDGE

(British Made)

The Board for Two Players

Two Bridge players can use the DUO-BRIDGE Board anywhere and at any time; there is no need to go out to the Club on these black nights.

You will enjoy it in any situation, because it is the very best Bridge game for two people yet invented.

Let us admit at once that there are certain technical difficulties which cannot be overcome. We are well aware of them—but they do not affect the character of the game in any way. Neither player sees more than his own hand while bidding and only his own hand and Dummy during play.

It is obvious that peculiar bidding, psychics and wild jump-overbids are no use in such a game, indeed the hands have been very carefully selected.

French Survivor Of Attack By Bandits: Catholic Father Slain In Cold Blood

The following account of the murder in Tibet of the Frenchmen, Pere Nussbaum and M. Liotard appeared in the "N. C. D. News," Shanghai, having been sent from Tachienlu on October 25.

Yesterday M. Guibaut left the plains below. Soon after his arrival here he told us something about the shooting of his companion, M. Liotard. Apparently they had reached the wild robber Golok country so ran every known risk of being shot robbed or kidnapped. Both travellers knew what they were in for, so were quite prepared to fire the first shot.

One day, however, while travelling through some broken country, Golok brigands took advantage of a rocky defile and let go a fusillade at the Frenchmen. Both Liotard and Guibaut replied and quite a battle took place till Liotard fell in front of his companion. A Tibetan bullet got him in the chest and before Guibaut could do anything, Liotard had passed beyond the help of man. The bullets still whizzed round Guibaut and he showed us his leather coat with numerous bullet holes in it. One of the Tibetan servants accompanying the travellers was also shot.

As nothing could be done to recover the body of M. Liotard and, as the Tibetans still kept up a steady fire, Guibaut and his remaining servant retired to a lamaery and there sought shelter from the wild Golok outlaws. With a lama escort the traveller returned to Lhuo and there came on the main Lhasa road. From there to Jocko was only a two days' journey and here the Frenchman was able to get some help from the Catholic Mission.

One week later M. Guibaut arrived in Tachienlu and again took up residence with Bishop Valentin outside the south gate. Once back again in the French community the lonely traveller soon recovered his spirits. The bishops, priests, sisters and Mmes. Neel did everything to help the poor fellow, and a good supply of Ruby Queens did the rest.

Not only did he lose his companion and a Tibetan servant, but the Tibetan brigands robbed him of all his belongings, including geographical instruments and some valuable surveys of quite unknown country.

Pere Nussbaum Murdered.

Bishop Valentin has now received some details of the murder of Pere Nussbaum below Tsakalo. It appears that the Pere was on his way home from Yunnan and was only some two days from his station. Like many other Catholic fathers along the frontier, Pere Nussbaum took advantage of his visit to Yunnan and other French mission stations to replenish his cupboard with some of the things that make life worth living.

Pere Nussbaum was first captured, robbed, then held for some time and finally shot. While in the hands of the brigands and knowing that there was little, if any, hope of escape he asked the robbers if this was any return for the 30 years that he had lived among them? He told them of his life lived in loneliness and hardship to bring to them a knowledge of God's love and Christ's sacrifice on the Cross to save them.

Apparently the Catholic father was shot in cold blood and left by the roadside while the brigands cleared off with his belongings. It is now learned that the lamas had nothing to do with the murder of Pere Nussbaum. Some Catholic Sisters were travelling with the Pere and they were allowed to return in peace. It seems that the robbers were waiting for Nussbaum; robbery and murder appears to have been their intention.

With the murder of Pere Nussbaum Tibet has once more become the Land of the Lamas. While the Catholic father lived under the protection of the Tibetan flag—yellow lion on a green background—he was the only Christian missionary in Lamaland and while he lived there he was persona non grata with the Lhasa government. It now remains to be seen if the Tibetan authorities will permit the re-occupation of Tsakalo by another French priest.

New Consul-General Welcomed In Hongkong

A cocktail party in honour of the new Japanese Consul-General, Mr. Seiki Yano, given by the retiring Consul-General, Mr. K. Okazaki and his wife, was held at the Hongkong Hotel yesterday.

Mr. Yano, who recently arrived from Japan, was recently First Secretary at the Japanese Embassy in Nanking under General Abe. He was also with the China Affairs Board in Tokyo and during his Foreign Office service was in Canton from 1930 to 1933.

Mr. Okazaki, has been appointed Consul-General at Canton. Among those present were Major-

All-China Exhibition

SELECTIONS MADE

A difficult task faced the Judges of the All-China Exhibition on Saturday evening, when they were called upon to select the prints to be exhibited. Nearly 400 prints of a high standard were received, and from these a selection of about 100 had to be made as hanging space in the Peacock Lounge, Cafe Wiseman, where the exhibition is to be held, is limited.

Contrary to expectations more entries were received from photographers in Hongkong than last year in spite of the restrictions, although the Shanghai entries were slightly less in number.

The Board of Judges consisted of ten members of the Photographic Society of Hongkong, including Mr. C. Clark, Mr. Lo Tak-cho, Mr. R. A. Bates, the Hon. Secretary of the Society, and Mr. Francis Wu, the world famous exhibitor, who has recently been made an Associate of the Royal Photographic Society. The judging lasted from 5.30 p.m. till 10.30 p.m. by which time a hundred fine examples of photographic art had been chosen. These the public will see when the All-China Exhibition opens on Wednesday, December 11, in the Peacock Lounge. It will remain open from 10 a.m. till 7.30 p.m. each day, closing on Sunday, December 15. Admission will be free. Catalogues, including reproductions of eight of the pictures in the exhibition, will be on sale.—Contributed.

THE KUNMING HOSPITAL APPEAL

Headquarters: BISHOP'S HOUSE, HONG KONG

20th November, 1940.

The HUI TIEN HOSPITAL, KUNMING, has been bombed and damaged, and can no longer be used for inpatients.

HK $40,000 (about N.C. $200,000) is required, urgently, to build emergency accommodation of mud brick about fifteen miles beyond the city. With the help of the salvaged equipment (nearly all intact) the new hospital can resume its work of mercy in eight weeks. The hospital staff are ready to resume work at once.

The Bank of China has generously advanced a loan of N.C.$100,000 so that the work of building can begin without delay.

Bishop Y. Y. Tsu is Chairman of the Hospital Committee of Management. The Superintendent, Dr. H. P. Yew, is an old boy of St. Stephen's, Stanley, and a graduate of Guy's Hospital, London. He has made the hospital so efficient that it was, until the bombing, used by the Shanghai Medical College as a Teaching Hospital.

The hospital was founded 25 years ago by the Church Missionary Society who still provide a British doctor and matron as well as an annual grant. It is the only British hospital on the Burma Road between Lashio and Chungking and was, until the present war, the largest hospital in the two provinces of Yunnan and Kweichow.

Figures for 1939: Inpatients...2,837
Outpatients 69,530

With the re-opening of the Burma Road the need for this hospital is more urgent than ever.

The undersigned now appeal for the full HK $40,000 in order that this hospital may be able to minister to the many non-combatant victims of war along this war torn highway as well as resume its work of mercy among the multitudes of the South West of China.

All donations will be gratefully acknowledged by the Hon. Treasurer, Mr. S. J. Chen, Manager of the Bank of China, in Hongkong, the Treasurer, St. John's Cathedral or the South China Morning Post.

W. W. Yen (Chairman), Soong Ching Ling, (Madame Sun Yat Sen), Shouson Chow, Robert Ho Tung, Ronald Hong Kong, Robert Kewell, Li Shu Fan, Robert Lin, M. K. Lo, W. N. T. Tain, Tu Yuh Sen, C. T. Wang, Wang Hsiao Lai.

ARMED SHIP BOMBED: THAI-FRENCH FURY

Indo-China and Thailand edged slightly closer towards war on Sunday when the Hanoi authorities reported a fierce air battle above the Mekong River village of Thakek, while French forces carried out retaliatory measures against Thailand. The Thai Premier declared that the Thai Air Force was fully prepared to carry out large-scale bombing of Cambodia and Laos.

Hanoi reports declare that Thailand planes attacked a French armed vessel in the Gulf of Thailand but none of the bombs dropped hit the ship. The French replied with machine-gun fire and hit one of the attacking planes.

Commenting on the new U.S.$100,000,000 loan to China the Washington Post calls the step President Roosevelt's first major international move since his re-election. The same journal believes the action is expected not only to strengthen the Chinese resistance but also to encourage continued Soviet aid to Chiang Kai-shek.

Declaring that generosity displayed in the negotiations with the Occidental colonies may react to the detriment of Japan because leniency is exceeded, the Nichi Nichi Shimbun editorially demands the speeding up of trade conversations with Indo-China and the Netherlands East Indies.

Chungking claims that Chinese troops have smashed the Japanese offensive along a 150-mile front in north Hupeh causing the death of over 12,658 Japanese.

MARIA MARTEN'S GRAVE FOR SALE

Maria Marten's gravestone is about to change hands—though its new owner won't even know where it is unless one of the villagers points it out to him.

Maria Marten's grave is in the tiny churchyard of Polstead, in the heart of rural Suffolk. And the churchyard and church are both included in one of Britain's oldest estates, which is to be sold by auction.

Maria was foully done to death in the notorious Red Barn more than 100 years ago.

They hanged a local farmer for the deed. If it had not been for Maria's mother, who lived on to a rare old age—one or two of the villagers still remember her—the truth might never have come out.

But the mother dreamt three nights running of her daughter lying dead in that grim old barn, and when they came to dig—well, there she was.

Polstead Hall estate, as they call it, has not changed hands for 350 years.

It is "a compact small sporting estate of great antiquarian interest," say the auctioneers. (It covers 457 acres).

Picturesque Cottage

Maria Marten's cottage stands thatched, picturesque and unchanged.

The Red Barn was pulled down many years ago.

Mr. A. C. G. Lloyd, who is selling the estate, takes this Maria Marten business in good part.

"But the family has been grossly libelled," he said.

"The story has been twisted to make it appear that it was the wicked squire, one of my ancestors, who so ill-used the mole-catcher's daughter. 'Actually a tenant farmer was the culprit'."

St. Andrew's Club A.D.C. will give two performances this month in aid of the Bomber Fund—on December 17 and 19, commencing at 9 p.m.

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A Special Shave Cream—it's Not a Soap, Needs No Brush!

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed GLIDER—a special cream for daily shaving. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich cream. It won't dry on your face. Applied with the fingers, it quickly softens each whisker. A protective layer is formed over which your razor glides. Off comes each hair at the base without scraping. Like a cold cream, Glider helps keep your skin smooth all day. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

Geologist Discovers Economic Ups and Downs of Age America

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UP).—Even Ice Age America, back in the days of a mammoth and bison hunter "population," had its economic ups and downs. This is the latest revelation of this country's past, unearthed in Colorado by Dr. Frank H. H. Roberts, Jr., Smithsonian Institution archaeologist.

Finding a stratified corner at the now-famous Lindenmeier site, a camp and workshop occupied by the Folsom Man in the Ice Age, Dr. Roberts has charted about 1,000 years of very early American prehistory.

The story, told in gradually accumulated layers of earth, each containing a typical kind of stone weapon point, reveals the Folsom Man as first and oldest at this camping ground. Folsom hunters arrived sometime between 10,000 and 25,000 years ago, and more likely it was 25,000, Dr. Roberts infers from the geologic evidence.

Following bison herds through rich pastures south of the retreating ice sheet, Folsom hunters returned to this camp many summers. Their weapons were the beautifully shaped and grooved Folsom dart points, and they had time for careful work, an eye for beauty—judging by simple efforts to decorate belongings—and they even sewed their garments with eyed needles.

Other Ages

Harder times or more uncouth people followed within a few centuries, judging by the next distinct layer of earth above, containing a degenerated sort of Folsom weapon, hastily made. If the new arrivals were not Folsom descendants, they did at any rate have some of the advantages of Folsom culture.

Before they came, the camp had lain abandoned and blanketed with debris. The newcomers made brief stays only at the camp, and it looks as though they lacked the comparative ease of "better times" in America.

The camp site eventually lay vacant again, until a third wave of hunters arrived, leaving a quite different dart point.

The stratified find establishes the sequence of early Americans using these strange old weapons, and will aid archaeologists to judge the relative age of such weapons found in other parts of western United States.

Dr. Roberts believes that still another type of Folsom weapon, which has been found scattered in eastern states, represents a still later chapter of this little-known era of American prehistory.

Malay Leader's Tribute To British Government

"If the British Government had wanted to harm or rule our sacred places it could have done so years ago, but our British friends respect our religion and moreover they are not so greedy as to pounce upon unprotected countries and rob them of their liberty, as the Germans and the Italians are doing," said Inche Daud bin Mohamed Shah, president of the Malay Union, Singapore, broadcasting a Hari Raya message in Malay from the Singapore station recently.

Inche Mohamed Shah said: "All of you will agree with me that we inhabitants of Malaya have been and are living in peace under the protection of our most benign British Government, without any trouble, whatever—in fact we have been and are enjoying this protection."

Wife Of Fire Officer On Arson Charge

Mrs. Dorothy Mary Ellen Mahoney, 32, wife of Sub-Officer Patrick Mahoney, of the L.C.C. Fire Brigade, was committed for trial at the Central Criminal Court when she appeared at Stratford Police Court charged with setting fire to her home at Milner Road, Dagenham.

Previously a statement alleged to have been made by Mrs. Mahoney was read, in which she referred to quarrels between herself and her husband over a girl named Beryl who was a member of the A.F.S.

When she found that Beryl was living with her husband she went to the house, and, determined that Beryl should not have the home for which she had worked, piled some things in the hall and set fire to them.

Beryl Pizer, who described herself as an artist, living at Tredegar Road, Bow, said she was in the A.F.S. and attached to the A.F.S. station where Sub-Officer Mahoney was. She knew Mrs. Mahoney because of her visits to the station, and that Mrs. Mahoney left her husband some time in July. Later she went to look after Mr. Mahoney at his house, and she was there on August 30 when Mrs. Mahoney called.

There was a row, and when Mrs. Mahoney attempted to assault her she ran away. She returned the next morning and found that the house had been set on fire.

"Through the generosity of our Government we have been able to fulfil all our religious obligations without interference and hindrance and moreover I must not forget to mention that this year when there is a food control we are given permission to purchase an extra amount of rice for the purpose of giving out 'Itra' (charity) to the poor and the needy."

"All these kinds of worship we have been able to fulfil under the protection of the British Government without the slightest harm to our person or our property."

"Think, ladies and gentlemen, of the sufferings of humanity who are not blessed with such protection as we have had at the present moment and in the past."

"I am sure you must have, by now," he continued, "read that the Italian aeroplanes have raided the island of Bahrain and Saudi Arabia. Saudi Arabia means Jeddah and Mecca. I invite you all to imagine, for a moment the sufferings and tribulations of the people of our Holy City of Mecca and compare the luxuries which we are able to enjoy under the protection of the British Government."

"Two months and ten days hence we will be celebrating the festival of the pilgrimage of Haj, which was interrupted last year, but this year with the Italians raiding our holy places, I am afraid, many of our brothers and sisters out here will not venture the journey to perform the pilgrimage unless God in all his mercies ends this terrible war with victory to our British protectors before the pilgrimage."

"So let us all pray fervently for British victory," he urged.

Protector Of Poor

He proceeded: "Britain is not only fighting for her own country, but she is fighting as a protector of the poor and small nations and that being so, it is our duty to do all we can to help the British."

"One of the most outstanding and praiseworthy acts of our local Government has done for us consumers of rice and other foodstuffs is the control of food prices. Many of us who lived during the last Great War would remember that the price of rice then rose up to $1.40 per gantang. You can imagine, then, what would happen now if our Government does not take such a measure."

"In these hard times it is our duty to spend as little as possible on luxuries and all unnecessary things and save every cent to help our Government by investing our savings in War Savings Certificates in order to win the war."

Governor Pays Surprise Visit To Hospital

Following the showing of the film "Enough to Eat" at the Queen's Theatre yesterday, His Excellency the Acting Governor, Lieut.-General E. F. Norton, escorted by the Director of Medical Services, the Hon. Dr. P. S. Selwyn-Clarke, paid a surprise visit to the Sai Ying Fun Relief Hospital.

His Excellency was met on arrival by Dr. H. F. Tai, Medical Officer in charge, Dr. E. H. Ong and Miss Elsie Liu, the Matron, after which he inspected the hospital kitchen and enquired into the dietary, since 85 out of the 100 patients in hospital were stated to be suffering from Beri-Beri.

His Excellency later expressed satisfaction with the renovation of the former Block B of the Government Civil Hospital, which was due to be demolished, and its conversion into a useful relief hospital.

Short Wave Laboratory To Be Moved

PALO ALTO, California, Nov. 29 (UP).—The Stanford University Klystron Laboratory will be moved immediately to Garden City, N.Y., it was announced by R. E. Gillmore, president of the Sperry Gyroscope Co., licensee and distributor of the Klystron—a device for developing ultra short radio waves.

Gillmore said the national defence programme had caused such expansion in his company's research activities in developing new aircraft instruments that facilities here were inadequate.

Dr. David Locke Webster, head of Stanford's Department of Physics, Dr. William Hansen, one of the inventors of the Klystron, Sigurd Varian, who is also an aeroplane pilot, Dr. Russell Varian, his brother, who aided in its development, and three other Stanford scientists will go to Garden City, where the Sperry firm has a plant.

WAR INDUSTRIES IN U.S. GROW

America's war industries are growing rapidly and their rate of increase is understood to be partly caused by war stimulated activities.

A significant feature of rising industrial operations is the expanding payrolls which are reported to be increasing more rapidly than the numbers of the workers, with most of the difference between them coming into existence since the outbreak of the war in Europe.

The present war industries are considered by the U. S. department of Labour as including shipbuilding, aircraft, machine tools, engine production, aluminium and explosives. These six industries, however, are not given alone to the production of war materials, and it is believed that for the present perhaps they are not in the aggregate even predominantly war industries.

At the beginning of 1938 the average pay per worker in the United States was estimated at $28.19 per week, while in July of this year it had increased to $36.08, or an advance of nearly 30 per cent. The employment of larger proportions of skilled workers and the payments for overtime work are believed to have accounted partly for the increase in payrolls.

Number Of Workers

The total number of workers, however, are reported not as large. During July of this year shipbuilding was understood to have employed about 93,000 workers and aircraft production a little more than 77,000. Machine tool making had some 60,400 workers, or nearly as many as aircraft production. In the making of engines, including aero-engines, there were about 53,700 employed and in aluminium manufacturing 27,800. The explosives industry employed only 7,000.

What is regarded as an astonishing fact is that the rate of increase in the volume of employment in these war industries do not appear to have been much accelerated either by the actual outbreak of war in Europe, or by the initiation of America's own preparedness programme.

It was noted that from January to July of last year before war began employment in these war industries increased 21 per cent, while from January through July of 1940 it increased by 26 per cent.

On the other hand, the payrolls have moved up more rapidly, having increased by 22 per cent during January through July of last year and by 29 per cent during the same period of 1940.

FASCIST REGIMES DENOUNCED BY MUSLIMS

RESOLUTIONS expressing "sincerity in the cause of Turkey, Egypt, Persia, Syria, Arabia and other Muslim countries" and condemning the brutality of the Nazi and Fascist dictators were adopted unanimously at a mass meeting of the Muslims of Singapore recently.

The Muslims also pledged "moral and material support for all necessary measures in case of any attack upon" Turkey, Egypt, Persia, Syria, Arabia and other Muslim countries "which are good allies of Britain."

That this mass meeting of the Muslims of Singapore held at the Sultan Jamia mosque, Singapore, on Nov. 1, 1940, strongly condemns the brutal acts of the dictators of Nazism and Fascism, which are destroying the peace of the world, and prays most fervently for the successful victory of the British Empire which is defending the right cause of the peace of the world.

Further, that this mass meeting of the Muslims resolves to express its sincerity in the cause of Turkey, Egypt, Persia, Syria, Arabia, and other Muslim countries which are good allies of Britain and its heartfelt sympathy towards those Muslim countries, while pledging to render its moral and material support for all the necessary measures in case of any attack on them or on either of them.

The meeting was presided over by Capt. N. M. Hashim, Malay member of the Legislative Council.

The resolutions were moved by Mr. T. A. M. Abdul Aziz, president of the South Indian Muslim League, Singapore, and were seconded by Hajj Imam Ali, chief of Imams of Singapore.

All sections of the Muslim community attended the meeting.

Overseas Evacuation Of Children Stopped

EVACUATION of children overseas is to stop—during the winter, at least—it was recently announced from Downing Street. The Government has reluctantly decided that during the season of gales and heavy seas they cannot take the responsibility of sending the children, the official statement added.

Although the operation of the scheme has been suspended, it has not been abandoned. Whether it will be resumed next year will depend on conditions then prevailing.

The recent sinking of a vessel carrying children overseas has illustrated the dangers to which passengers' vessels are exposed, even in convoy, under the weather conditions in the Atlantic.

The Government recognises the keen disappointment that will be felt by parents who had hoped to send their children overseas under the Government scheme, and they express their warm thanks to the many people in the Dominions and the United States who have offered hospitality.

About 2,850 children have already gone overseas under the scheme. The parents of these children are assured by the Government that there will be no interruption of the arrangements made for their welfare in their new homes.
